SESSION 1971

FIRST DAY

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Wednesday, January 13, 1971

This day, in accordance with Chapter 1181 of the Session Laws of 1967 and the Constitution of the State of North Carolina, which fixes the date for the meeting of the General Assembly of North Carolina, the members-elect of the House of Representatives assemble in the House Chamber of the State Legislative Building in the City of Raleigh at 12:00 noon and are called to order by the Secretary of State, Mr. Thad Eure.

Prayer is offered by the Reverend Lamar Eiland, Pastor of the Gatesville Baptist Church.

"Our Heavenly Father, Thou who art the creator and sustainer of all life, from whom we came, in whom we live and move and have our being, and to whom we shall go, we pray that our hearts may be conscious of Thy eternal presence this day.

"Forgive us for living only within the narrow confines of our own sinful lives, for failing to realize the largeness of the spiritual world around us and for devoting our energies and time so often to the lesser of life's objectives. We pray Thee to widen and deepen our life experiences, to keep us in sympathetic touch with all mankind, and to help us make of our lives a genuine contribution to our world.

"We thank Thee, Our Father, for our nation and for her men and women who have given their lives to preserve freedom for all our citizens. Grant us grace to be as courageous in living for a better country as they were in dying for it. Grant that through all of the dark clouds of war, hatred, prejudice, violence and trouble there may come the brilliant light of peace into our world and into our individual lives through the Prince of Peace.

"We thank Thee, Our Father, for the blessings of life which have brought us to this high hour. We stand this day at the seat of earthly authority with a keen awareness of our appreciation for our government, for its capable leaders, and for the people of our great state of North Carolina. We humbly pray Thy divine blessing to be upon this assembly as it begins the carrying out of the many responsibilities. May there be an awareness of Thy presence in the days of deliberation and decision to come. Grant unto each representative the wisdom of Solomon, the courage of Joshua, the boldness of Amos, the concern of Jeremiah, the patience of Job, the fortitude of the early apostles and the example of life and sacrificial love of our Lord Jesus Christ.

"We pray for divine favor to be upon the one who is in the place of leadership of this assembly. Grant to him special strength, perseverance, patience and wisdom. We realize the awesomeness of his responsibilities and the weight he at times will bear upon his shoulders.

"We beseech Thee, Our Father, that there may be a common bond among us and with Thee as we work and strive together for the betterment of our state and its people. May the dictates and desires of Thy Will be carried out in these days. To Thee and to this task we commit ourselves today. In the name of the Father, the Son and the Holy Spirit, we have prayed together. Amen."

The roll is called and all of the above listed members-elect, except Mr. Fulton, answer when their names are called.

Mr. Holshouser reports that, due to illness, Mr. Fulton is unable to be present.

The one-hundred-eighteen members-elect who are present take and subscribe to the following oath of office, which is administered by the Honorable William H. Bobbitt, Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of North Carolina.

OATH FOR MEMBERS OF THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

"I solemnly swear (or affirm) that I will support the Constitution and the laws of the United States, and I do solemnly and sincerely swear (or affirm) that I will be faithful and bear true allegiance to the State of North Carolina and to the constitutional powers and authorities which are or may be established for the government thereof, and that I will endeavor to support, maintain and defend the Constitution of said State, not inconsistent with the Constitution of the United States, to the best of my knowledge and ability; and I solemnly swear (or affirm) that I will faithfully discharge my duties as a member of the House of Representatives of the General Assembly of the State of North Carolina to the best of my skill and ability, according to law, so help me, God."

One hundred eighteen members having answered the roll call the Secretary of State declares a quorum is present.

The Secretary of State announces that the first order of business is the election of a Speaker, and declares the nominations are in order:

ELECTION OF OFFICERS

Representative Dwight W. Quinn places in nomination the name of Representative Philip P. Godwin for Speaker of the 1971 House of Representatives.

"Mr. Secretary of State, members of the North Carolina Supreme Court, ladies and gentlemen of the House and guests, it is my pleasure and privilege to nominate for your consideration as Speaker of the 1971 North Carolina House of Representatives the Honorable Philip Pittman Godwin of Gates County.

"Because of the absence of the veto power of the Governor of North Carolina and due to the unusual makeup of the General Assembly of this State, it is often referred to as the most powerful legislative body in the nation.

"The exercise of this tremendous power in the best interest of all the people of North Carolina is a responsibility of great proportions and requires leadership of the finest caliber.

"When Phil Godwin came to this House as a freshman member in 1961 it was soon evident to all concerned that he had the outstanding ability to lead.

"The Speaker of this House must have the complete confidence of every member, a thorough knowledge of the character and ability of each of us and a fine sense of humor in order that he might organize and preside over each session in a fair and orderly fashion in which all the people of North Carolina can be proud. He must have at his finger tips, for instant use, all of the Rules of the House, all of the rules of parliamentary procedure and all of the rules of human nature, together with the judgment, the ability, the courage to use them to enact good legislation and to curb legislation that would not be in the best interest of our people.

"Mr. Secretary and ladies and gentlemen of the House, I submit to you that the Honorable Philip Godwin of Gates County has all of these qualifications and many more.

"Phil Godwin was born in Gatesville, the county seat of Gates County, the youngest of five sons of Adolphus Pilston and Mabel Claire Hayes Godwin, whose forebearers go far back in the history of that section of the state and whose family members even now serve the state in responsible positions.

"Upon his graduation from Gatesville High School and Fisburne Military School, he attended Wake Forest College and Wake Forest Law School. He received his LLB degree in 1956 and like his father, has distinguished himself as an outstanding lawyer in northeastern North Carolina.

"Phil Godwin has an outstanding record as a legislator having served on all major committees of this House and as Chairman of most of them. He has served us well as our interim speaker. As our interim speaker, he has served as Co-Chairman of the Legislative Research Commission and Co-Chairman of the Legislative Services Commission and has represented you and all the citizens of North Carolina at many state, regional and national meetings during the past 18 months. He has spent many hours unselfishly from his home and office to perform the duties as our interim speaker.

"The people of his hometown of Gatesville, his home county of Gates and throughout the State of North Carolina have called upon his many talents and he has responded most graciously and ably. He has served his local church and his community well in responsible positions and other worthwhile community activities.

"He has served as President of his district Bar Association and at the beginning of the 1969 Session, the Democrats elected him to lead them as Chairman of the Democratic Caucus of the House. Phil Godwin distinguished himself while serving his country during World War II a Staff Sergeant with the United States Air Force from 1943-1945 in the Pacific theater of operations.

"Many good fortunes have come his way throughout his life and I am sure the most outstanding good fortune was his marriage to the former Anita Thomas Freeman of his home county in 1950. Phil and Anita have one son, Philip Pittman Godwin, Jr., an outstanding athlete during his high school career and who is now a freshman at Wake Forest University in Winston-Salem.

"Last December 11th, the Democratic members here in the Hall of the House, unanimously nominated Philip P. Godwin as their candidate for Speaker of the 1971 Session of the North Carolina House of Representatives.

"Mr. Secretary of State and ladies and gentlemen of the House, it is my considered opinion that the Honorable Philip Pittman Godwin is the best qualified man to serve as our Speaker; therefore, I am proud to place his name in nomination for your consideration to this high office."

The nomination is seconded by Representative Barbee.

"Mr. Chairman, members of the House, members and friends of the Godwin Family, it is my privilege and pleasure, and indeed an honor, to second the nomination of Philip Pittman Godwin for Speaker of the 1971 House of Representatives of the General Assembly of North Carolina.

"Phil Godwin and I came to the House of Representatives in 1961 as freshmen members, and we have served together continuously for all sessions since that time. The others who came with us as freshmen in 1961 have sometime been referred to as 'The Class of 1961'; and if my memory is correct, there are only five out of that group who are still here.

"The various committee assignments and chairmanships Phil Godwin has held during those years have given him a good foundation to serve as Speaker of the 1971 Session.

"It is my prediction that Phil Godwin will serve with distinction as Speaker of what has been predicted to be the most difficult session to be faced by the General Assembly in many years, and I am not only proud to second his nomination, but also proud to be a part of the group which will be serving with him."

Representative Chase also seconds the nomination.

"Mr. Chairman, distinguished guests on the floor of the House, fellow House members and other guests and friends, it is indeed a pleasure for me to have the opportunity of seconding the nomination of the Honorable Philip Godwin as Speaker of the House of Representatives for this 1971 Session of the General Assembly.

"I consider this a personal honor and privilege because I believe that Phil Godwin has the capabilities and strength so necessary to administer such important business as this of the Speaker of the House. His qualifications for this position are many. I did not know Phil personally until I came to the Legislature in 1963. During that session I did not have the opportunity of working with him very closely; however, sitting just back of him on the floor of the House I did have the opportunity to observe his performance. In that observation I noted many characteristics which I have a great deal of respect for in any person. I immediately noted a trait of dependability and a strength to vote his convictions. At all times you can depend on Phil's word. In soliciting his support on a measure, and if he feels that he must cast a negative vote on this measure, he is always in a position to give you a positive reason for his action. Since I have had an opportunity to work more closely with Phil, I have come to appreciate his overall strength of leadership and character. His sympathetic understanding and knowledge create an atmosphere that makes it easy for any of us to approach him at any time on any matter or with any problem. I feel that through the years the North Carolina House of Representatives has been fortunate to have strong and capable people as our Speakers, and I believe that Phil Godwin will add another strong link to that already strong chain. All of us have been warned that this will be a long, hard-working, and controversial session. It is possible that more legislation will be offered during this session which will affect the total citizenry of the State more than in any previous session, and I know of no other person more capable to be at the helm than Phil Godwin.

"And so, I take great pride in seconding the nomination of the Honorable Philip Godwin for Speaker of the House of Representatives for this 1971 Session of the North Carolina General Assembly."

Also seconding the nomination is Representative Taylor.

"Mr. Secretary, members of the Supreme Court, ladies and gentlemen of the House, I rise as the Minority Leader of this House to second the nomination of Representative Philip Godwin for the office of Speaker of the 1971 General Assembly.

"During the past sessions that Philip Godwin has served in the legislature the attitude of the General Assembly has changed from one that often refused to consider a minority proposal to one of mutual co-operation where many Republican proposals have been enacted into law for the betterment of North Carolina.

"The Republican delegation plans this session, as it has in the past, to provide progressive proposals to this body. We expect and believe we will receive fair consideration for our proposals and co-operation in much of its enactment.

"In like turn our delegation will endorse and work for many of the worthy proposals presented by the majority party.

"This session with the multitude of pressing problems before it, will demand the maximum of co-operation from both the majority and the minority delegations.

"It is because of our firm belief that Philip Godwin will be fair and just in his dealings with each and every member of this body and that he will work to promote an attitude of co-operation that our delegation seconds and supports the nomination of Representative Philip Godwin for Speaker of the 1971 General Assembly."

The Secretary of State having declared the nominations closed, requests that the roll of the House be called and the following members vote for Representative Godwin:

Representatives Andrews, Arnold, Auman, Baker, Barbee, Barker, Beam, Beard, Beatty, Blake, Bostian, Bright, Brown of Stanly, Brown of Wilkes, Bryan, Bumgardner, Bundy, Burrus, Campbell, Chase, Clark, Cobb, Collins, Culpepper, Davis, DeBruhl, Eagles, Everett, Falls, Farmer of Forsyth, Farmer of Wake, Fenner, Foley, Frye, Gardner, Gentry, Green, Hardison, Harkins, Harris, Haynes, Hege, Hicks, High, Hightower, Holshouser, Hunt, Hunter, Huskins, Ingram, James, Jemison, Jernigan of Cumberland, Jernigan of Hertford, Johnson of Cabarrus, Johnson of Johnston, Johnson of Robeson, Johnson of Wake, Jones, Josey, Kemp, Kincaid, Lawing, Leatherman, Lilley, Long, Love, Marion, Martin, Mason, Mauney, Mayfield, McDaniel, McFadyen, McKnight, McMichael, Messer, Miller, Mitchell, Mohn, Nash, Odom, Paschall, Patton, Payne, Penton, Phillips, Quinn, Ramsey of Madison, Ramsey of Person, Raynor, Rhyne, Roberson, Rogers, Rountree of New Hanover, Rountree of Pitt, Royall, Short, Smith of Guilford, Smith of Iredell, Smith of Orange, Snyder, Soles, Speed, Speros, Stevens, Stewart, Tart, Taylor, Twiggs, Venters, Vogler, Warlick, Watkins, Webster, Whichard, and Wynne—117.

The Speaker, escorted to the Chair by Representatives Culpepper, Penton, Bumgardner, Ramsey of Madison, Roberson, takes and subscribes to the following oath of office administered by the Honorable Walter W. Cohoon, Resident Superior Court Judge, First Judicial District.

"I, Philip P. Godwin, do solemnly swear that I will support the Constitution of the United States, and I do solemnly and sincerely swear that I will be faithful and bear true allegiance to the State of North Carolina and to the constitutional powers and authorities which are or may be established for the government thereof; and that I will endeavor to support, maintain, and defend the Constitution of said State not inconsistent with the Constitution of the United States, to the best of my knowledge and ability; and I do solemnly and sincerely swear that I will well and truly and faithfully execute and discharge the duties of the Office of Speaker of the House of Representatives of the North Carolina General Assembly according to the best of my skill and ability, according to law; so help me, God."

The Speaker, Mr. Godwin, approaches the dais and makes the following remarks:

"Mr. Secretary of State, Judge Cohoon, Mrs. Chase, Mrs. Odom and fellow members of the House, friends from the First District and other distinguished guests:

"By electing me your Speaker you have bestowed upon me one of the greatest honors of my life. You have also placed a great responsibility within my hands; this fact has become so real within the last two weeks. The first responsibility that any Speaker has is the appointment of Committees, which is no small task. I know that some of you will probably be disappointed in the fact that you will not become the chairman of the committee that you desire or that you will not serve on a particular committee. However, I can assure you that I shall try to follow as nearly as possible your requests in the appointment of committees and I am confident that working together for what is best for our great State instead of what is best for us as individuals that the 1971 General Assembly will be one of the most responsive General Assemblies to the demands which are facing us in the day and time in which we legislate and live.

"In order that you may have a better understanding of the results of the committee appointments, I would like to briefly review some of the factors involved in my method of selection:

"(1) I am trying to follow your preferences as nearly as possible.

"(2) Seniority and experience must be considered.

"(3) Geographical balance must be used to assure even representation across our State.

"(4) I am giving consideration to equalizing the first-termers on each of the committees.

"(5) Consideration must be given to the number of committees each member will serve on—it's not how many committees you have that counts, but the kind of job you do on the ones you have.

"(6) I am also trying to be fair and honest with the minority party.

"By a combination of all these, I believe we will have a strong and responsible committee system in this session.

"We are living in the latter part of a fast moving Twentieth Century. We read and hear of topics such as the concern that mankind has about his environment. We read and hear about the concern that mankind has toward his fellow man and we tend to listen with more interest to the citizens of our State, more than our forefathers. I do not mean to imply that we have not had good government in this State in the years past for this would be untrue. Our record speaks for itself; however, it is building upon our foundation of good government that this General Assembly will be faced with. We will be faced with more complexing problems of a more demanding population and society in which we live and we cannot afford to rest and lean upon the past. I am pleased to advise you that in my opinion the 1971 General Assembly will be better equipped to perform the task that lies ahead. We have a very capable and experienced legislative officer in Mr. Ball. He and his staff have been working to provide us with the information and research which we as individual legislators need to better equip ourselves to properly represent our districts. And other staff members including our Principal Clerk, Sergeant at Arms, Reading Clerk, and their staffs are ready to serve you and I am sure that you will find that they are willing to assist you in any way that they can.

"I will not attempt to give you a legislative review of what to expect, I am sure that you are aware of the issues which will be facing us. I encourage you to prepare yourself with the information available regarding any issue and vote your conviction, keeping in mind your oath of office. We have had to add two additional committees to those we worked with in the '69 Session, the Committees on Congressional Districts and Legislative Districts. I know first hand that this will be a most difficult task for us to perform. However, we must face our responsibility and get the job done as soon as practical. In my experience in this Body, I have learned that we as representatives must be willing to accept compromise without sacrificing principle. Good government comes about through honest willingness to compromise and legislate for what is best for our State and by being willing to make personal pride secondary.

"I can assure you of one thing, that I have never served with a group of individuals whom you will hold in more esteem when the battle is over than this legislative body. I would be amiss if I did not say a word of special thanks and gratitude to the people of the First District who have placed their confidence in me by electing me as one of their representatives and especially my friends from my native county of Gates.

"I feel humble and grateful to you my fellow members for the position which you have given me today. This is especially true because I now have the distinguished honor of being the first person to be the Speaker of the House of Representatives from my county and from my section of the State. I accept the challenge which lies ahead with a pledge to perform the duties of my office, keeping foremost in my mind the importance of being fair, impartial, patient and understanding. As I stated to you when I was sworn in as interim speaker, if I have obtained any success here today I would like to give full credit where it is due. First of all, to my parents, who provided me with a Christian home and only the best influence that can be expected; to my wife and son, who have always assisted me and given me strength when the occasion demanded it and to my friends who have expressed trust in me."

The Speaker assumes the duties of the Chair and announces that nominations are in order for Principal Clerk of the House of Representatives.

ADDRESS BY THE GOVERNOR

"Mr. President, Mr. Speaker and members of the General Assembly of North Carolina:

"Welcome back to Raleigh, the seat of our State Government. My associates and I in the Executive Branch of government look forward to working with you during this 129th General Assembly.

"Many tasks before you will be difficult but not impossible. They will be complex but not unsolvable, demanding, but worthy of your best efforts. Working together we can advance North Carolina great lengths on the road of progress.

"North Carolina's strength is in her people. To their advancement I am dedicated. The programs I will present for your deliberation reflect this conviction.

"You are the representatives of more than five million of the world's finest people. Some of them are wealthy; far too many are poor and hungry. Some are gifted with physical or mental talents, others are handicapped. Some live deep in mountain coves or on lonely stretches of sandy roads. Others are surrounded by concrete, steel, and neon lights. Some are professionally gifted, while others labor with their hands.

"But all of us, regardless of our environment, social status, ethnic background, natural abilities, or economic standing — all of us are citizens of North Carolina.

"As you go about your important work in the coming months, remember the sovereignty of these people. Remember that . . . 'all political power is vested in and derived from the people; all government of right originates from the people, is founded upon their will only, and is instituted solely for the good of the whole—the people of this state have the inherent, sole, and exclusive right of regulating the internal government . . . '[1]

"I am proud of the progress and accomplishments of the first two years of my administration. The last General Assembly responded to my requests for new and expanded programs and provided the funds for implementing them. There have been some disappointments, particularly in the field of housing. But the achievements far exceed and overshadow the few disappointments.

"I will not document the progress that has been made since you last met. I do hope you have taken the opportunity to read my annual reports, which have been made available to you."

STATE'S ECONOMY

"The financial affairs of our State are in good order. Our fiscal position is sound and healthy. Even though we had a downturn in the economy last year, the outlook can be viewed with cautious optimism. Revenue collections are strongly influenced by the national economy and, of course, the future of the national economy is still unsettled.

"With your permission, I will appear before you next week to detail my budget recommendations. It will be my first full budget presented to you. It will be unique in at least three respects:

"(1) My pledge of a new partnership with local governments will be more fully implemented by new approaches to provide financial relief to local governmental units; (2) Although it will be the most far-reaching budget in the state's history, it provides for the fewest number of additional state positions in fourteen years and (3) It is the largest general fund capital improvement budget in the history of the State and total capital improvement budget.

"My budget will be a moderate budget, for a moderate State, with moderate financial resources."

HUMAN RELATIONS

"The decade of the Sixties was a period of unparalleled economic growth. Our State and our people prospered. But it was also a period of unrest and uncertainty, too often marred by civil disturbances. Some of this carried over into 1970.

[1] Article I, Sections 2 and 3, "The Declaration of Rights", Constitution of the State of North Carolina.

"Unfortunately, tension and even disruption have at times prevailed in our social, economic and educational life. Often tensions have been eased by the outstanding work of the North Carolina Good Neighbor Council and the Human Relations Division of the Department of Public Instruction. Many situations have been resolved or lessened in intensity because of their quiet and effective behind-the-scenes work.

"In addition, many dedicated citizens have given much time and effort in their communities to the improvement of human relations. All are to be commended.

"As a result I believe we have turned the corner in North Carolina and that the decade of the Seventies will be a new era of human harmony. We recognize there are far too many problems that need our combined energies and talents rather than for us to be engaged in divisive and destructive issues.

"Let us be done with destruction. Let us be done with violence and threats. Let us dedicate ourselves to improving the quality of life for all our people."

STATE GOALS AND POLICY

"In my message to you two years ago, I stated that I wanted my administration to be known for its concern with planning for the future of North Carolina.

"My emphasis on planning stems from a basic desire to see the total efforts of government directed more effectively towards the achievement of a good life for all the people in North Carolina.

"During the past two years, we have laid the foundation for an action program that will play a major role in guiding our future efforts to improve the physical, economic and social environment for our people.

"It does not make good business sense to spend billions of dollars in State government activities without taking a hard look at the goals and needs of our people and attempting to set priorities within the framework of our ability to meet these goals and needs.

"We must not stumble into the future. We need to examine where we are, what it is we want to achieve, how to do it, establish priorities and set a timetable for reaching our goals. Having done this, then all activities of State government — the programs of all departments — can be directed in harmony to achieve these State goals. When the reorganization of the Executive branch of State government is achieved in 1975, I am convinced this task will be easier. We must plan for it now.

"Therefore, I recommend statutory authority for a Council of State Goals and Policy. This Council would be a high-level advisory body to consider, across the board, all activities of State government that relate to the development of our State."

MANPOWER DEVELOPMENT

"While North Carolina's per capita income is improving, it is still far too low. Looking beyond the dollar mark, the figures really tell the vivid story of the more than 166,000 North Carolinians looking for work. They tell about the more than 107,000 citizens who need work but have given up looking and about the more than 411,000 who are working but well below their capacities.

"Industry needs a dependable, motivated work force. Estimates are that more than 887,000 jobs will be opening up in North Carolina in the next 10 years.

"Who will fill those jobs? We will need fewer agricultural workers and more manufacturing workers.

"For the kinds of jobs available in the State today, North Carolina has more than 108,000 too few high school graduates. For some types of jobs, we have too many college graduates.

"In short, North Carolina has a 'manpower' problem.

"To help solve it, I am recommending to you a State Manpower Council, which will create a model State Manpower Plan. The Council will evaluate programs currently being conducted in State, federal and local agencies in the manpower field.

"Some general goals for the Council would be the expansion of a demonstration of the full range of manpower services and the expansion of the services of the Employment Security Commission. We need to prepare all our citizens with the technical or vocational skills to succeed in the work force. Many of our citizens don't know they have these skills.

"Surveys could be made to find out why people are not fully productive. And they also could be made to find out why some industries are experiencing a turn-over and a large number of job vacancies.

"The State can and must take the lead in the effort to prepare our citizens to be included in the work force for tomorrow's job opportunities. In this process, North Carolina's people will be the major beneficiary."

MINIMUM WAGE

"Inflation has substantially increased the cost of living. Although many of our businesses and industries already pay wages well above the State's present minimum law, there is a need to increase the minimum wage for some employees.

"Therefore, I recommend the State minimum wage law be amended to increase the minimum wage from $1.25 to $1.60 per hour."

PUBLIC SCHOOLS

"Much progress has been achieved in our public school program during the past two years. Dr. Craig Phillips, the Board of Education, the Learning Institute and all their staffs have done a thoughtful, dedicated job. But major credit must go to the teachers and school administrators in our 100 counties who make our public school program successful.

"For the first time we have the beginning of a public school kindergarten program. It's a small start, but it will be tripled under my budget proposals. Those pre-school children who were enrolled in the initial program received extensive testing when they entered kindergarten. Their score ranked them as a group in the bottom third nationally of children in this age group. Now, tests show that the same group, after the pre-school experience, ranks in the top third nationally. The program has paid for itself many times over. We must expand it as rapidly as our resources will permit so that it will eventually include all of our pre-school children.

"The school drop-out ratio has always been a problem. It remains yet too high. But we have been able to reduce the drop-out percentage during the past two years. One significant program that makes this possible was enacted at my request by the 1969 General Assembly. That program, called occupational exploration in the middle grades, enables youngsters who are in their early teens to learn more about the world of work by actually receiving "hands on" work experience through occupational learning in business and trades. It is proving highly successful.

"Free transportation for students living within our urban areas is an unresolved issue. This General Assembly needs to define clearly the policy of the state regarding the scope and extent of transportation services for public school students.

"I recommend that a statement of policy be established to clearly provide free transportation for urban students in order that they may enjoy the same privileges from tax funds as the state has accorded rural students for many years.

"For the first time in a number of years, the average daily public school attendance is estimated to decline by the 1972-73 school year. This will result in 635 fewer regular teaching positions in the next biennium. I will, however, request an additional 100 teachers for children requiring special education, and 100 more occupational education teachers.

"What we are witnessing, of course, is a decline in our public school enrollment while the enrollment is increasing in our community colleges, technical institutes, along with our public senior institutions.

"My proposed budget recommends a five percent increase in salaries for all public school personnel for the first year of the biennium and an additional five percent the second year.

"This is less than the amount being sought by our professional public school personnel. But it is the same increase being recommended for all other state employees and for personnel in our post-high school learning institutions.

"If we had substantially more revenue, than larger salary increases could be recommended. But the State would need more than $140 million in addition to what has been recommended in order to achieve the national average goal.

"About 70 cents of each tax dollar in North Carolina is earmarked for education. About 50 cents goes to public school education.

"We all want the best for our children and North Carolina has increased her support of public school education by 162.7 percent in the last 10 years.

"Our people support education and statistics show that we rank eighth in terms of State and local government expenditures for all public education as a percent of total general expenditures.

"We are putting a larger percentage of available revenue into public education than 41 other states. (Tied with Colorado.)

"As you know, public education in many States receive substantial financial support from local sources. North Carolina supports her public school program in all 100 counties and has since 1933, when the State assumed that responsibility.

"The tasks of our public school teachers and officials today are not easy. What our public school people need as much — and maybe more — than money in their paychecks is a renewed expression of confidence on the part of the public. We need to show our faith in the public school system. We must show stronger support and greater understanding of our professional school personnel.

"I call upon all citizens, students, parents, businessmen, everyone to renew their faith in and support for our public schools and the dedicated personnel who make our system successful.

"I am recommending to you proposals that will increase the benefits for our retired teachers and State employees who were or are now members of the teachers, highway and state employee associations.

"With your approval, some retired personnel will be eligible to receive increases in their retirement checks that are as high as 24 percent.

"These increases will not require an additional appropriation, but come as the result of clarifying and liberalizing the amendments of the State Retirement System. The funds themselves will be paid from investment income.

"The proposals will be worthy of your consideration and will be of direct benefit to more than 15,000 retired personnel and the more than 200,000 active accounts.

"The North Carolina Association of Educators is a capable organization representing our public school personnel. They will present for your consideration a Professional Standards Act. I urge you to enact measures to recognize that our public school personnel are professional people, just as engineers, scientists and others who are accorded professional standing."

GOVERNOR'S ADVOCACY COMMISSION ON CHILDREN AND YOUTH

"There are several agencies of state government that are heavily involved with the well-being of our children. All of them are genuinely concerned and many fine programs exist.

"There is, however, much fragmentation in services to children and youth. There is no one agency that can be considered as the spokesman for all phases of child development or all aspects of the many problems of children.

"For the past several months, a commission of legislators and citizens have been examining this problem. A report with specific recommendations has been prepared. One of the major recommendations calls for the establishment of a Governor's Advocacy Commission on Children and Youth.

"I recommend the establishment of such a commission. It should take as its mandate the security and rights of all children and youth in our State. The commission would function as an advocate and not be responsible for providing services directly.

"I commend the commission's report to you and urge you to consider its recommendations."

HIGHER EDUCATION

"Much progress has been made in the field of higher education in recent years. New graduate programs have been authorized, libraries strengthened, research expanded, extension programs re-evaluated and updated and substantial efforts made to upgrade our predominately black institutions. We can take pride in the recent national evaluations of graduate programs at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill and North Carolina State University.

"During the past year we have seen enrollments increase an average of 9.7 percent in the public institutions. This has caused greater demands for laboratories, classrooms, faculties, and services. In my budget, I will recommend budget increases for higher education.

"With this growth there have been problems. One is now under active consideration by a committee of trustees representing each of our institutions of higher learning and chaired by a distinguished North Carolinian and a former member of the General Assembly, the Honorable Lindsay Warren, Jr.

"The trustees are addressing themselves to the problem of how best to govern the 16 public institutions of higher learning. They must also consider how we can best look outward to deal with the whole question of post high school education, both public and private, and at the same time look inward to the most effective and efficient method of administering the state's higher education policy within the 16 public senior institutions in the State.

"These questions are not easily answered, but I am hopeful that these Trustees, who have the statutory responsibility for administering our higher education institutions, will develop a feasible plan to replace the structure we now have. Naturally, any plan must be in the best interest of our State.

"Then, too, there is the question of what, if any, financial assistance the State should provide for needy students. A committee, chaired by Representative Charles Philips of Guilford, has a report with recommendations to you on this matter.

"The private colleges and universities in our State render a valuable and necessary service in the total educational program. Many of these institutions find themselves with declining enrollments, empty dormitory space and, in some cases, in severe financial straits.

"Later in this session, a committee of the Board of Higher Education will present to you a report for your consideration."

NORTH CAROLINA'S ENVIRONMENT

"Now, I would like to speak to you about our concern for the environment in North Carolina. We have come a long way. We are concerned. But a lot remains to be done.

"We intend to maintain the environment of our State as a great place to live — a good place of enjoyment — a great place to work and to raise a family, and as a heritage to pass on.

"Each of our present departments and State agencies concerned with environmental matters is now preparing legislative recommendations. I will give these proposals very careful consideration and will submit to you in a few weeks a more complete statement on our environment, together with legislative recommendations which will be set forth in a North Carolina Environmental Protection and Management Act of 1971.

"This legislation will be the most comprehensive approach to environmental protection and management in the history of our State."

DRUGS

"For about a year now, the Commission to Study Illegal and Harmful Drugs has been meeting, holding sessions here in Raleigh and also regionally throughout the State.

"In its report, the Commission will recommend specific changes in the law relating to drugs. A Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs, within the Department of Justice, will be recommended.

"The Drug Commission also will recommend setting up an Inter-Agency Drug Council. The Council would coordinate all of the drug programs and serve as a joint cooperative clearinghouse for programs in enforcement, rehabilitation, and education.

"The commission's report is worthy of your consideration, and I recommend it to you as you enact measures to speed up our fight against drug abuse in North Carolina."

PUBLIC SAFETY

"The broad category of public safety involves those agencies charged with enforcing the laws and carrying out justice. I am proud of their work, because North Carolina far out ranks her sister states in providing for the overall safety of her citizens.

"The Department of Motor Vehicles will present to you a series of proposals, among them suggested changes in the Motor Vehicles Laws of our State. Some of the present motor vehicle law is more than 30 years old. Through the years, the General Assembly has added to and changed the laws, thus creating a patchwork of considerable proportions.

"I commend the suggested changes to you and urge you to examine them carefully.

"In addition, appropriations have been recommended to you for 100 additional highway patrolmen in the next biennium. These men are vitally needed, particularly because of the continued increase in the number of vehicles on our roads and highways.

"Today more than 3,200,000 vehicles are registered in North Carolina. Just five years from now, estimates are that the number of vehicles will leap by nearly 700,000, bringing the total to 3,910,000.

"We are currently re-examining the strain and demands placed on our roads and highways. Our transportation arteries often function at maximum capabilities. I am concerned, as I know you are, and I will present to you at a later date the findings of a special report on transportation.

"Recently, I signed an Executive Order creating the North Carolina Criminal Justice Academy. I recommend that you establish the Academy and give it statutory status and responsibilities.

"As I envision the Academy, training for state law enforcement and correctional officers and some of the specialized and advanced training for local law enforcement officers will be conducted there."

THE OFFICE OF THE GOVERNOR

"Mr. President, Mr. Speaker, Members of the General Assembly, I'd like to share some thoughts I have about the Office of the Governor. The people of North Carolina get about 2½ years of truly effective leadership from their Governor under the one-term limitation imposed by our State Constitution.

"After the adoption of his program and budget by the Legislature for the second half of his term, a Governor's ability to lead is seriously diminished. Therefore, he spends the remaining 18 months of his four years in office (or over ⅓ of his term) handling routine administrative matters. He does recommend another budget, but he is not in office to even present it to the General Assembly, let alone defend it. Nor is he in a position to advocate new solutions to meet new needs based on his experience.

"Today, more than ever, the Governors of many states are required to participate in multi-state regional programs, such as our Appalachian Regional Program and Coastal Plains Regional Program. All Governors today must be actively involved in national matters affecting their people. National programs, such as revenue sharing, welfare proposals, and interstate transportation policies vitally affect the economy of the respective states and the lives of all the citizens.

"If a Governor is to be effective in influencing the development, enactment and implementation of multi-state and national programs, he must be in the ballgame long enough to learn the rules and strategy of the game.

"I know from experience that North Carolina today is not very effective in shaping regional and national policy as it affects our State, and it never will be if we have a turn over of leadership every four years. This is so because our State changes the team captain and key players just about the time we get the opportunity and the know-how to carry the ball and score.

"It should be remembered that the one-term limitation on the Office of Governor was imposed at a time in our history a century ago when feeling against the Chief Executive was very strong, even to the extent that he was later impeached. I hope it doesn't exist today.

"That same feeling of distrust existed against the Royal Governor when our first Constitution was enacted in 1776.

"The question is not whether a man should be allowed to succeed himself as Governor. The valid question is whether the people shall have the right to decide for themselves if they wish to retain a man in office for a second term.

"I believe the people should have that right.

"For this reason, and others which I shall not take time to discuss today, I recommend you approve and submit to the voters of North Carolina, an amendment to our State Constitution removing the one term limitation on the Office of Governor and provide that a Governor may serve a maximum of two successive four-year terms.

"I also recommend that you approve a similar constitutional amendment for the office of Lieutenant Governor."

THE OFFICE OF LIEUTENANT GOVERNOR

"It has been my privilege to have served the people of North Carolina, first as Lieutenant Governor for four years and now as Governor. This has given me a unique opportunity to have observed the relationship of each of these offices to the other.

"The role of the Governor has changed in recent years. That is to say, his sphere of responsibility has been increased because of the increase in programs, the greater involvement in state-federal relations, the growth of our population, just to name a few.

"More than ever before, the Governor needs to be freed as much as practical of ceremonial functions so as to give more time to policy decisions and matters that affect the State as a whole.

"I have held this viewpoint for several years. The current Lieutenant Governor, the Honorable H. P. Taylor, also shares this opinion. There are many areas in which his services and abilities can be put to good use. I would like to do so. But it is unrealistic to expect anyone to devote fulltime to public service without adequate compensation.

"Therefore, I recommend the office of Lieutenant Governor be considered a full-time position and that he be provided a salary in line with that of other members of the Council of State."

REORGANIZATION OF STATE GOVERNMENT

"The administration of government in North Carolina is efficient, sound and responsive to the needs of our citizens.

"Only five other states operate their state and local governments at less cost on a per capita basis as we do. When measured in terms of the number of state and local government employees per 10,000 people, only three states have a better record. If local school employees are omitted, North Carolina ranks last among the states in the number of state and local employees per 10,000 population.

"Now this is a commendable record, but we must constantly be alert for ways to improve the efficiency of our service.

"In a special message to you later in this session, I will recommend major changes in the structure of the Executive Branch of State government, which I am confident will further improve the administration of programs and services to our people."

REDISTRICTING

"Federal and state laws require that we reapportion our Congressional districts and the House and Senate districts of the General Assembly. This is a legislative responsibility, and I urge you to accomplish this difficult task objectively and fairly to the end that your results will not be subject to a review by the courts."

ELECTION LAWS

"The United States Supreme Court has ruled that our citizens 18 years old and over are eligible, upon qualification and registration, to vote in National elections.

"In order to reduce confusion and to make our voting laws more uniform, I recommend you approve an amendment to our State Constitution to be submitted to our people for approval to permit those qualified citizens 18 years old and older to vote in State and local elections."

CONCLUSION

"Mr. President, Mr. Speaker, and Members of the 129th General Assembly, and my fellow North Carolinians, we do not know what the future holds but we hold the future. The programs I have recommended to you today do not include all agencies or services of our State government. A number of these will be discussed with you in my budget message.

"But the proposals I submit today for your consideration are needed to better provide for "the good life" for all our citizens by more efficient government, better delivery of programs and services to our people and a demonstrated concern for our future as a State and as a people.

"The nature of our State has been, and remains, progressive.

"The characteristic that best describes our people is spizzerinctum—'the energy, ambition or will to succeed.'

"And it is the people—the people—that must be uppermost in our minds as we work together during the months ahead. Their hopes, aspirations, and efforts in seeking 'the good life' can be enhanced or hampered by your decisions.

"In the final analyis, the measure of progress is what we do for people.. People—not cities, not economics, not transportation systems, not buildings —people have feelings, they think, and they aspire to a good life.

"I have made it clear time and again that our State government must be people orientated. It's what we accomplish for our people that underscores our total efforts.

"North Carolina's strength is in her people. To their advancement I am dedicated."

The Governor, joined by his escort committee, leaves the Hall of the House.

The President appoints the Sergeants-at-Arms to escort the First Lady as she leaves the Chamber.

On motion of Senator Patterson, the Joint Assembly dissolves. The Senate repairs to its Chambers and the House resumes consideration of its business.

The Governor makes the following address to the Joint Session.

BUDGET MESSAGE BY THE GOVERNOR

"Mr. President, Mr. Speaker, Members of the North Carolina General Assembly.

"The Executive Budget Act requires that I come before you to recommend the budget for the 1971-73 biennium. I am pleased to have this responsibility.

"First, I wish to express my sincere appreciation to the members of the Advisory Budget Commission. They spent many days during the past two years monitoring current budget expenditures and preparing the budget being recommended to you. These dedicated public servants include former Senator Thomas J. White of Kinston, who has served most ably as chairman, Senator Ralph H. Scott of Haw River, former Senator Lindsay Warren of Goldsboro, Representative Sam Johnson of Raleigh, former Representative Thorne Gregory, formerly of Scotland Neck and now of Raleigh, and Mr. Kenneth Anderson of Newland.

"I wish to pay a special tribute to the late Senator Frank Forsyth of Murphy, who served on the commission until his death on February 27, 1970.

"The 'A', 'B', and 'C' budget documents, as well as the budget summary, have been in your hands for more than a week. These documents contain the budget recommendations for the 1971-73 biennium. Already, these recommendations have been well publicized, analyzed and criticized.

"I urge the adoption of the recommended budget.

"The proposed budget of more than $4.3 billion is the largest ever for our State. Yet, it falls more than $900 million short of meeting the budget requests submitted by the agencies of our government.

"Some basic decisions had to be made at the outset. One such decision was whether our budget should emphasize the well-being of our more than 125,000 dedicated teachers and State employees, or whether our budget should emphasize the continuation and expansion of programs and services to meet the needs of the more than 5 million men, women, and children of North Carolina.

"I chose to place the primary emphasis on all our people, yet providing some increases in salaries for those who serve our citizens. Laws, programs and services should not be conceived or administered in the context of self-perpetuation. Government, including those who work in it, must ever look outward to the needs of the governed.

"My budget reflects this basic philosophy. It also reflects another basic philosophy of mine. I strongly believe that for our federal system to survive, local governments must be kept strong, both authoritatively and financially."

AID TO LOCALITIES

"Therefore, I am recommending more State aid to North Carolina's counties and municipalities than ever before in the history of this State.

"We are all proud that North Carolina's economy continues to expand and diversify. It can be well appreciated, however, that this growth leads to increased demands at all levels of government for expansion and improvement of public services. It has become quite clear that the demands on counties and municipalities simply cannot be met with the revenues produced by the property tax, which, aside from the local option sales tax, is the only major revenue source available to local governments in our State.

"North Carolina's State Government has not been reluctant to share its resources with local governments. In fact, about four cents of each tax dollar goes to pay for what we call general government in Raleigh. All the rest of the funds go back to the people in the counties, cities and towns in one form or another. In this current biennium, the State is spending about $1.3 billion to operate the public schools, the technical institutes and community colleges, to support health and social services, to aid public libraries, to build and maintain local streets and bridges. This assistance amounts to more than 50 per cent above the $800 million of taxes which local governments levy on themselves over a two-year period.

"But, this assistance, great as it is, is not enough to meet the needs of our counties and municipalities.

"It is my recommendation, therefore, that direct relief be provided by additional appropriations of $60.7 million for the next biennium.

"This new State assistance will be the equivalent of a 7.6 per cent increase in the taxes our local governments levy on themselves, exclusive of local option sales taxes. This assistance includes:

"State assumption of the counties' share of the Medicaid and Work Incentive programs.

"Aid to municipalities for matching or supplementing federal grants and local funds for construction of waste treatment facilities.

"Additional aid to community mental health centers.

"Aid for construction, renovation and planning of local confinement facilities, and "Additional aid from Powell Bill funds to cities and towns for maintaining and improving streets and bridges not on the State system.

"I propose that our incorporated cities and towns' share of the gasoline tax revenue be increased from one-half cent per gallon to one cent. I further propose that the formula for allocating Powell Bill funds be revised to provide a more equitable distribution based on population and on the length and width of local street mileage."

SERVICES FOR PEOPLE

"While providing this necessary aid to local governments, this budget basically is about services to people.

"To meet the increasing costs of caring for our aged, disabled, blind and dependent children, this budget provides an additional $17 million for the biennium. These funds are required primarily for the increasing number of eligible recipients in the Aid to Families with Dependent Children program and the increasing costs of medical services for all recipients.

"This budget provides for increased support of children who must be placed in foster homes.

"The health manpower shortage in the state, region and nation has been thoroughly documented. To help alleviate this problem, I am recommending increased appropriations to improve and initiate various health-related programs at our higher educational institutions.

"For the State to maintain adequate and comfortable facilities for patients in our mental institutions, I am recommending more than $14 million for capital improvements throughout the mental health system.

"The Cancer Care and Crippled Children programs of the State Board of Health have been limited due to insufficient funds, in previous years. Additional 'B' budget appropriations are recommended in order that needed services can be provided at acceptable levels for twelve full months a year.

"Rubella, or German Measles, is a major cause of serious birth defects. Funds are recommended for a mass immunization campaign against this disease.

"Enrollments in the public schools are estimated to decease slightly in grades 1-12 during the 1971-73 biennium. However, budget recommendations for the kindergarten program will provide classes for more than 2,000 5-year olds by 1972-73.

"Recommended increases will provide additional financial aid to public school classes for trainable handicapped children.

"Additional special education teachers are recommended. These teachers will work with the emotionally or physically handicapped child or the gifted and talented child. Funds for additional elementary school books are also recommended.

"My budget recommends funds to implement a library services network. This network is designed to improve our library book distribution system, both public and private, and to make it possible for many more of our citizens to have easy access to library books, regardless of the library collection to which they may belong.

"This budget also provides for continued support of our Symphony Orchestra, the School of the Arts, the Museum of Art, the dramatic arts program at Chapel Hill, and for other cultural activities.

"Turning to the area of public safety, this budget provides for full implementation of the Police Information Network. It provides for a law enforcement training academy and for additional highway patrolmen in each of the next two years. It also provides for a new patrol communication center and enables the S. B. I. to increase its equipment and professional personnel.

"The recommended appropriations for our correctional system reflect a compelling need to respond to the deficiencies in that system. For every 10 persons released from our correctional institutions, seven return to prison within three years. Our correctional institutions must stop graduating criminals.

"If we are to rehabilitate, as well as penalize prisoners, then we must provide the proper facilities. Let me emphasize that I am not talking about coddling prisoners; rather, I am talking about helping people, improving them and their role in society. Therefore, substantial increases are urged to provide not only modern prison facilities, but also diagnostic, evaluation, testing and research programs.

"Funds are recommended to provide for enough additional probation officers to reduce the case load per officer from the present 115 to 100 by the 1972-73 fiscal year. Closer supervision of probationers will greatly aid our efforts toward their rehabilitation.

"This budget also calls for additional personnel to provide better counseling and supervision of juvenile offenders. It also calls for capital improvements in our correctional training schools. Young people in the juvenile correctional system must have every chance to succeed. We must divert them from a path leading to a life of crime.

"There are provisions throughout the budget calling for increased protection of our physical environment. In addition to money, adequate laws and better enforcement of those laws are needed to ensure a clean, healthy and safe environment. I will have more to say on the environment in a later address.

"This budget proposes capital improvements amounting to almost $150 million. The general fund capital improvement budget of $116 million is the largest in the history of our State. These improvements include the construction of new buildings, such as a new office building in Raleigh, which would enable us to reduce the $680,000 we spend each year on rented space.

In addition, it would be possible to make necessary renovations and repairs to existing facilities and to purchase land the State needs."

DEFICIT STATES

"A month ago, the Council of State governments conducted a survey to determine the fiscal situation of the 50 states. Of the 44 states responding, eight projected general fund deficits for the 1970-71 fiscal year. As serious as this might be, it is even more alarming that 18 states projected deficits in the next budget with present taxes and continuation of existing programs. Eleven of these states anticipate deficits which are termed 'substantial.' Obviously, these states must either increase taxes, or borrow heavily, or reduce their current levels of spending.

"Contrast the plight of these 18 states with North Carolina's healthy economic condition. Because of the strength of our economy, and the soundness of our tax structure, and our conservative policies stressing fiscal integrity, I am able, without asking for additional taxes, to recommend General Fund appropriations of more than $325 million for 'B' and 'C' budget items, the largest recommendation ever presented to a North Carolina General Assembly upon its convening.

"I am pleased that I am able to recommend these important improvements with so few new state employees. Less than 1,700 new positions are recommended. That's only about a one per cent increase. This compares with the more than 5,000 additional employees in each of the bienniums since 1963-65.

"This budget I recommend to you provides for a moderate expansion of many of the programs and services that I requested and which you or your predecessor approved two years ago.

"Without the supplement you provided to the budget at that time, North Carolina would not have a kindergarten program.

"Nor would we have a program of occupational exploration in the middle grades.

"Nor would we have been able to have expanded assistance and services at the regional mental health centers.

"Nor would we have a Department of Local Affairs.

"Nor would it have been possible to have provided additional tax relief to single persons who head their own households.

"These programs, services and benefits were made possible by increasing the tax levies on some items and by imposing tax levies for the first time on two items, soft drinks and tobacco products."

MODEST TAXES

"These changes in our tax structure resulted in an increase in revenue of about $100 million annually, or less than $20 a year from each North Carolinian. That is, in my opinion, a very modest sum to pay for the new, much needed programs and services that the people of our States had not been receiving.

"Statistics show our citizens are paying less taxes to operate their State and local governments than the citizens of 45 other states.

"If we had the funds, we would like to accomplish more in services and in salaries for our state employees. We want our teachers to receive the national average salary. It's a worthy goal. Today they average 11.8 per cent below the national average.

"Teachers are professional people. They want to be recognized, and they would like their pay checks larger. So would other state employees.

"An attorney for the State receives 18.2 per cent less than the national average. A public health lab technician receives 10.7 per cent less than the national average, and a laborer 35 per cent below the national average.

"A stenographer for the State receives 12.2 per cent less than the national average. Of course, there are other examples.

"The per capita income in North Carolina is below the national average. Thus our ability to pay to support higher salaries and the most comprehensive programs is less than the national average.

"There are many unmet needs not included in this budget. I call some, but not all, of the critical ones to your attention.

"The need to increase State matching funds to support the school lunch program.

"The need to continue the program of assisting North Carolina students enrolled in Duke and Bowman Gray medical schools.

"The need to expand benefits for teachers and State employees by purchasing group hospital, medical, and major medical insurance.

"The need to provide State matching funds to receive federal aid under the Omnibus Crime Control Act.

"The need to upgrade our State parks system and the acquisition of Smith Island.

"The need for more staff to care for patients in mental institutions.

"The need to expand our manpower training programs.

"The need to further strengthen many phases of our educational programs.

"If additional funds become available, I hope that you will provide for these and other pressing, unmet needs as you consider the finances and appropriations for the coming biennium.

"To sum up, this budget, in keeping with our State Constitution and with our tradition, is conservative. It is a balanced budget.

"In keeping with the progressive spirit of our State, this budget reflects the needs and aspirations of our people, as well as the ordering of our priorities.

"I close by quoting the guardian of our Triple-A credit rating, the distinguished Treasurer of our State, the Honorable Edwin Gill.

" 'If a hundred years from now, people look back and read the purposes of our Budget, they will know the nature of our people. They will know that we were concerned about the welfare of the handicapped and the disadvantaged. In fact, as they read of our hospitals, of our mental institutions, as they read of our program for the lame, the halt, and the blind, they will think of the spirit of the Good Samaritan! They will know of our devotion to justice and compassion in the treatment of those who have violated our laws. They will take note of our concern for the preservation of our history as expressed in the public archives, as well as our aid to outdoor dramas which sing of the story of our people. They will learn of our aid to art, music and the drama, and of our provision for the production on the stage of excerpts from Shakespeare and Carl Sandburg in the public schools. While these matters are, comparably speaking minor in cost, they are significant as grace notes to our educational theme. Yes, those who read of our Budget in future years will believe that we wished to do the best for our people within our ability to pay, and sought to dedicate the substantial burden of government to the humane needs of all North Carolinians.' "

The following resolutions on the Calendar are considered and disposed of as follows:

H. J. R. 41, A JOINT RESOLUTION EXPRESSING CONCERN ABOUT THE PRISONERS OF WAR HELD BY THE GOVERNMENT OF NORTH VIETNAM AND THE VIET CONG.

Passes its second and third readings and is ordered sent to the Senate by special messenger.

S. J. R. 21, A JOINT RESOLUTION HONORING THE LIFE AND MEMORY OF DR. ROBERT LEE HUMBER, FORMER MEMBER OF THE SENATE FROM PITT.

"Whereas, Robert Lee Humber, a native son of Pitt County, devoted virtually all of his mature life and energy to unselfish service for the betterment, culture, education and peace of all of the people of his Nation, State and County; and

"Whereas, he attained an extensive reputation of service and community leadership in his seventy-two years prior to his sudden death on November 10, 1970. His personal qualifications of character and conduct were recognized from his youth in his native Greenville where he was born into a family of quiet industry and distinction. He was an avid reader, a vigorous student, especially of history and literature, and planned early for college and university training; and

"Whereas, he was graduated with multiple degrees from Wake Forest and Harvard and earned a Rhodes Scholarship to Oxford University in England where he studied at New College. Wake Forest, Duke and the University of North Carolina conferred upon him an honorary degree. Professionally trained as a lawyer, he became, first, an interim tutor at Harvard and, following his Oxford studies, became a business executive and international attorney in Paris. There, he supplemented world-wide contacts initiated in travel around the world in his youth.

"In 1940, he returned to the United States imbued with a concept of World Federation as a means to world peace. Out of this came the organization of the movement for World Federation (established at Davis Island, North Carolina — his ancestral home). Sixteen State Legislatures endorsed the World Federation idea.

"In his service to his area and the State of North Carolina, there were few movements of note of which he was not a part. Chief among these was the North Carolina Museum of Art of which he was the founder and active leader until his death, and, by his exceptional talents and untiring efforts, he was able to influence many art patrons to give literally millions of dollars worth of paintings and other works of art to the Museum. In many historical, cultural and restoration projects he was continuously active. He served three terms in the North Carolina Senate (1959, 1961, 1963) and was noted for his erudite presentation and support of legislation designed to advance the welfare and cultural stability of the State; and

"Whereas, he was one of the founders of Pitt Technical Institute and served with honor and distinction as chairman and member of the Board of Trustees of this beneficial institution. As a local neighbor and friend, Greenville and Pitt County were first benefactors. Although his interests and activities were world-wide, he never failed to come home and lend his prestige and unique talents to local interests and efforts. Yet, he neither sought nor accepted any accolades for the results of his labors which will be of timeless benefit to his fellowmen.

"Whereas, his generosity of mind and spirit were known and his counsel sought throughout the State, the Nation, and in Europe. He was the acme of generosity, the epitome of refinement, and the noblest of Christian churchmen. A generation can boast few men his equal and none his superior. He was a man of culture, a man of patience and understanding and a humanitarian who was admired by all who knew him. His life story will be an inspiration to future generations and we are proud of our good fortune to claim him as one of us.

'He scarce had need to doff his pride, or slough the dross of earth,

For, as he trod his way to God,

So walked he from his birth,

In honor, in gentleness,
and clean mirth!'

"Now, therefore, be it resolved by the Senate; the House of Representatives concurring:

"Section 1. The General Assembly of North Carolina expresses its deep appreciation for the life and accomplishments of Dr. Robert Lee Humber and for the great service he rendered to the Nation, State of North Carolina and County of Pitt.

"Section 2. That a copy of this Resolution be spread upon the minutes of both the Senate and House of Representatives and that a copy of the same be duly certified by the Secretary of State and by him transmitted to the family of Dr. Robert Lee Humber.

"Section 3. That this resolution shall become effective upon its ratification."

Passes its second and third readings and is ordered enrolled.

PETITIONS, MEMORIALS AND PAPERS
ADDRESSED TO THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY OR TO THE HOUSE

On request of Representatives Venters, Mohn, and James, the following excerpt from the minutes of the Board of Trustees of the University of North Carolina in Greensboro on May 25, 1970, is entered in the Journal:

ALBERT JOSEPH ELLIS

"Albert Joseph Ellis manifested throughout his life a capacity for profound loyalty. Having identified the objects of his loyalty, Albert then nurtured them with his tenacity of spirit, his great intellectual prowess and his warm affection. This was true of his relationship with the University of North Carolina. Thus, those of us who knew and admired him feel not only a deep sense of personal loss but also regret the loss which the University suffered as a result of his death on December 14, 1969. At the age of 56, and only a few months before his death, Albert was elected to this Board of Trustees . . . a position in which he would have culminated magnificently his long history of devotion and able service to the University.

"Albert first identified himself with this institution as an undergraduate student at the Chapel Hill campus, where he earned his B. S. degree in Commerce, was inducted into the Order of the Grail and Golden Fleece and was elected Permanent Class Secretary. In 1935 he entered the School of Law, where he not only confirmed his professional direction but also laid the foundation for his leadership in University alumni affairs. For nearly a decade during the last part of his life, Albert Ellis was one of the guiding spirits of the Law Alumni Association and the Law Foundation Council of the University's School of Law.

"His faithful regard for alma mater is now being perpetuated by his children, one of whom is a graduate of the University, another a currently enrolled student and another entering as a freshman this fall.

"Armed with what the University could provide an able and dedicated student, Albert established his law practice in Jacksonville, North Carolina, and immediately he began making his large and valuable imprint on his profession, his community and his state. Albert was not content with the law as a narrow, purely commercial vocation; he embraced his profession totally, as an able counselor and advocate, as a leader of the organized bar, as a champion of legal reform, and as a generous friend of legal education in this State.

"The town of Jacksonville similarly profited from his large presence in the community. In his words, 'If a community is worth living in, it's worth working for,' and he worked hard, as evidenced by his leadership of the Kiwanis Club, and the Chamber of Commerce, the Onslow County Historical Society and the Onslow County-Jacksonville Airport Commission.

"At the State level, Albert concluded his years of service with two terms in the North Carolina Senate, where he led successful efforts to improve the system of justice.

"Before his death, Senator Ellis received one of the highest honors a layman can receive in his Church. The Knights of Columbus, a fraternal organization, named a 4th Degree Class in his honor. The ceremony in Greensboro in November was the last official occasion he attended before his death.

"As a religious man, a devoted husband, a proud father, and a servant of mankind in many capacities, Albert Ellis was, and our memory of him will continue to serve as, a splendid example of manhood.

"Now therefore, be it resolved by the Board of Trustees of the University of North Carolina: That the Trustees herewith pay tribute to the memory of Albert Joseph Ellis, with gratitude for the service which he rendered the University of North Carolina. Further be it resolved that a copy of this Resolution be spread upon the minutes of this meeting of the Board of Trustees and that a copy of the same be furnished to his widow, Marie Hargett Ellis."

I. Order of Business

RULE 1. Convening Hour. The House shall convene each legislative day at the hour fixed by the House. In the event the House adjourns on the preceding legislative day without having fixed an hour for reconvening, the House shall reconvene on the next legislative day at twelve o'clock noon.

RULE 2. Opening the Session. At the convening hour on each legislative day the Speaker shall call the members to order and shall have the session opened with prayer.

RULE 3. Quorum. (a) A quorum consists of a majority of the qualified members of the House.

(b) On the point of no quorum's being raised, the doors shall be closed and the Clerk shall call the roll of the House, after which the names of those not responding shall again be called. In the absence of a quorum, fifteen members are authorized to compel the attendance of absent members and may order that absentees for whom no sufficient excuses are made be taken into custody wherever they may be found by special messenger appointed for that purpose.

RULE 4. Approval of Journal. The Rules Committee shall cause the Journal of the House to be examined daily before the hour of convening to determine if the proceedings of the previous day have been correctly recorded.

Immediately following the opening prayer and upon appearance of a quorum, the Speaker shall call for the Journal report of the Rules Committee as to whether the proceedings of the previous day have been correctly recorded. Without objection, the Speaker shall cause the Journal to stand approved.

However, the House may, by consent of a majority of the members present, suspend the operation of this rule during any debate on any particular question before the House, or the Rules Committee may bring in a special rule that shall be applicable to the debate on any bill.

RULE 11. Reading of papers. When there is a call for the reading of a paper which has been read in the House, and there is objection to such reading, the question shall be determined by a majority vote of the members of the House present.

(e) When a question has been tabled, the same shall not be acted upon again during the session except by two-thirds (⅔) vote.

RULE 20. Form and Effect of Previous Question. (a) The previous question shall be as follows: "Shall the main question now be put?" When the call for the previous question has been decided in the affirmative by a majority vote of the House, the "main question" is on the passage of the bill, resolution or other matter under consideration.

(b) The call for the previous question shall preclude all motions, amendments and debate, the motion to adjourn or motion to table or motion to postpone indefinitely made prior to the determination of the previous question.

V. Voting

RULE 21. Stating Questions. (a) The Speaker shall rise to put a question.

Representative Johnson of Wake rises to speak on a point of personal privilege and delivers the following remarks concerning the Wake County Bicentennial year.

"Today is a day of special significance to Wake County. It was two hundred years ago today — on March 12, 1771 — that Wake County was established by the colonial legislature and the Royal Governor. It was named for Margaret Wake, Governor Tryon's wife and it is one of the two counties in North Carolina that are named for women.

"What is now Wake County was originally part of Craven County and later was part of Johnston, Cumberland, and Orange Counties. After it was established, the courthouse was located at Bloomsbury, which was also known as Wake Court House and which was near the home of Colonel Joel Lane about where Boylan Avenue and West Morgan Street now intersect.

"During its early years, North Carolina did not have a capital and the seat of the government was usually in the community where the governor lived. The General Assembly met at various places — in Bloomsbury, among others. It was not until the 1788 Hillsborough Convention that a decision was made to locate the 'permanent capital' of the state within ten miles of Mr. Isaac Hunter's in Wake County. Four year later, in 1792, a commission was appointed to select a site for the capital. Several locations were considered, including Colonel John Hinton's land in the vicinity of what is now Knightdale, but in April, 1792, the state bought 1,000 acres of Joel Lane's plantation at a cost of about $2.75 per acre.

"Lots in the town of Raleigh were laid out and were surveyed by William Christmas and they were sold to finance construction of a state house. The General Assembly met in the new capital for the first time in 1794, and since that date Raleigh has been the seat of our government. Although there was some thought given to moving the capital after the state house burned in 1831, Wake County has remained our capital county for nearly one hundred eighty years.

"We who live here are proud of Wake County and of its history spanning two centuries. We are proud of its twelve cities and towns. But the source of our greatest pride is that we are the capital county of North Carolina.

"As a member of the Wake County delegation, I want to call your attention to its two-hundredth anniversary today. As we begin our third century, we invite you to join us in commemorating our bicentennial year throughout 1971."

Representative Johnson of Cabarrus rises to speak on a point of personal privilege and makes the following remarks concerning the trial and conviction of Lt. William Calley and requests the Principal Clerk to carry the same in the Journal.

"Mr. Speaker, I rise to this point of personal privilege with mixed emotions. Yesterday, a former North Carolinian was found guilty of the murder of 22 persons in the village of My Lai, Vietnam on March 16, 1968. Lt. William Calley stood ramrod straight as the sentence was delivered, then snapped a salute to the jury foreman and left the court room.

"Who was and who is Lt. Calley? Well, he was a former North Carolina boy raised in the mountains of this state from humble but good people. Calley is the product of this time and Nation. It well may be that Lt. Calley was not so much judged yesterday as you and I and this Nation were judged.

"We trained him to hate, taught him to fight, instructed him how to kill and then we sent him off to a senseless war that has wasted our Nation's young manhood and resources. A war which was conceived in one administration and foolishly carried on by another, all in the name of justice and peace.

"So Calley went to war and he did what we had conditioned him to do; he hated, he fought and he killed and now he stands condemned by those who trained and sent him to war.

"All during World War II, the Korean War, and in this war we have used mass bombing to wipe out cities and villages with the loss of many innocent men, women and children, but that was okay. We have more than 22 persons die each day in this country from starvation and little is said and done. More persons are killed each year on the highways of this Nation than our soldiers killed in the Vietnam war and little is said and done and few condemned.

"Yet, this Nation through its military court has chosen to take the position of a Sunday morning quarterback and judge the actions of a man in the heat of battle with a fine set of scales outside the atmosphere of battle. Calley's action was the action of thousands of former G. I.'s in other wars out of whom we made heroes. War is hell and it is a kill or be killed proposition; it always has been and it always will be.

"It well may be that in condemning Calley we lessen the feelings of guilt of ourselves and the Nation. There is not a man here who would have volunteered to change places with Calley on that fate-filled day at My Lai placing himself in those conditions.

"None of us approves the senseless killing of any person at any time; however, when one is in combat in the heat of battle one thinks of either killing or being killed.

"Yes, Calley was convicted, but you and I were convicted along with him. He has earned the Combat Infantryman's Badge, Bronze Star with three oak leaf clusters for gallantry in action, a Purple Heart and a Good Conduct Medal. Now this Nation has bestowed upon him the final badge — that of disgrace and rejection.

"I, as one North Carolinian, want to publicly thank Lt. William Calley of North Carolina for his courage, for his willingness to fight a senseless war for his country when other young men ran and hid, for his willingness to die to protect this Nation's image and good name, and for his guts to take the dishonor his Nation has now put upon him in the name of justice."

Representative Martin, on a point of personal privilege, also speaks on the trial and conviction of Lt. William Calley.

Representative Twiggs, on a point of personal privilege, also speaks on this matter.

Representative Smith of Guilford, on a point of personal privilege, makes the following remarks and requests the Principal Clerk to carry same in the Journal:

"Mr. Speaker and Members of the House: I want to add a word to what has been said by Representatives Johnson, Martin and Twiggs. It is not for us here to judge either Lt. Calley or the Court. It is not really for us to judge whether the war is senseless or not, but it is our duty as lawmakers to try to teach ourselves and our people the duty of applying to the world community the lessons we have learned in local, state, and national communities and that is that no people can live together without fighting unless they live under law.

"In 1941, this General Assembly, being the first Legislative Body in the world to do so, passed a resolution stating substantially that. And that was before we got into World War II. The substance of that resolution, if I recall correctly, was that the world was in a state of anarchy and that war would continue in one form or another until there was established for the world community a government; and that we as Americans with the tradition of the Revolution and the formation of the United States Government and the Constitution of the United States, were perhaps the best people in the world to show the world how to establish a world government that would not destroy personal liberty.

"Now we are condemning a senseless war. The question is not whether that war was senseless, but whether we as Americans can help the world establish the rule of law. We are lawmakers! And we ought to renew our faith expressed in the 1941 resolution and see what we can do to direct the thinking of our people and our leaders towards revising the United Nations or reconstructing it or devising other machinery whereby we can bring the rule of law to the world community.

"We have tried to be the policeman in Southeast Asia and that is too big a job to expect of us. It costs too much in lives and money. It costs this very experience we are going through now with this trial.

"It is not enough to wring our hands. We must try to devise a way, and those of us who are lawyers in here have that responsibility to point the way, to how our government, the United States, can take part in a greater government for the whole world, limited albeit so we will not lose our personal liberties.

"One of our distinguished United States Senators in commenting not long ago on the state of the United Nations said that it was, in a phrase of Grover Cleveland, 'in a state of innocuous desuetude'. And my reply was that it is in a state of desuetude but it is not innocuous. It is very dangerous, and we need to think about how we can provide ways to improve it or to substitute some other machinery, such as the General Assembly of North Carolina, to make laws that will make it unnecessary for us to have war-crime trials for William Calley or anyone else."

On motion of Representative Gardner, seconded by Johnson of Johnston, the House adjourns to meet tomorrow at 12:00 noon.

The President recognizes Senator Knox, who presents His Excellency Robert W. Scott, Governor of North Carolina, to the Joint Assembly.

Governor Scott delivers the following address:

GOVERNOR'S ADDRESS

"Mr. President, Mr. Speaker, Members of the General Assembly.

"During the past year we have witnessed a ground swell of public concern for the environment.

"This concern stems from a realization that population growth, economic development, and technological changes often work to the detriment of our physical environment.

"This is not to suggest that a high standard of living is not compatible with a good environment. The quality of life is dependent on many things other than physical environment.

"Our task is that of blending the enhancement of our physical environment with the enhancement of our economic and social well-being.

"In my message to you on January 14, I expressed my concern that North Carolina should anticipate and head-off the major environmental problems which are confronting many other states. I also indicated that I would return to you with specific legislative proposals.

"All told, I am offering 24 recommendations for your consideration. A number of these are incorporated into five major bills. The others are contained in various proposals already before you or soon to come before you. Some proposals are far-reaching. Others are controversial.

"But all are offered in good faith and with the hope that, when you consider them, you will keep in mind our responsibility to this generation and to those unborn.

ENVIRONMENTAL POLICY ACT

"One of the most important and far-reaching proposals which I recommend is an Environmental Policy Act. This act establishes for the first time an environmental policy for North Carolina.

"This measure will require that all state agencies give consideration to the environmental values, aspects and consequences of their decisions. This means that any action by a state agency, whether it is a proposal for legislation, project, or program, if it significantly affects the environment of this state, must be preceded by a detailed statement which will outline the impact of such action on the environment.

"These impact statements, which will be made available to the public, are to be made in consultation with other agencies having jurisdiction or special expertise with respect to any environmental impact involved.

"Therefore, no state agency can undertake any action which might have an adverse effect on our environment without making their actions widely known and subject to review.

"I recommend that you give favorable consideration to this landmark proposal which will cover those programs and activities carried out with state funds.

CONTROL OF WATER AND AIR POLLUTION

"One of the most valuable assets North Carolina has is a relatively abundant supply of water.

"In order to protect this asset, I propose several matters for your consideration. One provision requires that everyone who is currently subject to our water and air laws report on a periodic basis the amount, components, and strength of the wastes and air contaminants which they discharge into our waters and atmosphere.

"This will greatly assist the State in monitoring where and in what amounts waste materials are being discharged. This information will aid in setting priorities for programs to deal with special problems.

"A second provision of this bill speaks to the problem of the proper management and disposal of animal wastes. It authorizes the Board of Water and Air Resources to adopt, after public hearings, rules and regulations governing the operation of animal and poultry production units with respect to the collection, treatment and disposal of wastes; the control of noxious odors; and the suppression of insects and pests.

"Other problems which come under this bill are those of waste discharges into waterways from boats, the need for planning our sewage systems on a regional basis, the need to designate floodways throughout the state and to regulate development within these flood plains, and the establishment of septic tank regulations to reduce the health hazards of defective septic systems.

"I also propose the creation of a state system of natural and scenic rivers. Initially, I suggest that portions of six North Carolina rivers be designated a part of this system. These streams will be maintained in a natural free-flowing state, protected from dams and shoreline development.

"It seems to me that we should be prepared to maintain, for future generations, portions of a few of our beautiful rivers in their natural state.

"The provisions of this bill will go a long way in assuring that the quality of our water resources will be preserved.

BEACH, COASTAL AND ESTUARINE PROTECTION

"Only three states have more estuarine waters than North Carolina. These waters, where fresh and salt water mix and mingle, provide thousands of acres of pleasurable boating, fishing, and swimming. Our estuaries also support a flourishing commercial and sports fishing industry.

"Since these estuaries are the spawning grounds for many species of fish and shellfish, anything that upsets the fragile ecological balance of these water would be felt, not only in North Carolina, but north to New England and south to Florida.

"Probably the greatest threat to these areas is indiscriminate and unwise development. This development involves dredging and filling our marshlands and tidelands. The 1969 General Assembly enacted a statute requiring a permit from the state before any excavation or filling project is undertaken.

"The bill I am proposing will strength that law by requiring any permit application to be reviewed by all state agencies and any appropriate federal agency having jurisdiction over the subject matter affected by the project. Any agency that objects to the derdge and fill project may call for a hearing before a review board, whose decision may be appealed in the courts.

"I feel that this review procedure, which requires that any project meet the standards of environmental protection to the satisfaction of all state agencies concerned, not just the licensing agency, will provide the necessary protection of our delicate estuarine waters.

"In order to further strengthen the dredge and fill law, I am asking that you give the Department of Conservation and Development the authority to establish regulations relating to the alteration or pollution of our coastal wetlands.

"To supplement this effort an estuarine study, authorized by the last General Assembly, is now underway. This study will guide our future planning and coastal zone management legislation.

"With this three-pronged attack — current protection, further study, and future planning — I feel we are well on the way to safe-guarding our unique estuarine areas.

"Adjacent to North Carolina's estuarine waters are miles of beautiful beaches, many of them relatively undeveloped. In addition to safeguarding them from offshore oil spills, we must protect these beaches from the eroding effects of the relentless winds and waves and from the destructive forces of hurricanes.

"With this in mind, I request that you give the municipal and county governing boards in coastal counties the authority to levy taxes for the establishment and maintenance of erosion control and hurricane protection projects. This authority will eliminate an existing limitation on their taxing prerogative and will open the door for more positive and aggressive action by county and municipal officials toward the solution of beach erosion problems.

"To help local governments finance these erosion control projects, I ask you to authorize the creation of a State revolving fund to be administered by the Board of Water and Air Resources. The Board could make advances to counties and municipalities to cover the cost of that portion of the erosion control projects not paid for by federal funds. The fund would be reimbursed from local revenues.

"In those coastal counties which have made no provision for sand dune protection, my proposal authorizes the State Board of Water and Air Resources to assume the responsibility of adopting regulations, establishing a shore protection line, designate a shoreline protection officer, and take any other actions necessary for the protection of North Carolina's sand dunes.

"These sand dunes are a vital part of the natural protective barrier along our coast and they must be protected from careless destruction.

WRIGHTSVILLE MARINE BIO-MEDICAL LABORATORY

"The opportunity has arisen for the University of North Carolina to expand its program in marine research.

"The Board of Directors of the Wrightsville Marine Bio-Medical Laboratory has offered to donate that facility, including land, buildings and equipment, to the University of North Carolina at Wilmington.

"This private laboratory, operated jointly by Babies Hospital Research Center, Inc., UNC, Duke, and Wake Forest universities, is an important center for research and graduate education. It has made landmark contributions in deep water research.

"I recommend that the State accept the offer of the laboratory as evidence of our continuing support for its endeavors. Legislation to this effect will be submitted to you.

ROOSEVELT FAMILY GIFT

"The late President Theodore Roosevelt once said: 'To waste, to destroy our natural resources, to skin and exhaust the land . . . will result in undermining in the days of our children the very prospective which we ought by right to hand down to them amplified and developed.'

"I am pleased to announce that the Roosevelt family, which owns coastal property in Carteret County, has agreed to donate approximately 290 acres of high land, marsh lands and estaurine areas to the State of North Carolina. This valuable property, located on Bogue Banks, will be used for marine studies and for an educational scientific complex known as a 'Sea-Lab.'

"Theodore Roosevelt, III, one of the owners of this property and a grandson of the 'Conservation' President, will make the gift at 2:00 p.m. today at the Capitol.

NATURAL RESOURCES

"I turn now to the broad areas of natural resource conservation. The spectre of a major oil spill off our coastline or in our harbor waters is not a pleasant thought. We have all seen the vivid pictures in magazines and on television showing oil-covered ducks. These pictures cause us concern for the thousands of ducks and geese that winter in the wildlife preserves of our state.

"I propose strong measures to attack this problem. My recommendation requires the oil shipper, in the event of oil spillage, to pay all costs of cleanup, including the cost of shoreline damage, as well as damage to wildlife. There would also be a substantial penalty in addition to the cleanup costs.

"The immediate cleanup costs are to be paid from the State's Contingency and Emergency Fund, and the fund would be reimbursed later. This procedure will expedite the correction of any oil spillage problem.

"The heavy fine imposed for oil spillage should prompt oil handlers to take precautionary steps to prevent and contain the smaller, more common, oil spills at port terminal oil handling facilities.

"This bill further requires any new oil handling facility to obtain a permit from the Board of Water and Air Resources and to comply with conditions specified in the permit. Existing facilities would have to obtain a permit to continue their operation within one year after the effective date. This permit requirement will apply to all processing, storage and refining operations.

"With these provisions for immediate action, preventive measures, and penalties, North Carolina will have one of the most meaningful and effective oil pollution control laws in the nation.

"In an earlier speech I indicated my concern about what I feel are serious inadequacies in our existing Oil and Gas Conservation Law. The way this law is now written, a great deal of environmental damage could occur during drilling and exploration. The present law does not become effective until 'commercial quantities' have been discovered.

"Therefore, I recommend amending the present law to make it effective July 1, 1971, whether 'commercial quantities' are discovered or not. I also recommend you rewrite a portion of the law to guard against any environmental damage in the event a major reserve of oil or gas is discovered.

"Another recommendation designed to protect and enhance the natural resources and beauty of our state will authorize our Utilities Commission to prescribe, administer, and enforce protective standards and controls over the effects of public utilities operations on the environment. The major problems we are concerned with are those associated with power installation sites and overhead transmission lines.

"One of the major pollution problems in America today is the excessive quantities of soil that are being eroded from our landscape.

"Erosion and sedimentation are causing extensive and costly damage to many of our streams and lakes.

"It is time for us to seek a solution to this type of pollution problem.

"I recommend that you authorize the Board of Water and Air Resources to work with all appropriate State agencies and consult with private industry to formulate recommendations for submission to the 1973 General Assembly, such recommendations to conserve our soil and water resources without impeding essential economic development.

COMMUNITY APPEARANCE

"All of us realize that purely physical considerations do not assure a pleasing environment. The visual beauty of North Carolina is one of our most treasured possessions. We must assure that man-made ugliness does not gradually destroy our State's natural beauty.

"We have laws in force making it illegal to litter. Last year the Highway Patrol made over 1,200 arrests for violation of our anti-litter laws. You have just enacted legislation that increases the fine for littering from $50 to $200.

"In order to further protect our scenic beauty, I propose that littering be declared illegal on all State lands. I also propose that our motor vehicle laws be mended to allow individuals or government agencies greater leeway in removing abandoned junked automobiles and that strict safety laws be enacted and enforced at sites where automobiles are being dismantled.

"To deal with the leadership problem in this area of visual pollution, I recommend authority to establish municipal appearance commissions. Such commissions would make it easier to coordinate public and private activities directed toward the goal of improving the appearance of our towns and cities.

"Thus far, I have discussed the specific features of the five major bills which I recommend to you. Each measure will help us move toward a better environment for our State.

"These legislative proposals do not by any means fulfill our total needs. There are other proposals which you will be considering. Many have or will come to you from special study commissions. I would like to comment on some of these and lend my support to them as you deliberate their relative merits.

"North Carolina is not generally regarded as a 'mining state.'

"However, new mines are being opened in North Carolina at the rate of 700-800 acres per year. If these mined-over lands are not reclaimed, the area of unsightly land will grow each year.

"A major purpose of the proposed mining law is to require that mined-over lands be reclaimed by some reasonable procedure. I urge the enactment of these new mining laws.

PEST CONTROL COMPACT

"The control of pests poses a serious problem to North Carolina agricultural interests. Even with all the major efforts at pest control, they still do some seven billion dollars damage to the nation's agricultural and forest crops each year.

"This problem cannot be contained within the boundaries of a single state. You will soon have a bill before you to permit North Carolina to join with other states in a nationwide pest control compact. This compact will enable us to see that potential problem areas in other states are handled in a manner which will not endanger the agriculture of our state. I urge you to support this legislation.

INTERSTATE ENVIRONMENT COMPACT

"I will soon recommend legislation which will make North Carolina a member of the proposed 17-state Southern Regional Environmental Compact. This compact will let us cooperate with our neighbor states in solving regional problems which are of mutual concern.

"Since many environmental problems do cross state lines, I fell that we must coordinate our efforts with those of our sister states in order to achieve a realistic solution to these problems. I urge you to give this bill your approval.

PESTICIDE LAW

"The General Assembly in 1969 directed the Legislative Research Commission to study the need for legislation concerning agricultural and other pesticides and to report its findings and recommendations to you.

"Significant recommendations have been made for state controls affecting pesticides. Emphasis has been placed on regulation of pesticide dealers and applicators. It is also recommended that authority be given to a new Pesticide Board to better control the use of pesticides and to regulate disposal of unused pesticides and contaminated containers.

"The Pesticide Board would not be a new state agency. It would be a policy-making body that would rely on the Commissioner of Agriculture for administration and enforcement of the regulations.

"I feel this is a very important step toward the protection of our urban and rural environment.

REGIONAL WATER SYSTEMS

"The Legislative Research Commission has completed a report on local and regional water supplies. It found two major problems — too many small and ineffective systems, and too few large and efficient regional systems. Over 80 percent of the public water systems in North Carolina are serving less than 1,000 customers per system.

"The shortcomings of these small systems include inadequate sources of supply, lack of treatment, inadequate operation, small pipe lines that are not compatible with neighboring systems, and underlying all these problems — an inadequate financial base.

"The Legislative Research Commission has developed several proposals for your consideration which would encourage the planning and development of regional water supply systems large enough to justify the cost of adequate facilities.

"I ask that you give these proposals your strong support.

LAND USE PLANNING AND POLICY

"All of us are beginning to realize that the need for a clear policy on land use planning undergirds many of our environmental problems. North Carolina enjoys a unique balance between rural and urban development. However, we must take positive steps to assure that we do not drift further into the problems of urban congestion experienced by many states.

"I recommend a comprehensive study of land use patterns to see where we are headed and to suggest any changes in direction that may be needed.

"This study would be done under the direction of my recommended North Carolina Council on State Goals and Policy. I will ask, within the month, that this Council be given legislative authority to conduct an across the board evaluation of state goals and policies needed in this area.

REORGANIZATION OF BOARD OF WATER AND AIR RESOURCES

"Under the present statute, the Board of Water and Air Resources includes representatives of the entities it is supposed to regulate. This places the Board in the untenable position, at times, of sitting in judgment of the interests of its own members.

"The statute governing appointments to the Board should be revised to bar possible conflicts of interest.

"I feel that no person should be appointed to the Board of Water and Air Resources who is an officer, employee, or representative of any industry, county, city, or other political entity, or any other body subject to the regulations of the Board.

"A bill to accomplish this reorganization will be presented to you in the near future and I urge your approval.

SMITH ISLAND

"Now, I would like to discuss a problem that has been at the forefront of attention almost from the day I became Governor. That is the question of what should be done with Smith Island, sometimes referred to as Baldhead Island.

"You will recall that from the very first, I stated my conviction that the State should acquire this valuable natural resource. I still hold that conviction.

"Thirty-four years ago in March, 1937, the General Assembly approved and passed 'a bill to empower the Department of Conservation and Development to acquire Smith's Island at the mouth of Cape Fear River.' Unfortunately, no money was appropriated for this purchase.

"It was just over a year ago, on April 2, 1970, that the Carolina-Cape Fear Corporation announced its plans for a $228 million resort on the island. At that time, I reiterated my position that the island should not be developed commercially and that the State should acquire ownership.

"I moved immediately to get an agreement from the Nature Conservancy that it purchase the entire Smith Island complex and hold it in trust for the State of North Carolina.

"However, the owners have not indicated a willingness to sell to the State at what many consider a reasonable price. There is also some question as to the total acreage involved. The owners have proceeded with plans for a high density resort type development that would completely change the character of the island and which would do extensive damage to the estuaries and marsh areas surrounding the island.

"My proposal to you today is that the State initiate condemnation proceedings to bring Smith Island into state ownership.

"These proceedings will involve an appropriation of funds to be placed in escrow at the time condemnation proceedings are started. I ask that you appropriate these funds so that we can protect this unique asset.

"This action will require a series of appraisals to determine the amount of money that must be placed in escrow. Therefore, I am instructing the Department of Administration to initiate procedures that will provide all information and facts necessary to support these condemnation proceedings.

"The whole issue of whether Smith Island should be developed or preserved has become the focal point of a larger question: Just how serious are we about our environment?

"The time has come for all of us to make a commitment that will let everyone know that North Carolina is serious about its environment. I ask your support in this effort to bring Smith Island into public ownership.

"Today I have brought you up-to-date on the efforts of my administration toward the solution of our environmental problems. I have spent most of my time in explaining the details of five major environmental bills that will be presented to you.

"My recommendations are designed to attack specific problems which I feel are urgently in need of remedy. They will set out a definite environmental policy for North Carolina, deal with major problems relating to water and air pollution, provide a framework for protecting our coastal areas, establish a program for natural resource protection, improve the visual appearance of our State, and in general enhance the quality of life for our people.

"These efforts do not, by any means, close the book on our battle against pollution and environmental damage. Just as these are not our first efforts, neither shall they be our last.

"I will continue to search for ways to solve the multitude of environmental problems yet untouched.

"Mr. President, Mr. Speaker, members of the General Assembly:

"Each day brings new evidence that the quality of life on the planet on which we live and have our being faces serious problems of deterioration. Pollution of the air we breathe and the water we drink is approaching the crisis stage in some areas of the world. Congestion, noise and an ugly, befouled land are an offense to our senses and a danger to our health and well-being.

"Let us resolve, here and now, that North Carolinians are determined to protect our little corner of the world.

"Phillip Amadas and Arthur Barlowe almost 400 years ago described our State as 'the goodliest land under the cope of heaven.' We embark today on a course that will enable the same description to be applied to us tomorrow and in the countless tomorrows to come."

Upon the completion of his address, the Governor, joined by his escort committee, leaves the Hall of the House.

On motion of Senator Patterson, the Joint Assembly dissolves. The Senate repairs to its Chambers, and the House resumes consideration of its business.

Representative Smith of Guilford requests, and is granted, the floor to speak on a point of personal privilege as follows:

"Mr. Speaker, Members of the House:

"Yesterday we completed the final formal act in ratifying House Bill 303, known as the Shoplifting Bill. In the last 10 days there have been published so many unusual descriptions of this bill and so many unusual claims for its extent and scope that the public, at least the public in my area, has become very aroused and, in the language of one of the media, 'dumbfounded' by what has been done. Actually, however, I have not been able to find any of the media critics who have read the bill. I would urge that they do so because, as many of you have observed from the memorandum of April 26, which I circulated to each of you, the bill, as it passed this House and stripped of the Senate amendments, follows the common law cases. That is the way it was presented in this body and that is the way that it was adopted by this body. You will recall we made two very substantial amendments which I think improved the bill from the standpoint of protecting the customer.

"I would not take your time now but ask that the memorandum be incorporated in these comments in the Journal. However, I would read to you just one statement of the common law rule as contained in the classic work on THE LAW OF TORTS by Professors Harper and James. Listen to this — 'It has been universally held that if there be proof of theft legally sufficient to amount to probable cause, the property owner is justified in detaining the person suspected of stealing for a reasonable length of time in order to investigate the matter in a reasonable manner.'

"Now some people have said that we have abolished the right to sue for false arrest. Nothing could be further from the truth. Any customer can sue for false arrest, false imprisonment, slander, malicious prosecution, assault, and all the rest; and in my view, if he has been abused, the jury will find for him and the merchant will have to pay and pay not only actual damages but punitive damages. That is what juries are for. Juries every day decide questions of whether people behave in a reasonable manner and whether there is probable cause.

"I would ask that the media publish the exact text of the Act. If there is anything that can be pointed to that violates the common law precedents, we have plenty of time in which to change it. But we have not gone off our rocker. We have not done something that has no precedent in the common law.

"Unless this is clarified the public will be misled. Customers will be mistaken, merchants and clerks will be mistaken, even some of our judges may be mistaken and misled. Perhaps most dangerous of all, there will be an entirely unnecessary and unjustified misunderstanding of the judgment, responsibility, and competence of this body which, I am confident, is endeavoring to enact wise statutes for the better government of our State — not for the benefit or protection of the merchant class or any class, but for the equal protection of all whom we are pledged and privileged for a time to represent.

"We may make mistakes here. We will not always agree. But we have not, in this act, ignored or disregarded the rights of the people or departed from reason or sound legal precedents. To spread the alarm that we have done so, when we have not, can only deprive the State of that public confidence in its government which is the basis of ordered liberty in any society.

"We may in this long session, enact something that is unconstitutional, unnecessary or even foolish but this act is not it. There may come a time for the hue and cry to be raised, but not now, and not about this act which does have substantial support in the common law cases. Thank you Mr. Speaker."

MEMORANDUM

"The following excerpt from the classic work on THE LAW OF TORTS by Harper and James will be helpful to each of us in answering inquiries about HB-303. The bill as finally passed, stripped of the Senate amendments, does not appear to me to be substantially different from the following statement of the common law."

> "The question of privilege to impose a confinement or offensive contact to prevent the dispossession of chattels frequently arises in the case of the efforts of proprietors of stores and shops to prevent shoplifting. As against one reasonably suspected of this kind of theft, temporary detention is privileged for the purpose of investigation or recovery of the property. 'It has been universally held,' said the California court, 'that if there be proof of theft legally sufficient to amount to probable cause, the property owner is justified in detaining the person suspected of stealing for a reasonable length of time in order to investigate the matter in a reasonable manner. Neither mere suspicision of wrongdoing, nor actual belief not based on reasonable grounds, however, will justify such detention; nor may the accused be detained for an unreasonable time, or the investigation conducted in an unreasonable manner; and if these limitations are exceeded, the detention may amount to false imprisonment . . . ' "

> "§ 120A. Temporary Detention for Investigation
> One who reasonably believes that another has tortiously taken a chattel upon his premises, or has failed to make due cash payment for a chattel purchased or services rendered there, is privileged, without arresting the other, to detain him on the premises for the time necessary for a reasonable investigation of the facts.

Comment:

a. The privilege stated in this Section is necessary for the protection of a shopkeeper against the dilemma in which he would otherwise find himself when he reasonably believes that a shoplifter has taken goods from his counter. If there were no such privilege, he must either permit the suspected person to walk out of the premises and disappear, or must arrest him, at the risk of liability for false arrest if the theft could not be proved.

d. The privilege stated in this Section differs from the privilege of arrest in that it permits only temporary detention on the premises, and not the taking of the other into custody. If the actor purports to make an arrest, he is not privileged unless the circumstances fall within the rule stated in §119.

f. The privilege is one of detention on the premises for only the time necessary for a reasonable investigation. Investigation does not mean discovery of all of the facts but only such inquiry as may reasonably be made under the circumstances, promptly and without undue detention. What is a reasonable time will depend upon all of the circumstances, including the nature of the misconduct suspected, the amount involved, the explanation or denial offered by the other, his willingness to cooperate, and the time required to consult readily available sources of information. Normally, such a reasonable time will be short. Fifteen minutes may be too long where all that is necessary is to ask a clerk whether the other has paid. If the detention is continued beyond the time reasonably necessary for investigation, the actor is liable for the excessive detention."

"In the debate in the House, proponents of HB-303 argued that the bill merely codified the common law. Those who voted for the House Bill intended to do this.

"I have not made a detailed study of all the cases, but the above statements of the common law show that HB-303, as enacted, is not the flagrant deprivation of customers' rights which its critics claim. If there is any language which does go beyond and change the common law, that language should be pointed out now, while there is time for clarification.

"Otherwise, all the unfounded criticism and claims for the Act will merely mislead merchants and customers alike. This could cause both clerks and customers to behave under mistaken views of the law, leading to unfortunate conduct and unnecessary litigation and liability in the future. No one has been nor should be given any special license or privilege to abuse others."

ADDRESS BY THE GOVERNOR

"Mr. President, Mr. Speaker, members of the General Assembly.

"I am privileged to present to you my recommendations for reorganization of the Executive Branch of our State government.

"I do so in compliance with the will of the electorate of North Carolina as expressed in the referendum of last November 3.

"I do so with the knowledge that the North Carolina General Assembly through the years has consistently responded with wisdom and statesmanship in meeting contemporary problems.

"I do so with the realization that there is no ironclad organizational structure that is indisputably the best way to conduct our State government. I think you will find, however, that the plan being offered is well-conceived, sound, workable, will promote efficiency and is deserving of adoption.

"Finally, in offering it to you, I do so with the conviction that the time to act is now.

"The need for modernization of government is being felt throughout the nation. During the last six years, 25 states have partially or completely reorganized their governmental structures. Five states are actively involved in this field this year.

"As you are aware, the restructuring of our governmental apparatus is not a question of 'if' but a question of 'how.' Last November the voters approved an amendment to the State Constitution requiring you — the General Assembly — to reduce the number of State administrative departments to not more than 25 by 1975. This same amendment authorized the Governor to implement the reorganization subject to your approval.

"Reorganization is a mandate as clear, if not as concise, as the Lord's commandment in Second Kings: 'Set thine house in order.'

"The house of our State government began, understandably, on a modest foundation. Like Topsy, it just grew. Little or no thought was given to grouping the various parts along functional lines. The house became bulky and misshapen.

"It has produced overlapping, waste motion and inefficiency.

"The Governor, constitutionally, is the State's chief executive officer, but he lacks control over areas for which he is held responsible. The Governor's ability to carry out programs and policies enacted by you, the General Assembly, is seriously impaired.

"Most important of all, the ability of our State government to meet the needs of the people is diminished by a fragmented mechanism. Providing for the requirements of the citizenry is government's reason for being. The citizens have told us in no uncertain terms that they want and expect improvement, not only in governmental structure but in operations and services.

"They shall have it. The course has been charted by the Governor's Commission on State Government Reorganization after many months of research and planning.

"The commission has operated under the able and dedicated leadership of Senator John Henley of Cumberland. I commend him as well as the commission membership, which includes Speaker of the House Phil Godwin, Senators Fred Folger, Jr., Herman Moore, and Thomas E. Strickland; and Representatives Ike Andrews, Jim Holshouser, Roberts Jernigan, Dwight Quinn, Bill Roberson, Gene Snyder and Gus Speros.

"On the basis of this study, I propose that the Executive Branch of the government of North Carolina be organized into 18 principal departments.

"For purposes of explanation and discussion, this structure may be divided into two groups.

"The first group contains 11 departments, which already are established by statute. These are the Departments of Administration, Revenue and Local Affairs and the eight Council of State departments — the Secretary of State, Auditor, Agriculture, Insurance, Labor, Treasurer, Justice and Public Instruction.

"Although the plan would leave this first group of 11 established departments essentially intact, a number of transfers or regroupings of functions would be made within their structures. It is proposed that these 11 departments go into operation in their reorganized form no later than September 30 of this year.

"The second group contains seven new departments which have been formed by various mergers and consolidations along functional lines.

These seven are:

The Department of Commerce.
The Department of Military and Veterans' Affairs.
The Department of Health and Social Services.
The Department of Art, Culture and History.
The Department of Transportation and Highway Safety.
The Department of Social Rehabilitation and Control.
And the Department of Natural and Economic Resources.

"I propose that these seven new departments be activated, by Executive Order of the Governor, no later than July 1, 1972.

"In addition to the various regroupings, the reorganization plan calls for the termination of a group of agencies or commissions. These have long since performed the purposes for which they were established and no longer have a role to play in State government.

"Bear in mind, if you will, that the plan you are receiving today establishes only the first section of a broad framework to be completed by 1975.

"Further legislation will be needed in 1973 to correct or clarify any problems spotted during the next two years. And further, final, legislative action may be needed in 1975 to perfect and polish the plan.

"My recommendations to you today will be spelled out in detail in legislation to be known as The Executive Organization Act of 1971. Ladies and gentlemen, you have before you a copy of that Act as well as a summary of its recommendations. Time will not permit me to comment in detail, but I should like to speak to a few of the particulars.

"The position of the present Department of Conservation and Development in the revised structure of government has been widely discussed and debated. One school of thought holds that 'development' and 'conservation' are entirely at cross purposes and cannot be conducted within the same framework. This view has given rise to proposals to split C & D into two departments.

"There is something to be said for this view, but there is another side of the coin. Our economic development program as now constituted is widely respected as one of the best, if not the very best, in the nation. Its contributions to the well-being of North Carolinians are beyond calculation. It should be allowed to continue to go forward within a framework of proven value.

"At the same time, our development efforts can be, and are, compatible with our conservation efforts. The two are complementary, serving as supportive agencies one for the other. Industrial development can, and is, proceeding with a healthy concern for avoiding damage to the natural environment.

"These considerations led to my recommendation for creation of a Department of Natural and Economic Resources. This department will include the present functions of C & D, the Department of Water and Air Resources and the Wildlife Commission. This will provide a logical grouping of agencies concerned with the betterment of our total environment.

"You may be assured that the thrust of our environmental protection program, one of the most vital responsibilities of government and mankind, will continue and accelerate. Let no one have any doubt on that score.

"I recommend further that the Personnel Department be made a division of the Department of Administration. This will permit the major management functions of State government — personnel, budgeting, planning, purchasing and property control — to be placed under one roof. I recommend also that the Department of Administration pick up the following agencies, now autonomous as new divisions: The North Carolina Housing Corporation, the North Carolina Stadium Authority, the North Carolina Zoological Authority, the State Youth Council, the State Construction Finance Authority, and the Commission on Interstate Cooperation.

"I further recommend that the position of Lieutenant Governor be placed on a full-time basis, with appropriate salary adjustment, so that his talents may be utilized to the maximum in meeting the demands of State government. I propose that this upgrading of office become effective January 1, 1973.

"Having outlined for you the main features of the reorganization act, let me say that its adoption will begin the process of making State government as responsive to the public need as it should be. This plan will lead us out of a maze of dead-ends, confused lines of authority and diffused responsibility.

"I well imagine the plan will spawn controversy on certain of its features. Of necessity, it displaces and rearranges some parts in order to fashion a better entity. You can't make an omelet without breaking eggs.

"I'm sure you understand that what I am asking of you today is not for me. In fact, implementation of the plan will be another complex and time-consuming task for my administration. It would be easy for me to say: 'Oh, well, I'll be through in 20 more months, so let the next Governor worry about it.' But I am worried about the next Governor. And the next. And those who follow. I am worried about the impossible restrictions and road-blocks placed upon them by the continued proliferation of agencies. And I am concerned that we meet the expressed wish of the people for prompt installation of these governmental reforms.

"One of the great strengths of our governmental system is the separation of powers between the Executive and Legislative branches. The Constitution clearly provides that the General Assembly is to enact the laws and raise and appropriate the revenue. The Constitution also clearly provides that the responsibility of the executive affairs of State rests with the Governor.

"By enactment of rigid and unwieldy mechanisms of government, the legislative branch has over the years unknowingly delved into the Executive domain. The Legislature not only makes policy, as it should, but all too often it defines in detail the execution of policy. This permits little or no executive flexibility — a situation bearing directly on the matter before us.

"Despite this unintentional drift, there is general agreement that the framers of our Constitution displayed great wisdom in providing for separation of Legislative and Executive powers. Let us reaffirm our faith in their judgment.

"I am confident that affirmative action on these recommendations will produce economies, assure efficiencies and halt the further proliferation of government.

"Consider for a moment how we came to this point.

"When my father left the Governorship in January, 1953, there were only 173 State agencies, boards and commissions. Since then, another 122 have been added, each with its own distinct responsibilities and all reporting, in theory at least, to one chief executive.

"I say with all candor that today the ability of any Governor of North Carolina to effectively manage our government is impaired. In seeking to carry out the programs and policies enacted by the General Assembly, and in seeking to meet the public needs, he is hobbled by an unwieldly mechanism.

"The effects of this haphazard structure are felt, of course, at all levels. I'm sure that you — the elected representatives of the people — have your moments of frustration and concern when your sincerest efforts are thwarted by a structure that is unresponsive, uncoordinated and a mystery to the average citizen. There is fragmentation both in program and personnel areas, as I'm sure you've found.

"But it is the Governor, as chief executive officer and as director of the budget, who really finds himself shod with two left shoes. He does not have control over areas for which he is held accountable.

"The heads of the various departments and agencies, theoretically answerable to the Governor, are so scattered and free-wheeling that there is really little contact with the Governor. Some of these heads, I might add, may prefer it that way.

"Under our present system, when a department head is appointed for a definite term of, say, four years, according to the statutes creating the position, he is no longer under obligation to the Governor except as his conscience may dictate. Although the appointee actually runs his agency, the Governor is responsible to the people for how it is run and the effectiveness of the man he appointed. If the Governor later finds that his appointee is not doing as well as he should and would like to appoint someone better — or for whatever reason — he cannot do so. The appointee knows this, and often he becomes unresponsive, indifferent and careless. Indeed, he may choose not to carry out Administration policy, and there is little the chief executive can do about it. But management responsibility and the public good require something better. The nuts and bolts of the machinery need to be tightened. The chief executive must keep the cogs moving — or find out the reason why.

"The Governor's chair is truly 'where the buck stops.' When the General Assembly funds programs for the benefit of the public, both the Assembly and the public expect to get the best use of their money, the wisest management of their government.

"Through a consolidation of departments, agencies and boards performing the same or similar functions, we will be in a position to demand that the units of governmental management get in step with one another. We will be in a position to see that they terminate costly duplication of efforts and services. We will establish accountability. Perhaps more importantly, we will establish credibility.

"Mr. President, Mr. Speaker, members of the General Assembly: I ask your favorable consideration of this forward-looking plan. Few would expect us to leave a perfect legacy, for that is beyond our capabilities. But to do our best today, to prepare as best we can for the dawning future, this is to fulfill our purpose as public servants."

Upon the completion of his address, the Governor, joined by his escort committee, leaves the Hall of the House.

On motion of Senator Patterson, the Joint Assembly dissolves. The Senate repairs to its Chambers, and the House resumes consideration of its business.

Committee Substitute for H. B. 230, A BILL TO BE ENTITLED AN ACT TO APPORTION THE DISTRICTS OF THE NORTH CAROLINA HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

Representative Holshouser's motion to recommit the bill to the Committee on Legislative Districts fails.

Representative Speed offers an amendment and makes the following statement which he requests be entered in the Journal:

"Mr. Speaker, ladies and gentlemen of the House — House Bill #230 (Redistricting Bill) has many inequities but no area of the State of North Carolina is so grossly discriminated against as the present 16th District which encompasses Franklin, Vance, and Warren Counties.

"I have not been a member of this Committee and have been at a disadvantage in attempting to work out a satisfactory arrangement for my area. I have appeared before the Committee and expressed concern about several proposals that have been considered. The chairman of the Committee and several members stated that no plan which had more than a 10% population deviation would be considered and since our present district had an 11.07% deviation, that it would be necessary to divide our district. After being told that the Committee was leaning toward forming a three-seat district of Warren, Vance, Granville, Person, and Caswell Counties and that Franklin county would be required to go into another district, I agreed to several workable solutions but the Subcommittee apparently gave little consideration to either.

"The Committee insisted on placing Franklin and Johnston together into a two-seat district. I have strongly opposed this suggested plan since it was first mentioned on the grounds that Franklin nor Warren Counties could ever elect a representative — certainly not for the next ten years and very probably never again.

"This proposed district would provide no representative for Franklin County with 26,820 people or a plus deviation of 63.33% and two representatives for Johnston with 61,737 people carrying a minus 27% deviation. This far exceeds the 10% Committee guideline. The Committee also deviated minus 10.24% in District 10 and 10.09% in Wake. I submit to you that population deviation was not a primary factor in developing the plan that is before us. If so, the Committee would have given Mecklenburg the extra seat that was added to Wake. By doing this, Wake's deviation would have been reduced from the present 10.09% to 7.88% and would have given Mecklenburg nine representatives with only a deviation of 6.95%.

"My amendment not only provides fair treatment for Franklin County but it has unanimous support from the people of Warren County. They are extremely unhappy with the plan which proposes to put them into a five-county district encompassing Warren, Vance, Granville, Person, and Caswell Counties. Being a county with a small population, they too, could never elect a representative. I can also see many reasons why the people of Vance will be hurt by the Committee Plan.

"The passage of my amendment will unite Johnston and Wake into a compact district with seven seats and a low population deviation of minus 2.11% and a borderline boundary of more than 40 miles. There is no borderline whatsoever between Franklin and Johnston Counties.

"Franklin County, which will receive no representative under the Committee Plan, has 26,820 citizens who work, pay taxes, and love their state. Warren County with 15,810 people of like status will also be without a chance to elect a representative. My amendment will correct both of these gross inequities.

"When it was revealed that the West Subcommittee had formulated its plan and had one seat left, the Chairman of the East Subcommittee, Mr. Johnson, immediately started figuring how Wake County could get the extra seat. Wake had already gained one seat to bring their number of representatives to five with a deviation factor of plus 7.89%. By putting the extra seat in Wake the deviation factor was increased to a 10.09%.

"Our present district has much in common. We are in the same Congressional District, same Judicial District, and same Regional Planning District. All three counties are served by Louisburg College and The Vance Technical Institute. People in the three counties buy, bank, and sell in Warrenton, Louisburg, and Henderson and are served by the medical centers of each. The three counties are comparable in size and population and the people understand each other. None of these advantages could exist with a Franklin-Johnston tie.

"Now, Mr. Speaker, and Members of this August Body, the success or destruction of the present 16th District rests in your hands. I appeal to you to vote for my amendment. The people of my present district and I will always appreciate and remember your vote."

Representative Speed calls for the "ayes" and "noes". The call is sustained.

The amendment fails by the following vote.

Representative Taylor's motion to recommit the bill to the Committee on State Legislative Districts fails.

Representative Beard offers an amendment and requests that the following remarks be included in today's Journal:

"Mr. Speaker, Ladies and Gentlemen of the House:

"It is my contention that the present bill (Committee Substitute for House Bill 230) is vulnerable at two points: (1) its percentage deviation from the population norm, minus 10.24 percent for District Ten and plus 8.22 percent for District Thirty-five; and (2) it has questionable contiguous districts, with three of these having counties touching only at a point and having no common border. In subcommittee on March 19, 1971 I offered an alternate plan which would have provided a mathematically more precise redistricting of the Piedmont area of the State, and in full committee on May 14, 1971 I offered an amendment which would have provided running borders for counties in those districts where contiguity is a question.

"My amendment today would eliminate questionable contiguous districts and, while retaining approximately the same maximum percentage deviation from the norm as the present Committee Substitute, increases the number of districts with less than five percent deviation. The present bill has twenty-nine of forty-five districts under five percent; my amendment would provide thirty-one of forty-three districts with less than five percent deviation."

Upon Representative Ingram's motion, seconded by Representative Lilley, Representative Beard's amendment is tabled.

Representative Ramsey of Madison calls the previous question. The call is sustained.

Respectfully,
S/ Roy Rowe
Principal Clerk

The Speaker orders that a message be sent to the Senate with the information that pursuant to H. J. R. 1010, "A JOINT RESOLUTION INVITING HIS EXCELLENCY, THE GOVERNOR, TO ADDRESS A JOINT SESSION OF THE SENATE AND HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES AT 12:30 P.M., MAY 25, 1971", the House of Representatives stands ready to receive the Senate in Joint Session at the hour appointed.

JOINT SESSION

Pursuant to resolution heretofore adopted, and exchange of messages, the Sergeant-at-Arms of the House announces the arrival of the Senate at the door of the House. The Speaker directs the admittance and seating of that Honorable Body. The President of the Senate, The Honorable H. P. Taylor, Jr., is seated to the right of the Speaker and is presented the gavel.

The Joint Assembly is called to order by the President.

The Sergeant-at-Arms of the House announces the approach of the Governor. His Excellency enters escorted by Senators Kirby and Scott, and Representatives Martin, Andrews, and Rountree of Pitt.

The President recognizes Senator Kirby, who presents His Excellency Robert W. Scott, Governor of North Carolina, to the Joint Assembly. Governor Scott delivers the following address:

ADDRESS BY GOVERNOR ROBERT W. SCOTT THE STRUCTURE, ORGANIZATION AND GOVERNANCE OF HIGHER EDUCATION IN NORTH CAROLINA

"Mr. President, Mr. Speaker, members of the General Assembly:

"I am grateful for the opportunity you have given me to come before you once again, because I do have something of importance to say to you.

"Compelling circumstances in the field of higher education today lead me to invite your attention to one of the most important segments of life in our State. This trip, ladies and gentlemen, is necessary.

"I realize full well that the members of this General Assembly have their hands full — but what public servant worth his salt does not?

"Service to the public demands adaptability.

"It demands flexibility.

"It demands stickability. Pressing problems are met whenever and wherever they arise. We keep on keeping on. Like the farmer, we pray for a crop but we keep hoeing.

"I will be as brief as possible in my message to you. This much I can assure you: If I could be as brief as I am sincere, then my remarks would be brief indeed.

"Simply stated, my message is this: For some time we have been traveling a dangerously erratic course in public higher education in North Carolina. We are proceeding with all sail and no rudder. Wasteful and damaging forces are chipping away at the structure of our system. Disaster will follow unless it is righted, reinforced and redirected. We needed to do this long ago. We must do it now. Tomorrow will be too late.

"Most of the damage is occurring from within — the wrangling, the rivalry, the empire building, the costly overlapping and duplication, the gilding-of-the-lily, the arrogant distrust and suspicion, the holier-than-thou, looking-down-the-nose attitude, the devil-take-the-hindmost, 'I'm getting mine, how are you doing?' philosophy prevails. These internal disorders will grow progressively worse if left unchecked. Strong measures are called for. You can't cure cancer with a band-aid.

"Our system of State-supported higher education can be shielded from external assaults, but nothing can save it when it chooses to lay rough hands upon itself. It needs to be restructured in such a way that this will not occur.

"This we must do. This we can do — the way has been opened for us today by the report of the Governor's Study Committee on Structure and Organization of Higher Education.

"Chaired by former Senator Lindsay Warren, Jr., of Wayne, one of North Carolina's most solid and able citizens, the committee made a searching examination of our system of higher education. It has fulfilled in every sense the trust I placed in it when I requested the study six months ago. Members of the committee deserve the thanks of all North Carolinians.

"The Warren Committee, as it turned out, showed some of the distinguishing characteristics of the system it was examining. The Committee was split and divided.

"The majority recommended that our present system be replaced by a new Statewide planning and co-ordinating agency to be know as 'The Board of Regents of the University of North Carolina System.' This agency would combine the best features of the two principal entities within our present system — the Board of Higher Education and the Consolidated University of North Carolina.

"A minority of the committee members recommended that no changes at all be made in the system other than a revision of the powers and duties of the Board of Higher Education.

"The report of the committee, including both the majority proposal and the minority proposal, has been made available to you. I hope you will read it very thoroughly and with a critical eye.

"Regardless of how you feel about this question, the Warren Report is an excellent documentary of the history and development of higher education in North Carolina and the problems which now beset the system.

"I have read and analyzed both the majority and minority reports. To me, the course we should follow now becomes clear. I recommend that you enact legislation implementing the majority report. It speaks from the head. It deals in reality, in things as they are.

"I recommend that you reject the minority report. It speaks from the heart. It deals in romanticism, in things past that some wish to preserve. It does not meaningfully address itself to the solution of the problem of the present with hope for the future.

"It would be well to note at this point that I appear before you today wearing several hats. Each is separate, yet all are related.

"I speak as chairman of the Board of Trustees of the Consolidated University of North Carolina. In this capacity, I preside at the perfunctory quarterly meetings of the board and at the monthly meetings of its Executive Committee, which in actuality runs the six campuses of the University.

"I speak also as chairman of the Board of Higher Education. From this vantage point, I have had exposure to broad policy matters, as well as the individual needs, of all 16 of our institutions. Only service on this board provides one with a true over-view of the total picture of higher education in our State.

"I speak too as Director of the Budget, a statutory position assigned to the Governor. General Statute 143-3, the Executive Budget Act, contains the following language: 'It shall be the duty of the Director to recommend to the General Assembly at each session such changes in the organization, management and general conduct of the various departments, institutions and other agencies of the State . . . as in his judgment will promote the more efficient and economical operation and management thereof.'

"Finally, I speak as Governor. Constitutionally designated as the chief executive officer of the State, I bear the ultimate responsibility for the efficient operation of our government, including higher education.

"Ladies and gentlemen, it is in fulfillment of these statutory and constitutional duties that I address you now.

"In considering the Warren Report, let us at the very outset identify the one thing which may tend to blur your vision. It is the office of the Consolidated University of North Carolina, an administrative apparatus fashioned 40 year ago in the depths of the Great Depression.

"Your deliberations will no doubt be monopolized by ringing cries of 'deconsolidation' and 'total and complete dismantling' of this six-campus arrangement. I hope you will cut through the fog of sentiment which will accompany these cries, that you will recognize them as a diversionary move, and that you will support 'reconsolidation' of our total program of higher education.

"The institutions within the Consolidated University will benefit from reconsolidation. This is my conviction, and this is the conviction of many knowledgeable people in higher education. But there are certain supporters, loyal supporters, of the Consolidated University who refuse even to consider seriously this feature of the proposal.

"It should be pointed out that the Warren Committee's decision was not clearly a split between members representing the University and those representing the other institutions or the Board of Higher Education. Two members representing regional universities voted with the minority. Two trustees of the University voted with the majority.

"I dare say that if you were to speak candidly and confidentially with the administrative leadership of the various Consolidated University campuses, other than the one at Chapel Hill, you would find that many — not all, to be sure, but many — favor the concept of a single governing board of all institutions. And, I have had such conversations. Naturally, when the administration and trustees of the Consolidated University take a position on a matter, campus officials are not disposed to differ publicly with that position.

"It is interesting to note that various Consolidated University alumni groups have already adopted resolutions opposing the reconsolidation plan. These actions came before the report was even written, much less made public. In addition, the letter writers and phone callers have been busy for more than a week now, opposing any change even before the details of the reports were made known to you or me. I will leave it to you to speculate on the source of these efforts.

"Let's be honest: Let's be candid: Let's be frank: When the Consolidated University leadership speaks of the 'University of North Carolina', it is harking to the sound of Tar Heel voices — it has reference primarily to the campus at Chapel Hill.

"When one stands back and views all of higher education in North Carolina, and attends meetings of the University Board of Trustees and its Executive Committee, it is apparent that there is a very rigid pecking order. The agendas, the length of discussions, the emphasis indeed the attitudes, reflect the fact that most of the attention is given to the campus at Chapel Hill, with the Raleigh campus following close behind but definitely in second place. These two are the older brothers of the University family.

"The University at Greensboro is the oldest sister, who is to be admired and protected but is not expected to say or do much and should be subservient to the oldest members of the family. The campuses at Asheville, Charlotte, and Wilmington are newcomers who have been married into the family. They are, therefore, to be heard, considered and protected but are not and never will be part of the inner circle — the original three. They are the in-laws of the University. All other institutions in the State are outside the family. Their existence is acknowledged sometimes and therefore, they must be tolerated, but not at the expense of or threat to a member of the family, especially the original three and never to the oldest brother.

"In seeking equity through reconsolidation of our total program, you will be bombarded by charges that the plan would 'destroy' the Consolidated University. Perhaps a bit of history will be pertinent to this argument.

"The University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, truly a center of academic excellence — nobody denies it — we are proud of it — was chartered in 1789 and was the first state-supported university in our land to open its doors to students.

"But it was not until 142 years later, in 1931, that the University was grouped with North Carolina State in Raleigh and the Woman's College in Greensboro in a consolidated administrative structure. So, in the history of higher education in North Carolina, this consolidated concept is relatively new.

"The Consolidated University of North Carolina, a mechanism, a management function, which would be discarded under the proposed restructuring, has a short history and little heritage. It has no reputation or standing of its own. These are the possessions of its member institutions, which would be strengthened and improved.

"The minority report recites the many services that the six institutions in the Consolidated University have been rendering to the State. It is an impressive review. If I thought for one moment that any of these services would be eliminated or lessened by the plan of the Warren Committee, I would not recommend it to you. But it is the individual institutions that render these services, not the Consolidated office.

"The individual institutions teach students, conduct extension activities, perform research, and operate a medical school. Under the proposed change, all of these activities would proceed with vigor and with increased cooperation among all institutions, instead of just the six campuses, which is now the case.

"I would urge you not confuse the Consolidated office with the six campuses. The Consolidated office is both a co-ordinating and a governing body. Its functions would not be discontinued but would be transferred, with most of the internal governing functions going to the boards of trustees of the individual schools, and the co-ordinating functions going to the proposed new Board of Regents.

"The Consolidation Act of 1931, a pioneering step in higher education, won adoption in the face of fierce opposition. Economic considerations were chiefly responsible for turning the tide. We were in the grip of the Depression, and it was anticipated that consolidation would bring economies and strengthen academic programs by reducing unnecessary duplication.

"At that time, only the three member institutions offered meaningful graduate programs and engaged in extensive research. The other State-supported institutions were limited purpose schools, engaged primarily in the training of teachers.

"The situation has changed drastically in recent years. Like the original three Consolidated institutions, the others now have greatly increased enrollments, programs and budgets. All are now authorized by action of the General Assembly to award the doctorate subject to Board of Higher Education approval. All have grown considerably stronger, both educationally and politically.

"Thus, the relative strength and influence of the Consolidated University is less today. And unless the present structure is altered, its position will continue to grow relatively weaker.

"I know of no one in this General Assembly — or any thoughtful person for that matter — who wants to harm the University. Rather, we all wish to see this great institution rise even higher in national ranking, prestige and influence.

"To its loyal supporters, let me say that I am honestly convinced that the best way — the only way — to accomplish this is to have one board co-ordinating all of higher education, a board which will decide which institutions will serve in what roles and at what levels. Otherwise, the General Assembly will resolve the problem in the political arena, and the University will be the loser in the long run.

"The proposed plan would not destroy the University or any of its six campuses. I would not be a party to that and neither would you. The plan does not affect any of its programs, faculty positions, buildings or campuses. The plan simply abolishes the Board of Higher Education and the office of general administration of the Consolidated University, replacing them with one coordinating board of all institutions. Individual, separate boards of trustees would be established for all institutions.

"I yield to no one in my respect and appreciation for the institutions comprising the Consolidated University and for the framers of the 1931 act, led by Governor O. Max Gardner. Governor Gardner was right.

"And the General Assembly of 1931 was right in light of conditions that existed in that day. But that day has passed. This is 1971, not 1931. Since Governor Gardner's day, our enrollments have increased tenfold and our higher education budget has increased a hundred-fold.

"If consolidation was appropriate in meeting the financial and educational challenges of that day, extension of the underlying principle is even more appropriate in 1971.

"Elimination of waste and duplication of efforts and programs were compelling arguments in 1931. They are even more compelling today, with a system of higher education which is infinitely larger and more complex.

"The problems faced by the system today are pinpointed by the Warren Committee report.

"First the committee says: the statutory powers of the Board of Higher Education limit its authority to coordinate higher education effectively. The minority report suggests amending the statutory powers of the board, but this is not an adequate solution.

"This will not solve the problem facing higher education in North Carolina today. Nor will it solve the problems facing you in future General Assemblies. As long as there are two boards, there inevitably will be conflict.

"The committee makes clear that it is not criticizing the board or its staff. In recent years, with additional appropriations for staff and research, the board has rendered excellent service to the State. Its rapport with the General Assembly has improved. Yet the fact remains, and has been demonstrated time and again over the past few years, that the board does not have the authority necessary to coordinate higher education effectively.

"The second problem the committee cites is that the state faces the real possibility of further duplication and overlapping in graduate degree programs. The committee states emphatically that 'a proliferation of expensive, unneeded doctoral programs would be a tragic mistake for the State. The dimensions of this problem can be seen when it is realized that the costs of doctoral programs often range from 10-20 times the costs of undergraduate programs.'

"The third problem identified by the committee is that under our present system each institution submits a separate budget to the Advisory Budget Commission and the General Assembly. The committee points out that the emphasis now is on what each institution considers to be its needs and that these are not necessarily synonymous with Statewide needs.

"In no other major area of State service is there a similar lack of State-level budget review.

"Every one of the 16 institutions goes to the Advisory Budget Commission and General Assembly with a separate budget. Suppose every school district did that, every community college and technical institute, every mental institution, every State-supported hospital, every highway distict — came to you with a separate budget. But that's what we now have in public senior higher education.

"Every institution is forced by the nature of the system to jockey for position before the Advisory Budget Commission and the General Assembly.

This forces the presidents into unseemly competition against each other in order to get things for their institutions. It is wasteful, and more important, it is not the sensible way to arrive at a fair appraisal of what is really needed in the State. The Advisory Budget Commission and the General Assembly and its committees are victims of this system just as the institutions are. The Advisory Budget Commission needs help, I believe you need it, the Governor needs it as director of the budget, and the institutions need it.

"A major cause of our predicament is that all too often the legislature has made educational decisions in the white heat of political emotionalism. All too often, the General Assembly shuns the advice of an agency staffed to provide factual information on which such decisions should be based. In other words, the legislature has been prone to bypass the agency it created to offer guidance — the Board of Higher Education.

"It is essential to the success of our State's higher education effort that the General Assembly rely upon a strong coordinating agency, the Board of Regents, for direction in this field.

"The fourth problem cited by the committee is that the present system is structurally unsound. It is a 'system within a system.' There is the Consolidated University with coordinating and governing authority over six institutions, and there is the Board of Higher Education with coordinating responsibility for all 16. Nearly all of the functions of the Board of Higher Education are performed also by the Consolidated Office but for only six institutions.

"Necessarily, there is duplication. For example, when a request for a new program comes from one of the campuses of the Consolidated University, it first must go through the prescribed screening on its own campus and then be screened again by councils or Committees that represent all six campuses. Understandably, there is annoyance that a program so carefully screened must be reviewed yet again, this time by the Board of Higher Education. But some agency must represent the whole State, considering not just six campuses but all 16.

"Our system itself makes this duplication of work necessary and breeds constant conflict between the two coordinating bodies.

"Furthermore the existence of six institutions under one governing board, with a large proportion of the State's students, resources, and political muscle, breeds conflict between that organization and the other institutions.

"The system itself encourages jealousy and hard feeling among institutions. Further it encourages wasteful rivalry and unnecessary duplication of educational activities.

"This brings me to the fifth and last problem cited by the Warren Committee: the present system does not make effective use of resources. The committe report gives a number of good illustrations of this problem. Many additional illustrations could be given. Let me suggest a few.

"As of last year we offered graduate degrees in geography at four institutions in the State. The total number of graduates of all four programs was 13. Only one of the programs had as many as five graduates.

"In French, six institutions offered graduate degrees. Four of the six had fewer than five graduates each.

"In home economics, which, despite its name, is not a very economical field to teach, we offered graduate work at four institutions. The total number of graduates at all four was 28, about enough, I should have thought, for one reasonable program. Three of the four institutions did not have as many as five graduates.

"In chemistry, an expensive program, eight institutions offered graduate degrees. Five of the eight had fewer than five graduates.

"In geology, three institutions offered graduate degrees with a total production of 18. Two of the three had fewer than five graduates each.

"In mathematical sciences, nine institutions offered graduate programs. Six of the nine had fewer than five graduates each.

"In giving these figures I am not pointing the finger at any institution or group of institutions. Even though the minority report states otherwise, the hard fact is that every institution, including those in the Consolidated University, has programs of low productivity. Nearly one-third of our doctoral degree programs last year produced no graduates at all. Over forty percent of our master's degree programs had no graduates.

"Ladies and gentlemen, I can assure you that this is not the way to run a business, and while higher education should not be viewed as a business, I submit that this is not a sensible way to run higher education. We have an obligation to the people of this State to develop a system that will be more economical in its use of the State's resources allocated to higher education. If we want programs of the highest quality, we are not going to achieve them by spreading our money thinly over a large number of unproductive areas.

"As a further illustration of the monetary toll exacted by duplication, the per-student cost of operating the Board of Higher Education for all sixteen institutions is about $5.00. The cost of operating the Consolidated University office, on the other hand, is almost $12.00. Thus the coordinating and governing cost beyond that incurred at the local campus, for six of the institutions is approximately $17,000 and at the others, $5,000.

"In recommending adoption of the majority report, of the Warren Committee, I suggest two modifications.

"The majority report recommends that the regency plan become effective July 1. I disagree with this choice of date. July 1 is too close at hand. I recommend that the effective date be October 1.

"The committee stated that 'for practical reasons' the Board of Regents should have 100-plus members. I disagree with this conclusion. I believe a smaller board is needed. I recommend a 47-member board.

"Forty-four of the 47 would be elected by the General Assembly for eight-year overlapping terms. The Chairmen of the House and Senate Committees on Higher Education would serve as ex-officio members. The Governor would serve as ex-officio chairman.

"The initial Board of Regents would be selected by you, the General Assembly, from the present board of trustees of the Consolidated University, from the present board of trustees of the regional universities and from the present Board of Higher Education. I suggest that at least 15 come from the Consolidated University, at least 15 from the regional universities and at least six from the Board of Higher Education. This would assure a balance in the Board of Regents.

"In addition to the Board of Regents, each of the 16 institutions would have its own local board of trustees. The local boards would have 13 members appointed by the Governor subject to confirmation by you, the General Assembly. They would have substantial authority for governing the internal affairs of their respective institutions, subject to the authority granted to them by the statutes and the Board of Regents.

"The point here is that the General Assembly would elect the board for all of higher education in the State. You don't do that now. Under our present system, you elect trustees to govern only six institutions — the six within the Consolidated University. Trustees of the other institutions are appointed by the Governor subject to your approval which, oftentimes, occurs two years after the fact.

"Some have suggested that this entire question of restructuring needs further study and that to act now would be to act too hastily. I respect their views but this is a matter which must not be further delayed.

"Change is already overdue, and if you postpone action now, the next General Assembly may not understand the problem until too late. Some of you may not be in the next legislature. This is your opportunity to speak to this question. We need to 'fish or cut bait.' The momentum we have should be utilized.

"The committee recommendations were not arrived at lightly. The committee studied the matter thoroughly in sessions extending through 10 long weekends and consuming more than 100 hours.

"Consultants were brought in. Educational authorities, including the presidents of the institutions, were invited to speak. Every conceivable alternative to the present system was considered, and all were unanimously rejected except the two contained in the majority and minority reports.

"I urge you to adopt the majority report. The minority suggests that a simple restatement of the powers and duties of the Board of Higher Education would suffice. I am not sure this would help at all. On the contrary, it appears to me that it would weaken the board.

"The minority proposal would, for example, remove four of the members of the General Assembly from the board, while leaving them free to serve on institutional boards. It would give statutory sanction to a Council of Presidents in a form in which that group could become a competitor to the Board of Higher Education. The budget review powers recommended in the minority report are, in my opinion, inadequate.

"The minority report spells out nine reasons for the success of the Consolidated concept. Each of the nine says, in so many words, that the success is due to the existence of a single governing board, a central administrative office, and cooperative relationships among the various branches. Why, then, if this be true, should we not extend this same concept of consolidation, with its attendant benefits, to the other schools in our State system?

"The minority report, in its opposition to the Board of Regents idea, states: 'The operation of a coordinating board is an exercise in control and containment through the use of power.' If that is the case, then that is precisely what is needed to bring order out of our present chaos. Control of budgets and programs, and containment of waste and duplication are exactly what we seek and what is needed.

"Our citizens' tax dollars allotted by you to support higher education are not being properly utilized. There is ample evidence of this in reports of factual surveys and serious studies which have been made of our institutions. These various reports are available to you from the Board of Higher Education.

"The State spends approximately $335 million biennially for all of higher education including research and extension programs. There has been a tendency not to question requests for programs and funds, because higher education is 'a good thing', falling in the same category as motherhood, God and country.

"After two years as Governor and as chairman of the Board of Higher Education, I say to you, the members of the General Assembly — and through you to the citizens of North Carolina — that it is time to do some questioning. It is time for control and containment.

"There is no doubt that the Board of Higher Education needs to be strengthened, but even if the recommendations of the minority report clearly accomplished this, our problems would not be solved. That's the point I'm trying to drive home. The problems are not going to be solved as long as we have two boards in conflict, trying to run the show.

"We would still have a 'system within a system,' with all the conflicts and waste that such an arrangement makes inevitable, and the next session of the General Assembly and every one after that would have to face again and again the basic organizational defects of our present arrangement. So long as these basic defects remain, the citizens and taxpayers of the State will suffer, and the students and institutions will suffer also.

"Mr. President, Mr. Speaker, members of the General Assembly: There are worlds to conquer and mountains to climb. There are the worlds of emotionalism and the mountains of tradition. Conquer them. Climb them. Let's move forward while we may because one of these days is none of these days."

Upon completion of his address, the Governor, joined by his escort committee, leaves the Hall of the House.

On motion of Senator Patterson, the Joint Assembly dissolves. The Senate repairs to its Chamber, and the House resumes consideration of its business.

Were Representative Miller present he would vote "aye". Representative Johnson of Johnston votes "no".

Representative Rountree of New Hanover requests and is granted permission to enter the following statement in the Journal:

"Mr. Speaker, Ladies and Gentlemen of the House,

"We have today given birth to a bill imposing mandatory licensing to all private day care centers in North Carolina. Such centers must not only satisfy the requirements set out in Committee Substitute for House Bill 100 but also must meet such additional standards as imposed by the day care licensing board.

"I have opposed this legislation from its introduction and feel impelled to ask that my reasons and objections be inserted in the House Journal.

"Obviously everyone favors improving the welfare and environment in which children develop. We are told that a study commission discovered numerous day care centers in which basic health, sanitation and safety concepts were rejected or abused. Assuming for the moment that the problems are grave and widespread, the creation of a bureaucratic agency to administer a state wide licensing requirement does not solve the problem.

"The problem essentially is humanics. That is, the relationship of those taking care of the children and the children themselves. A person who will abuse children is just as easily disguised in a facility that can meet licensing requirements as not. Even more basically the legislation is designed to protect children not from the inadequate environment of certain day care centers but from the mistake of the parent of such child in placing him in such center.

"We should avoid legislation which makes every mistake, as you and I might judge, a violation of law.

"It is argued by proponents of the legislation that minimum standards, below which it is criminal to operate, are the only standards required by the bill. Yet, if this be true, why aren't those operating such centers prosecuted under present criminal law.

"I frankly foresee this legislation as a prelude to State supported day care centers. If North Carolina licenses day care centers in order to protect children, not from the centers themselves, but from the parents of such children, is not the next step to take the development of the child entirely away from the parent and put it in the hands of the State supported day care centers?

"We live in a permissive society. Evidence of this fact abounds on every college campus. Running rampant is the concept that individuals are not responsible for anything, including themselves, and the State as the fallible father bears all the burdens and, of course, the errors. We walk a path of error which we must traverse twice.

"Although the protection of children is a worthy goal, I am confident the powers of local government granted by the 1969 General Assembly are entirely adequate to create an environment which properly considers each child, parental responsibilities for raising the child, and the private day care center operator."

H. B. 1045, A BILL TO BE ENTITLED AN ACT TO INCREASE FEE FOR CERTIFIED COPIES OF DEPARTMENT OF MOTOR VEHICLES' RECORDS.

Passes its third reading, by the following votes, and is ordered sent to the Senate.

H. B. 834, A BILL TO BE ENTITLED AN ACT RELATING TO THE CLASSIFICATION APPRAISAL, VALUATION, ASSESSMENT, AND TAXATION OF FARMLAND.

The bill fails to pass its second reading, by the following vote.

Those voting in the affirmative are: Representatives Auman, Beard, Beatty, Campbell, Clark, Cobb, Collins, Culpepper, Davis, Falls, Farmer of Wake, Foley, Frye, Fulton, Harkins, Harris, Hege, Hicks, Hunt, Huskins, James, Jones, Lawing, Leatherman, Long, Martin, Mayfield, Patton, Payne, Penton, Phillips, Ramsey of Person, Roberson, Rountree of Pitt, Royall, Short, Smith of Guilford, Smith of Orange, Snyder, Stevens, Stewart, Twiggs, Venters, Warlick, Watkins, Whichard, and Wynne — 47.

"TO THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY OF THE STATE OF NORTH CAROLINA

"THAT WHEREAS the future of the State of North Carolina rests in our most valuable asset, our children;

"AND WHEREAS there are many children within the geographical boundaries of North Carolina who are from improverished areas and families;

"AND WHEREAS a child who is hungry is a child who can neither realize nor take advantage of the educational opportunities, no matter how challenging and rewarding, or how well presented;

"AND WHEREAS in recent years, through joint efforts of our State and Federal Governments, a school lunch program has provided meals for those children in our school systems who would have otherwise gone hungry and without;

"AND WHEREAS through the use of commodity foods, each of the 900,000 children in the public schools benefits each day through lower overall meal prices:

"AND WHEREAS the Advisory Budget Commission for the State of North Carolina has failed to recommend the appropriation of $2,016,000.00, which would, if provided, be matched by federal funds totaling $55,000.000.00 in cash and commodities, and which would insure that no child would go hungry while attending school in this state;

"NOW THEREFORE, we, the undersigned, all concerned citizens of North Carolina, earnestly petition the General Assembly of the State of North Carolina to include within governmental appropriations for the next biennium the sum of $2,016,000.00 needed for the operation of this program so that all our children will receive full opportunity for adequate education and that no child, because of poverty, be required to go through school hungry when we know it need not be."

It is signed by more than 28,000 names.

The Speaker announces that it will be in the Speaker's Office if members desire to examine it.

ONE HUNDRED FORTY-SECOND DAY

Prayer is offered by the Reverend D. P. McFarland, Executive Director of the Christian Action League.

Representative Johnson of Wake reports the Journal of yesterday has been examined and found to be correct. Upon his motion, the Journal is approved as written.

A leave of absence is granted Representative Twiggs for today.

INTRODUCTION OF BILLS

The following bills are introduced, read the first time, and disposed of as shown:

By Representative Johnson of Wake:

H. B. 1441, A BILL TO BE ENTITLED AN ACT TO AMEND CHAPTER 15 OF THE GENERAL STATUTES SO AS TO AUTHORIZE POLICE OFFICERS OF OTHER STATES TO PURSUE AND ARREST FELONS IN NORTH CAROLINA.

Referred to Committee on Judiciary No. 1.

By Representatives Johnson of Wake, Twiggs, Farmer of Wake, and Wynne:

H. B. 1442, A BILL TO BE ENTITLED AN ACT TO REVISE AND CONSOLIDATE THE CHARTER OF THE TOWN OF CARY AND TO REPEAL PRIOR CHARTER ACTS.

Referred to Committee on Judiciary No. 1.

Representative Johnson of Wake yields the gavel to Representative Farmer of Wake who presides.

Representative Eagles is recognized on a point of personal privilege. He states that he was Reading Clerk in the House during the 1935 Session. At the request of Representative Farmer of Wake, he recites from memory the roll call of the 1935 House.

Representative Farmer of Wake yields the gavel to Representative Wynne, who presides. He recognizes Representative Warlick as the only Republican member of the House to be present for this historic occasion.

Observing the presence of the Honorable Thad Eure, Secretary of State, Representative Wynne calls upon him to address the House. Mr. Eure traces the history of Saturday sessions from the time his father served in 1925 to the present:

"Back in those days when I was a member, they came to Raleigh and stayed. When my father was in the House in 1925, 1927, he only went home once. I didn't go home more than two or three times in 1929. From where we lived, you had to go to Norfolk and catch a train to get here. It was quite an ordeal. Some western members had to go to Atlanta to get a train to Raleigh.

"In that time, during the '20s, the Assembly had six full sessions a week. Saturday was a day like any other.

"Back in those days there wasn't a foot of concrete between Hertford County and Raleigh. Not a foot. There was one piece of nine-foot wide brick road. By the 1930's, we had a few roads in North Carolina and we started having some buses, a very few. The members began going home weekends. Some would go home one weekend, others the next.

"The Assembly ruled that local bills only, not statewide, 'public' bills, would be considered on Saturdays because so many members were absent.

"When good roads were built, legislators left Raleigh Friday afternoon and returned for a Monday night session, and the Wake delegation assumed the task of holding the Saturday sessions, as required by the Constitution."

On motion of Representative Johnson of Wake, all those present for this historic occasion shall have their names entered into today's Journal.

Members of the House present are Representatives Eagles, Farmer of Wake, Johnson of Wake, Warlick, and Wynne.

Members of the House staff are Mrs. Jo Ann Smith, Principal Clerk; Mrs. Mary Kate Tarleton, Calendar Clerk who is serving as Reading Clerk today; Miss Kitty Bernhardt, Assistant Calendar Clerk who is serving as Journal Clerk today; Frank Wilkinson and A. B. Swindell of the Sergeant-at-Arms staff.

Special guests and visitors are the Honorable Thad Eure; Dana Wynne, daughter of Representative Wynne; Joe Farmer and Jim Farmer, sons of Representative Farmer of Wake; Cherrie Dell Warlick, daughter of Representative Warlick; Mrs. Larry Eagles, wife of Representative Eagles; and the Reverend D. P. McFarland.

Also present are Jack Aulis of the News and Observer, Bill Miller with the Raleigh Times, Max Powell with WTVD, and Bob Sadler with WRAL-TV.

Other visitors are Catherine Northrop, Moses Farmer of Garner, Mrs. Judy M. Powell of Raleigh, Charles Fussell of Raleigh, Miss Theresa Stepp of Hendersonville, Miss Robin Kimble of Raleigh, Louis C. Smith of Apex, and A. Earl Smith of Apex.

On motion of Representative Johnson of Wake, seconded by Representative Farmer of Wake, the House adjourns to meet Monday at 2:00 P.M.

By Representative Brown of Wilkes:

H. R. 1572, A HOUSE RESOLUTION ESTABLISHING PROPER PROCEDURE FOR THE INTRODUCTION OF ALL BILLS RELATING TO INTOXICATING SPIRITS (OTHERWISE KNOW AS WINE, BEER AND LIQUOR).

Whereas, the 1971 General Assembly has exhausted more time debating the issue of whether the State should be dry or wet than any other issue; and

Whereas, this body would have adjourned on June 15 if that time could have been devoted to other issues; and

Whereas, the members of this body suffer hangovers from the spirit of such debate; and

Whereas, the cure for this illness which plagues the General Assembly each session is the cure set out below; and

Whereas, the cure set forth below would lead to the curtailment of other lengthy debates on such subjects as drunken driving, highway safety, public drunkenness, etc.; Now therefore, be it resolved by the House of Representatives:

Section 1. All bills relating in any manner to the consumption of alcoholic beverages shall, from this day forward, be introduced only by Republicans.

Sec. 2. This procedure is hereby enacted by the 1971 General Assembly as the only solution to this age-old problem as it is an established fact that all bills introduced by Republicans are automatically axed, tabled, unfavorably reported, postponed indefinitely or, to put it more succinctly, killed.

Sec. 3. All rules, laws or clauses of laws in conflict with this cure are hereby repealed.

Sec. 4. This resolution shall become effective immediately upon the reading of this resolution.

On motion of Representative Speros, seconded by Representative Quinn, the resolution is tabled.

SPECIAL MESSAGE FROM THE SENATE

SENATE CHAMBER
July 19, 1971

Mr. Speaker:

It is ordered that a message be sent your Honorable Body with the information that the Senate has adopted the report of the Conferees on the differences arising between the two bodies on Senate Bill No. 790, "A BILL TO BE ENTITLED AN ACT FOR PRIVILEGED COMMUNICATIONS BETWEEN STUDENTS AND SCHOOL COUNSELORS", and since a similar action has been taken on the part of the House, we have ordered the bill enrolled.

REPORT OF THE JOINT STUDY COMMITTEE ON ELECTRONIC VOTING UNITS IN THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY

Pursuant to the provisions of Resolution 87, 1971 General Assembly (House Joint Resolution 237), a joint study committee was appointed to perform the following functions:

1. To make a study of the need and advisability to install electronic voting units in the General Assembly;

2. To make recommendation for the purchase and installation of electronic voting units;

3. To recommend the most practical manner of providing a complete journal through the process of electronic voting devices;

4. To study and recommend rule changes which would be necessary with the use of such units;

5. To recommend a time when such units should be installed if the committee finds that such units would provide to the people of the State more open and public knowledge of the business transacted by the General Assembly.

The Lieutenant Governor appointed Senators J. Ollie Harris, Herman A. Moore and Thomas E. Strickland to the committee.

The Speaker of the House appointed Representatives Ike Andrews, Robert L. Farmer and Carl V. Venters to the committee.

In the limited time available to it, the committee has not been able to make an in-depth study of the specific functions set out in Resolution 87 (House Joint Resolution 237). The committee has, however, studied the general question as to the value to the General Assembly of an electronic voting system.

The committee is of the opinion that the installation of electronic voting devices in each chamber of the General Assembly will result in such a considerable savings of time and improvement in accuracy of vote count that these considerations alone justify the expense of installing and maintaining such devices.

The committee is of the opinion that questions as to the most practical way of adapting the electronic voting devices to the automated production of a complete journal and as to rule changes which will be necessary in order to use these devices are matters which should be left to the Legislative Services Commission for study and decision.

Accordingly, the committee recommends that the General Assembly authorize the Legislative Services Commission to select and cause to be installed in both the Senate and House Chambers, in time to be used in the 1973 General Assembly, electronic voting units. The units installed should be of a type which can be combined with other equipment to produce a complete journal through electronic processes. The determination as to when and by what method the electronic production of the journal shall be accomplished can be made and implemented as soon as Legislative Services Commission deems it advisable, or upon the direction of a subsequent session of the General Assembly.

The cost of electronic voting units of the type recommended will probably amount to about $200,000. The Committee is informed that approximately half that amount remains in the Capital Improvement Fund which was appropriated to the Legislative Building Commission for construction and equipping of the State Legislative Building. These unexpected funds were originally meant to be used to install electronic voting units if the General Assembly desired them to be installed. This Committee recommends that these funds be transferred to the General Assembly to be applied toward the cost of the electronic voting equipment, and that the remainder of the necessary costs be paid from the Contingency and Emergency Fund.

This 15th day of July, 1971.

By Representative McDaniel:

H. R. 1586, A HOUSE RESOLUTION MEMORIALIZING NORTH STATE TELEPHONE COMPANY TO MAKE AVAILABLE TO SOUTHEASTERN FORSYTH COUNTY, AND MORE SPECIFICALLY HORNEYTOWN, TOLL-FREE TELEPHONE SERVICE TO COUNTY SCHOOLS AND GOVERNMENTAL OFFICIALS.

Whereas, the North State Telephone Company of High Point is the licensed utility providing telephone service to Horneytown and its environs, serving approximately 595 telephone users in the southeastern corner of Forsyth County; and

Whereas, there is not one school in the Horneytown area, and the new school attendance plan provides for such transportation of students that many of them must travel great distances to schools in the City of Winston-Salem, more than ten miles away from their homes; and

Whereas, the limited telephone service provided by the North State Telephone Company does not permit calls to be made from the Horneytown area to the Forsyth County Sheriff, who has police jurisdiction, or the Forsyth County Commissioners, or the county ambulance service, or the Winston-Salem/Forsyth County schools to which the children are being transported, without the imposition of a toll charge; and

Whereas, Forsyth County Officials and Winston-Salem/Forsyth County School officials, in order to reach the parents of children who live in the Horneytown area, must make toll calls to those said parents; Now, therefore, be it resolved by the House of Representatives:

Section 1. That the North State Telephone Company, as the sole supplier of telephone service to the southeastern corner of Forsyth County is hereby requested and urged to provide telephone service without toll charges so that the parents of children who are assigned to schools at a distance from Horneytown can reach the schools at which these children are enrolled, and other county officials without the necessity for toll charges being paid.

Sec. 2. This resolution is effective upon adoption.

On motion of Representative McDaniel, the resolution is adopted.

The Joint Assembly is called to order by the President.

The Sergeant-at-Arms of the House announces the approach of His Excellency, the Governor. The Governor, joined by his escort committee, Senators Bailey and Scott and Representatives Quinn and Culpepper, enters the House Chamber.

The President recognizes Senator Bailey, who presents His Excellency, the Governor, to the Joint Assembly. The Governor delivers the following address:

GOVERNOR'S SPECIAL MESSAGE ON THE STRUCTURE, ORGANIZATION AND GOVERNANCE OF HIGHER EDUCATION IN NORTH CAROLINA

"Mr. President, Mr. Speaker, Members of the General Assembly, my fellow North Carolinians.

"In my special message on higher education addressed to you on May 25, I stated:

'For some time we have been traveling a dangerously erratic course in public higher education in North Carolina. We are proceeding with all sail and no rudder. Wasteful and damaging forces are chipping away at the structure of our system . . .'

"I further stated: 'So long as these basic defects remain, the citizens and taxpayers of the State will suffer, and the students will suffer also.'

"You agreed to examine this problem and find a solution, but to do so at an adjourned session when the matter could receive your undivided attention.

"That was a wise decision and I commend you for it.

"Since the regular session ended, much time, effort and energy have been given to study and debate of the best means to accomplish our goal of developing an effective system of higher education for North Carolina.

"I shall not review the numerous reasons why our present system needs substantial change. Suffice it to say that practically all who are truly knowledgeable of the situation as it exists today recognize that something better is sorely needed, though some will admit this only in private.

"After the General Assembly adjourned in July, and following a period of rest and reflection, leaders of the General Assembly and in the field of higher education began to address themselves again to this matter.

"I began discussions with members of the General Assembly, with trustees and administrators of our institutions of higher learning and with prominent citizens throughout the State.

"I held numerous discussions with individuals and meetings with groups, large and small, trying to find the path most of us would be willing to follow.

"From the outset there were some who felt the Consolidated University of North Carolina should be dismantled forthwith and completely. Others felt strongly that no change at all should be made — or if there was any that it should not in any manner affect the Consolidated University, but only the other 10 institutions. Others took a position somewhere in between these two extremes.

"Slowly, haltingly, almost imperceptively, a broad general consensus began to emerge on the basic issue: That a governing board was indeed needed, with strong budget and program powers and built upon the recognized strengths and traditions of our present institutions and the Board of Higher Education.

"The Joint Committee on Higher Education convened last month and began holding public hearings. During the course of these meetings, strong voices of knowledgeable North Carolinians began to be heard — Terry Sanford, William B. Aycock, Dickson Phillips, Lindsay Warren, Jr. To these were added the voices of Luther Hodges, Watts Hill, Sr., and a broad cross-section of educational leadership, public and private, as well as responsible faculty and student groups at Chapel Hill, Raleigh, Greenville, and elsewhere. All of these voices struck at the heart of the matter and called for a new approach to higher education in our State.

"After hearing from all who desired to be heard, the committee instructed a subcommittee to draft a bill that would incorporate certain features. This was done.

"The subcommittee and then the full joint committee debated and reworked the draft and finally, on October 15, adopted a committee substitute for your consideration.

"This bill, entitled 'An Act to Consolidate The Institutions of Higher Learning in North Carolina', is a product of the duly-appointed committees of this body.

"It is not a Consolidated University bill, although it does contain many of the ingredients insisted on by the University leadership.

"It is not a bill of the regional universities although they, too, can find much to their liking in its essential features.

"It is not the Governor's bill, although I find it contains what I believe to be the cardinal elements for any new structure.

"If any one group — my administration, the regional institutions, or the Consolidated University — had written the bill, it would be considerably different from what it appears today.

"Mr. President, Mr. Speaker, and members of the General Assembly, this bill is a product of many hours of discussion and deliberation by members of this body. I commend the committee members highly for the time and effort they gave to their task. Several of them remarked that they have never had a more rewarding and productive assignment.

"As you debate the committee's handiwork, your purpose is not to satisfy fully any particular group, any particular philosophy, any particular institution. Rather, it is to devise the most effective system for governing our 16 institutions in the light of circumstances that exist today, not in the light of circumstances that existed in 1931 or in 1789, as some would have you do.

"You have the responsibility to see that the tax dollars our citizens send to Raleigh are used to the best possible advantage. Keep in mind, if you will, that the basic goal of higher education in our State is 'producing graduates at the baccalaureate level and beyond, who are capable of leading lives of constructive employment, responsible citizenship and creative enjoyment'.*

"This bill is a major step toward that goal.

"This bill embodies the principles that must be incorporated in any workable plan.

*Appendix A, Governor's Study Committee on Structure and Organization of Higher Education.

"This bill preserves the dignity and honor and well-being of all institutions.

"This bill utilizes the strengths and discards the weaknesses of our present structure.

"It provides unity, a single voice, a coming-together for all of higher education.

"It provides a strong governing board with adequate program and budget powers.

"It assures that blacks, women, and political minorities will be significantly involved and given a meaningful place in policy and administrative decision making.

"This bill establishes clear lines of authority throughout the system.

"And it removes higher education from the political thicket.

"Mr. President, Mr. Speaker, members of the General Assembly:

"This is a good bill.

"It will do the job that so badly needs doing in North Carolina.

"I support it, and I urge you, with all my being, to enact it.

"Now, if I may, Mr. President and Mr. Speaker, I would like to speak to some of the fears I have heard expressed, and to lay them to rest if I can.

"Some profess to believe that this entire effort is designed to phase out what have traditionally been known as black institutions — our predominantly Negro universities.

"Nothing could be further from the truth. There need be no fear on this score on the part of any institution — black, white, or Indian — or on the part of the six Consolidated University branches, or on the part of the School of the Arts, or on the part of the nine other institutions. None of them will lose their identity. None will be swallowed-up in the system. On the contrary, the new system will promote diversity and individual identity.

"The bill specifically provides that at least four members of the Board of Governors shall be members of a minority race. It provides for the continuation of local boards of trustees at each of the institutions. It preserves and maintains the names of the institutions.

"In assessing the fears voiced in some quarters of the black community, it shall be remembered that it is the established policy of my administration and the State of North Carolina that all of our institutions are open to any student regardless of race.

"I have noted a disturbing tendency on the part of a few to describe our institutions as white universities or black universities. This is not the case. In public higher education in North Carolina, we simply have universities, and they are available to any student — black, white, Indian, or Oriental — who desires to study in good faith and has the ability and motivation to succeed.

"Some friends of the regional universities have stated that it is essential that powers of the institutional boards be spelled out in the statutes.

"Although this bill does not specifically designate these powers, I can assure you that one of the first orders of business for the new Board of Governors will be to delegate appropriate powers to the institutional boards.

"It seems to me that these powers should lie in many diverse areas, including authority to administer endowments and trusts; handle campus-oriented scholarships; make all appointments below the level of those having permanent tenure; advise with the Board of Governors on major appointments; regulate student conduct; operate athletic programs; recommend building needs; determine questions concerning admissions and the awarding of earned degrees within broad policies established by the Board of Governors; and most importantly, serve as a composite advisor to the Board of Governors.

"To those who might be disappointed that these powers are not spelled out in the bill, let me point out to you a danger in doing so: The Board of Governors could take the list to be final and all-inclusive. If most of the powers are delegated by the Board of Governors, the board should have no hesitation in delegating its powers rather generously, knowing that it can also rescind any powers. The feeling of most informed people is that even more powers than I have enumerated will in fact be delegated.

"Furthermore, to list specifically the powers of institutional boards in the statutes invites a battle to add to or subtract from those powers each time the legislature convenes.

"There are some who are insisting that the size of the Governing Board be at least 100 members and that the Interim Governing Board be composed of the present 100 member board of the University of North Carolina together with all the members of the 10 boards of the other institutions, which would give a total board of well over 200 members.

"At first, this seemed a reasonable proposal and its proponents will tell you that it is the way to involve more people, that the committee systems can be used, etc. After listening to those arguments, however, and after private discussions with supporters of the university, I am now convinced this proposal would serve no really useful purpose and that, in my honest opinion, would be a hinderance rather than a help to our restructuring efforts.

"Why do I say this?

"First of all, let's be honest about it. A 100 member board, and especially a 200 plus member board cannot operate other than in a very token manner. The members of such a large board would never be a part of the real decision making, unless they were a member of the Executive Committee. This is the case — and one of the major fallacies — of the present structure of the UNC Board.

"Such a large board cannot, by its very size, operate with involvement of all its membership.

"I contrast the UNC Board with the Board of Higher Education which is composed of 22 members. When the Board of Higher Education meets, everyone is involved in all the discussion and all the decisions if he is present for the Board meetings. Board of Higher Education meetings are usually sparked with debate, oftentimes spirited. Meetings of the UNC Board, however, are usually perfunctory, marked more by speeches than debate. Many times I think it is because no one wants to take exception openly to a member of the fraternity, at least in public. The debate and the hard decisions for UNC, I repeat, are made by the Executive Committee, and not the Board itself. I know, because I sit as Chairman of the UNC Board, its Executive Committee and the Board of Higher Education as well. I sense very strongly that a major reason UNC supporters are pushing for an interim governing board of over 200 members that takes in the present 100 member UNC Board is that they do not wish to hurt anyone's feelings by discontinuing their membership in the fraternity.

"My answer to that position is that such a view is more concerned with a few individuals than with trying to solve the problem at hand.

"Another great weakness of the large board concept is the advocacy of the committee system. The use of committees in this case has two effects: One is to prevent everyone on the board from knowing what is going on, by dispersing the action all over the field, with the result that a few at the top are the only ones really able to be fully informed. The second effect is to abide by the great American custom of naming a committee to handle a problem you don't know what to do with.

"To those who say the committee system and the large board concept provides for the involvement of more people, I reply that theoretically this ought to be the case, but past history refutes that argument because the board members at UNC are not nearly as much involved as they may think they are. I urge you to reject all efforts to increase the size of the board beyond that called for in the committee bill. That board of 32 is certainly the maximum size of any workable board.

"It has been argued that the regional universities should be phased in over a period of time, with a few selected institutions at a time being brought into the system.

"Upon reflection, however, I find that there are persuasive reasons for implementing the consolidation in a single step.

"First of all, all the institutions can be brought in with dignity and honor and with the same considerations. There would be no ready-made 'First Family', no 'older brothers and sisters' to pay ingratiating deference to.

"Secondly, the 1973 General Assembly should not be asked to tackle an unfinished job or, just as importantly, undo what you have set out to do.

"Then, too, there should be an orderly budgetary transition which can best be achieved by all institutions coming in at the same time. It must be remembered that the 1973-75 budget will be drafted in 1972 and we need to insure that all institutions in the system will be fully involved for the entire budget year.

"Some of you have expressed reservations about the so-called 'lump-sum' budgeting provisions of this bill.

"First of all, the bill does not provide a true lump-sum budget for higher education. I can assure you that under this bill, no one will be issued a blank check, and I can assure you that there will be accountability for funds appropriated. Any changes made in the legislative enactment would still be subject to provisions of the Executive Budget Act and the approval of the Advisory Budget Commission, which draws two-thirds of its membership from the General Assembly.

"The bill provides for presentation to the Advisory Budget Commission and the General Assembly of a single, unified budget for all public senior institutions — a budget based on the best educational advice as to what is most needed for the good of higher education as a whole. This is not a new philosophy, since both the public school system and the community college system present a unified budget to you now.

"Under procedures now in effect for higher education, you must deal with the separate budget requests and the subsequent lobbying of all institutions. While six of these have some measure of coordination among themselves, in reality there is no over-all guidance as to true Statewide priorities from an educational standpoint.

"These new comprehensive budget proposals will provide for a degree of professional judgment and administrative flexibility not now available to higher education, but which is very much needed.

"This method of budgeting will have the further advantage of removing from the legislative and political arena educational decisions that can best be made by educational administrators. It is a method which has worked successfully in other states. Yet, this bill does not follow any specific pattern elsewhere, because it was tailored by your committee to meet the requirements of North Carolina. I believe it contains the best proven features of other plans, but applies them to the needs of our institutions and to the wishes of our people.

"I am further convinced that this method can save money. It will eliminate the present situation whereby a legislator, in order to get his own building or program included in the budget, all too often must agree to vote for two or more additional items that others desire.

"Some say that the magnitude of this consolidation plan is such that it cannot work as provided for in the present bill.

"I say it can work, and that it will work if there is strong and effective leadership on the part of the Governor, the newly created board and top administrative personnel, and if there is cooperation among all concerned throughout the system.

"I pledge to you that I will provide that type of leadership as your Governor.

"We have that type of leadership in abundance among the trustees of our institutions. We have a reservoir of talent among the administrative staffs of our 16 institutions and these, supplemented by those of the Consolidated University office and the Board of Higher Education, are sufficient to handle the task. We can expect cooperation throughout the system because it is in the best interest of each campus that the system function smoothly and effectively.

"Under the bill we will have, for the first time, a Statewide board specifically charged with assessing the contributions and needs of our private colleges and universities. Of course, our private schools are just that — private. We must guard their independence. I would never be a party to any effort that even hinted at State control of our private institutions, but cooperative relationships among the private schools and our public institutions are beneficial to all concerned. The private institutions are valuable resources which should be utilized to the best interest of our State as a whole, for they comprise an indispensable part of the total picture.

"Mr. President, Mr. Speaker, ladies and gentlemen, today we find ourselves carrying forward the torch of Governor O. Max Gardner, the architect of the historic consolidation act of 1931. Our task is really an extension of his effort, and there are graphic parallels between then and now.

"Listen to these words of Governor Gardner in his special message to the 1931 legislature:

'It does not require an expert to discern the inherent wastefulness, both in emergency and resources, of the present trend ... Our institutions are supported out of one treasury; I can see no valid reason why they should not be under one executive management and one board of control ... We need the united support of North Carolina behind one great, unified, coordinated, and intelligently directed educational enterprise'.

"Governor Gardner goes on to say:

'The principles and policy under consideration are so broad in their scope, and so far-reaching in their ultimate implications, that any adequate approach must presuppose that we shall forget any narrow allegiance to any institution as an institution per se. We must remember that we are citizens — students, if you will — of that greater institution which is the State of North Carolina .... Our problem is not to concentrate upon the minor maladjustments which may be cured by remedial internal administration. Our problem is rather to view the entire higher educational effort of this State in terms extending over generations ...'

"Max Gardner, while conquering the problem that bedeviled his State in his time, was indeed displaying a broader concern 'extending over generations.'

"He saw the union of the Chapel Hill, Raleigh, and Greensboro campuses as a start, not a finish. Commenting on a study commmission report recommending the restructuring which was later enacted, Gardner said: 'This report represents the beginning, not the culmination, of a better planned, better supported, better serving institution for promoting education and equipping ambitious young men and women to better serve and better live.'

"Consolidation was a good concept then. It is a good concept now. We must extend it.

"Anyone who reads this bill carefully will see only winners in this controversy.

"The General Assembly will win because it will be given a chance to regain its perspective and put an end to the political competition in higher education that has been so divisive in the past.

"The institutions will win because they will be able to stop competing with each other in the political arena. They can sit down as partners working for the improvement of the system as a whole, each being encouraged to seek excellence in its assigned role.

"The taxpayers will win because they will not be burdened with the waste and inefficiency not only of unproductive and unnecessary programs, but also of unnecessary buildings and equipment.

"And our students will win because each will be able to choose an institution to suit his own needs and future plans and will be assured that he is enrolling in an institution committed to performing at a high level of excellence.

"In summary, the bill drafted by your joint committee will provide a way to govern and coordinate our entire system of higher education — a job we have always wanted done, but have never given anyone the authority to do.

"We have before us a blueprint that will work. It will work, that is, if we but try to make it work — if we display the good-will needed to make it work. One of the truisms of life is this: You can't shake hands with a clenched fist.

"Mr. President, Mr. Speaker, members of the General Assembly, North Carolinians all: Let us enlarge our understanding and broaden our vision. By adopting this blueprint, we will not be surrendering our traditions, our ties, our loyalties. We can retain them, yet at the same time we can rise above our sectionalism and our provincialism.

"Let us look beyond the trees and behold the forest — the forest of all of higher education. Let us nurture it and manage it wisely, keeping it forever green, forever growing."

Upon the completion of his address, the Governor, joined by his escort committee, leaves the Hall of the House.

On motion of Senator Allen, the Joint Assembly dissolves. The Senate repairs to its Chambers and the House resumes consideration of its business.

STATEMENT BY MEMBER

In accordance with the Constitution, please record my protest to the consideration of and any action on S. B. 1008 in view of the dates of introduction of the bill, passage of the bill by the Senate, consideration of the bill in the House, and my protest to the Chair's ruling on the point of order raised by the undersigned in the House debate.

The joint resolution (S. J. R. 990) or Session Law under which this Session is acting, did not permit or authorize any consideration of S. B. 1008 or its subject matter; no amendment to such resolution or Session Law to permit consideration thereof had been enacted when S. B. 1008 was introduced and passed in the Senate and therefore the bill was not properly before the House for any purpose. When this point of order was made, the Chair stated that the point of order was well taken but that this would not invalidate the House action on the bill.

A motion by Representative Johnson of Johnston to reconsider the vote by which the House concurred in Senate amendment No. 6 to Committee Substitute for H. Representative Andrews calls for the roll call to be verified. The vote having been announced, the Chair rules the call to be out of order.

To the President of the Senate and the Speaker of the House of Representatives:

We, your Conference Committee appointed to consider and resolve the differences arising between the two bodies on Committee Substitute for House Bill 1456, AN ACT TO CONSOLIDATE THE INSTITUTIONS OF HIGHER LEARNING IN NORTH CAROLINA, wish to report as follows:

The Conference Committee agreed as follows:

1. Strike Amendment 6 in its entirety from the bill.

2. Substitute in lieu of Amendment 6 the following:

1) Rewrite Section 116-5, beginning on page 3, line 19, and ending on page 4, line 15, to read as follows:

"Sec. 116-5. Initial membership of Board of Governors.

(a) Commencing July 1, 1972, and continuing for the terms hereinafter stated and until their successors are chosen, the Board of Governors shall consist of the following members:

On January 1, 1972, or as soon as practicable thereafter, those sixteen persons shall by lot or other means acceptable to them determine which of them shall be assigned the terms ending in 1973, 1975, 1977, and 1979 respectively. Of the eleven persons elected by the boards of trustees of the institutions listed in G. S. 116-5 (a) (1), above, three shall serve a term ending on June 30, 1973, three shall serve a term ending on June 30, 1975, three shall serve a term ending on June 30, 1977, and two shall serve a term ending on June 30, 1979. On January 1, 1972, or as soon as practicable thereafter, those eleven persons shall by lot or other means acceptable to them determine which of them shall be assigned the terms ending in 1973, 1975, 1977, and 1979 respectively. (c) Any vacancy occurring in the membership of the Board of Governors between July 1, 1972, and June 30, 1973, shall be filled by appointment of the Governor, and the person appointed shall serve for the remainder of the unexpired term.

(d) The Governor shall serve ex officio as a member and as Chairman of the Board of Governors until December 31, 1972."

2) Rewrite Sec. 116-6, beginning on page 4, line 16, and ending on page 5, line 25, to read as follows:

"Sec. 116-6. Membership of Board of Governors.

(a) As the terms of members of the Board of Governors provided for in G. S. 116-5 expire, their successors shall be elected by the Senate and House of Representatives. Eight members shall be so elected at the regular legislative session in 1973 and every two years thereafter.

(c) No member may be elected to more than two full terms in succession.

(d) The Senate and House of Representatives, in electing members of the Board of Governors, shall select from a slate of nominees made in a joint session of the General Assembly. There shall be nominated from the floor at least twice the number of persons as there are vacancies to be filled. The Senate and the House of Representatives shall each elect one-half of the persons necessary to fill the vacancies, with the Senate to hold its election prior to the House of Representatives. In the event that an odd number of members are to be elected, the House of Representatives shall select the additional nominee. In 1973 and every four years thereafter, the Senate shall elect at least one woman and one member of a minority race and the House of Representatives shall elect at least one member of the political party to which the largest minority of the members of the General Assembly belong. In 1975 and every four years thereafter, the Senate shall elect at least one member of the political party to which the largest minority of the members of the General Assembly belong and the House of Representatives shall elect at least one woman and one member of a minority race.

(e) Of the eight members elected every two years, at least one shall be a woman, at least one other member shall be a member of a minority race, and at least one other member shall be a member of the political party to which the largest minority of the members of the General Assembly belong. In subsequent elections to the Board, the General Assembly shall maintain at least these minimum proportions among the members of the Board."

3. Amend Sec. 116-7 (a) by striking from page 6, line 3, the words "or appointing."

4. Amend Sec. 116-7 (c) by striking from page 6 the sentence beginning on line 16 and ending on 19, and relating to appointments by the Governor.

And to this end that the House of Representatives and the Senate adopt the foregoing report.

SPECIAL MESSAGE FROM THE SENATE

October 30, 1971

Mr. Speaker:

It is ordered that a message be sent your Honorable Body with the information that the Senate has adopted the report of the Conferees on the differences arising between the two bodies on Committee Substitute for H. B. 1456, "A BILL TO BE ENTITLED AN ACT TO CONSOLIDATE THE INSTITUTIONS OF HIGHER LEARNING IN NORTH CAROLINA", and since a similar action has been taken on the part of the House, you may order the bill enrolled.

Principal Clerk

Committee Substitute for H. B. 1456 is ordered enrolled and a special message is ordered sent to the Senate so advising that Honorable Body.

INTRODUCTION OF RESOLUTION

The following resolution is introduced, read the first time, and disposed of as shown:

By Representative Andrews:

H. J. R. 1610, A JOINT RESOLUTION PROVIDING FOR ADJOURNMENT SINE DIE OF THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY ON SATURDAY, OCTOBER 30, 1971.

On motion of Representative Andrews, the rules are suspended and the bill is placed before the House for immediate consideration.

The resolution passes its second and third readings and is ordered sent to the Senate by Special Message.

Rising on a point of personal privilege, Representative Frye reads the following poem and, on motion of Representative Smith of Guilford, it is placed in today's Journal.

Ode to a Great University

From Asheville-Biltmore to UNC-A from Wilmington College to University they say
Was only a start for the great UNC
Has not only stretched from the mountains to the sea

But under Bill Friday and Ike Andrews with legislative authority
It has gotten its wishes and is no longer a minority.

So, the "Black Fraternity" and the "Female Sorority"
The Regional Universities and the Republican minority
All welcomed you a while to the minority group Knowing full well that it wouldn't take you long to recoup.

But in the process I hope that a lesson was learned That the hearts of minorities have always yearned,
A desire to see that our interests are protected
And that ideas advanced are not easily rejected
It's not that we are seeking the hay and the fodder
It's just that when you're second, you always try harder.

So when the session closes and for office you run
Keep the minorities in mind someday you may be one.

Well, the session is over and Halloween draws nigh,
So lets go trickin' and treatin'
when we adjourn sine die.

SENATE CHAMBER

Mr. Speaker:

It is ordered that a message be sent your Honorable Body with the information that the Senate has adopted the report of the Conferees on the differences arising between the two bodies on S. B. 1008, "A BILL TO BE ENTITLED AN ACT TO AMEND ARTICLE 36 OF CHAPTER 7A OF THE GENERAL STATUTES SO AS TO ALLOW WAIVER OF AN IN-

DIGENT'S RIGHT TO REPRESENTATION BY COUNSEL, and since a similar action has been taken on the part of the House, we have ordered the bill enrolled.

Respectfully,
S/ Roy Rowe

STATEMENT OF MEMBER

I would like to make the observation that many of the bills passed in this adjourned Session of the General Assembly had not been properly authorized to be before either Body of this adjourned General Assembly. This is due to the fact that Senate Joint Resolution 990 (Enrolled Res. 112) restricted the consideration by this Adjourned Session of the General Assembly to the restructuring of higher education. Before any other bill could be properly before either Body, an authorizing resolution should have first been ratified. In many cases this was not done.

ADDRESSES BY DISTINGUISHED GUESTS TO THE NORTH CAROLINA GENERAL ASSEMBLY

ADDRESS BY DR. BILLY GRAHAM

February 18, 1971

Mr. President, Mr. Speaker, distinguished members of the Legislature, and whoever you are up there:

It is a great privilege for me to be here. I told them that I have the rare privilege of speaking here without having to run for office. I consider it a great privilege to be invited by my home state to address a joint session of the Legislature. I have had the privilege of addressing many legislatures throughout the country from Massachusetts to California and will be addressing the Legislature of the State of California on June 29th, I believe, of this year. To be invited to my home Legislature is the greatest of all possible honors.

Jesus said, "A prophet is not without honor save in his own country." You have broken that rule that Jesus said was the rule of mankind in the sense that you have honored me by inviting me here today.

I must start out with an apology because a week ago yesterday I had an operation that involved my tongue, and it sounds a little bit at times as though I had a little nip before I came over because I'm a little thick-tongued. But, I told one of the Senators that, and he said "Nobody will notice."

I am reminded of the old story I am sure has been told here on this floor many times about the Texan. He was coming in from prospecting and an old cowboy was having a lot of fun out in front of the saloon. He was shooting off his six guns and having a big time. People were laughing at him and he was half drunk. He went up to this old prospector and said, "Old man, do you know how to dance?" And the old man said, "No sir, I don't." And he said, "Well, you're going to learn now." And, he began to shoot at his feet and the old man began to dance. When he had emptied his two six-shooters, the old man reached in his saddle bag and pulled out a sawed-off shotgun and held it up to his head. And, he said, "Young man, have you ever kissed a mule?" The cowboy looked at the shotgun, looked at the mule, and he said, "No, I haven't but I've always wanted to."

I've never spoken here, but I've always wanted to, especially since you have this beautiful place to meet in and to speak in. It is my privilege not only to preach the Kingdom of God wherever I go and to present the Gospel of Christ, but also to carry the banner of North Carolina wherever I go because I am introduced from North Carolina. Sometimes you may be proud of that, and sometimes you might not be so proud. It's according to how I am introduced and where; but, for good or bad, I'm looked upon as a North Carolinian. People always ask me, "Does your work last, does it have a lasting effect?" That's usually the first question at the press conference.

I tell them a story that happened about two years ago. I was on the way from New York to Charlotte on Eastern Airlines. Sitting across the aisle from me was John Belk, who is now the Mayor of Charlotte. I was sitting behind this particular fellow who got on board. This fellow got on board — he was a great big fat fellow and he was the drunkest man and the fattest man I ever saw in an airplane. He was very obscene in the language he was using — profanity was flowing — a lot of new words I haven't heard. He was flirting with the stewardess and making himself just obnoxious to everybody. Finally, when the plane was in the air he decided that he was going to go help fly the plane. The co-captain had to come back and help put him back in his seat. Then John Belk whispered to him. I don't know whether John knew him or not; but John Belk whispered to him and said, "Billy Graham is sitting behind you." This fellow got up again and in front of everybody, he said, "Are you Billy Graham?" — and, I admitted that I was. And he said, "Well, put her there. Your sermons have sure helped me."

I don't know whether my talk will help anybody or not. I've been asked to talk on various subjects. Since it was announced that I was going to talk, I have been asked to talk on liquor by the drink, and abortion, and many other problems; but I thought I would stick to my own subject today that might relate to some of the problems that you face, because State Legislators and Governors and Presidents and Congress are wrestling with problems today that are almost beyond us, problems of welfare reform, revenue sharing, balancing budgets. It seems we are living higher than we can pay for. We are facing certain problems and certain underlying principles I think ought to be kept in mind.

Our country was based upon faith in God, and this state especially was founded by people who believed in God. There are four or five allusions that we now hold that have no Biblical basis whatsoever. We are going to destroy ourselves as a nation unless we recognize this. The first one is this, that permanent peace is a reality apart from the intervention of God. There are those people today that would like to disarm the United States. They think that we ought not to have a Defense Department; and they think that somehow, all we have to do is lay down our arms and everybody is going to hug each other and they will love each other. But, the Bible teaches the very opposite. The Bible teaches that as long as human nature is like it is, we are going to have wars and rumors of wars until the end of time. And, if you will read in Job you will find that God told the people of Israel to keep prepared. It said, "Take your plowshares and beat them into swords."

We've got the idea that we can have peace, permanent peace, human nature being what it is, without God. It can't be done. The Bible says, "They seduced my people, saying peace when there is no peace." Jesus said, "There will be wars and rumors of wars, and nations shall rise up against nation until the end." Jesus foresaw human nature and foresaw what was going to take place; and we are going to have these problems until human nature is transformed. That's why Jesus said, "You must be born again." It's why he said, "You must be converted, you must change." The word conversion means revolution. You need a revolution from within.

We have the finest civil rights laws in the world in America. There is no nation in the world that has the civil rights laws that we have today. But it hasn't solved the race problem yet. It has improved and helped it, but any black man will tell you that it hasn't solved the problem. Why? Because we have to change attitudes. The heart has to be changed, and that is what the Bible is talking about. And that is true on a nation-to-nation basis. We cannot have permanent peace until hearts are changed, and hearts are not going to be changed around the world until one dramatic event takes place.

What is that dramatic event? The dramatic event will be when man stands at Armageddon, which could happen in this country with atomic bombs ready to fly, and God intervenes and Jesus Christ comes back to this world and sits on the throne and rules the world. And we're going to have peace and Utopia. There is going to be a permanent peace.

When Martin Luther King gave his great speech, dream speech in Washington, and he quoted those passages from the Bible, he was quoting passages that are prophecies of a day yet to come, when God is going to intervene. We are going to have peace and God is not going to allow the human race to destroy itself.

You say, "Well, why would you come to a State Legislature and talk to us about that? That's sort of preaching." The other night at the 25th anniversary of the United Nations, they said all these wonderful and nice things about Mr. U Thant. President Nixon was sitting there, premiers of the various countries were there, the leaders of countries were there — one of the great gatherings of American history on American soil.

Mr. U Thant got up and he said, "Everything that I am and all that I have done I owe to Buddha." Then he traced his faith in Buddha. If Mr. U Thant could stand before the leaders of the world and praise Buddha and everybody there respected him for it, I want to tell you that everything that I am and have has been sold out to Jesus Christ. And, I am not ashamed to say to you that he is my Lord and my Saviour, and I don't look to the United Nations to bring peace. They struggle and try and patch, but in the end it's going to come about through the intervention of God, when Jesus Christ is crowned Lord of Lords and King of Kings.

I have often wondered what would happen to world peace, as I believe Mr. Figueres (Jose Figueres Ferrer), the President of Costa Rica, has suggested that the leaders of the world gather to have a prayer for peace. You know they gathered when DeGaulle died on a spiritual basis there in the Cathedral. They gathered on a spiritual basis when Kennedy died. Why can't they gather — don't have to wait until somebody dies — just gather and say we want to pray for world peace? Maybe something would happen to the world, because if we don't we are certainly plunging from war to war and trouble to trouble.

The second point that effects us today is that an allusion is held that economic Utopia is the answer to man's deepest needs. The ads on television will have us believe that if you use a certain deodorant or if you use a certain soap, you are going to find eternal happiness, or if you have a high standard of living. The Bible does not teach that at all. The Bible teaches that man is only happy when he knows God. He can be poor and be happy. We have sold ourselves on the idea that man can live by bread alone. Jesus said, "A man's life consiseth not in the abundance of things he possesses." There are two kinds of poverty in North Carolina. There is the poverty of the stomach in some cases, but there is the poverty of the spirit that is far worse. And, we don't think about that.

Sometime ago I was invited to visit a man who was reputed to be worth about a hundred million dollars. He is seventy-five years of age. I went in to talk to him. He was crying. He said, "Mr. Graham, I've lived for myself. I've indulged myself. I haven't found happiness." He said, "Can you show me how I can find peace?" And I said, "Yes, sir," and I talked to him. But he still had not found it when I left. I went down and met a little man that was a little Baptist preacher who was also seventy-five. It was in another country. He was jumping around all over the place as happy as he could be, and he said, "You know, I don't have two pennies to my name but I'm the happiest man on this island." And I thought to myself, which is the poor man? The man with the hundred million up there weeping or the man with nothing and happy. What did this man with nothing have that the man with everything did not have?

This is one of the problems we face in welfare today in all of our social work. When the church used to go and take welfare and help the poor, they went with compassion and love. Some of the greatest needs we have in our welfare program today is the spiritual welfare — to take our help and to take the welfare checks and do our investigations — but with love and compassion. Then, in my judgment we have to find a way to get people to work because — well, I won't go into that — it might be political.

There are deeper needs to the human spirit: loneliness, emptiness, guilt, death. All of these are needs that people have today. So we have a spiritual need, and that is the reason President Nixon has reminded us that ours is a crisis of the spirit. And you don't become President of the United States and you can't sit there for two years until you find out that the great problem in America is a spiritual problem. And I'm sure you find that out right here. Our problem is basically a spiritual problem. If we could solve the spiritual prohlem and the human attitude problem and the human problem, these other problems would take care of themselves in time.

That's why these students are rebelling. I'm writing a book right now on why students rebel. I've been doing a lot of study and research. I spend a great deal of my time at universities and colleges. I'll be on a university campus all day tomorrow. I remember Sargeant Shriver, when he was Ambassador to Paris, called me up one day. They had just had the riots in Paris, and he said, "Billy, would you fly over here and meet with the leaders of these riots in Paris? Let's find out what really makes them tick?" I said, "Yes sir, I'll come." I got on a plane and went over there. He had about fifty of them, had them for dinner, fed them well. Then we started talking, and we talked for nearly five hours. When it was over, they had expressed that the reason they were rebelling is against soulless materialism, a materialism without a spirit, a materialism without a soul. Sargeant Shriver, as he took me back to the car which was going to take me back to the hotel said, "You know, Billy, their problems are really religious problems." And that's right. That's the problem with the student today, a religious problem. And one of the reasons for all of the unrest on campuses is because we today are educating the mind, building bodies, getting good medical help, but we have forgotten the spirit and forgotten the soul. We've left it to the church; and the church has gotten so it spends so much of its time on the body, it doesn't have much time for the soul any more.

So, man is one-sided. He becomes a misfit. We are a trinity, and we have to look at the human problem from that point of view — the mind, the body, and the spirit — and they all go together. And a State Legislature has to do the same thing, any governing body if we are to be successful.

Ann Freud, the daughter of Sigmund Freud, in visiting the United States recently, was asked about the riots; and she said this: "The real reason is that fundamentally students are empty and alienated and theirs' is a burning quest for ultimate reality." And then lastly, that freedom can survive without a religious faith.

Yes, I think American freedom is in jeopardy. We've built a gigantic, bureaucratic monster in Washington that is so fantastic with tentacles that are beginning to encircle the throat of every American, and nobody knows how to untangle the thing. It's growing by leaps and bounds, and nobody seems to be able to stop it. Freedom is in jeopardy. One of the reasons freedom is in jeopardy is that we have become almost totally secular and totally materialistic.

Total secularism and total materialism will lead to tyranny, supression and dictatorship; and that's where we are headed right now unless we have a revival of the American spirit and a revival of faith in God. That is where we are going to go. We will have dictatorship by a bureaucracy that even the President or the Congress cannot control. Whether it's going to come from the left or the right, I don't know. But that is where we are headed unless something can be done to the American spirit because democracy, to be successful, must have a moral basis. You cannot have democracy without morality and morality will not come without religious faith.

There are other signs that we are beginning to turn around. I spent the last ten days in Washington before I had this operation meeting with Senators and Congressmen and meeting with the President and the White House staff. I spoke at the Pentagon twice to all the decision makers and answered questions for two hours on each occasion to all of these. And, when I spoke over at the Senate and answered questions all this time to the possible presidential candidates there, Senator McGovern, Senator Humphries, Senator Hughes, all these people it was a very interesting occasion. They all seemed to feel the same thing, that we are in a state of spiritual crisis.

I got into the car one day and there was sitting there a handsome young man from Ireland. He is a member of the Irish Parliament, Mr. McIvers. I had never met him before. I don't know how he got in there. I sat beside him and he said, "I want to meet you." "We have the worst political problem in the whole world, I mean the worst. There is no answer to ours." But he said, "I take a number of speaking tours of America. Do you want to know what my analysis of America is?" I said, "Yes." He said, "You have reached bottom and you are beginning to bounce back." And I think we are beginning to bounce back. Something is beginning to happen in this country that is very encouraging.

Look Magazine carried an article about three weeks ago on the revival among young people. Young people in this country on the university campuses are turning to Christ by the thousands, not the hundreds but the thousands, primarily on the west coast and the midwest. It is beginning to reach into New England. It is touching certain parts of the South. But thousands of young people are turning to Christ, as Look Magazine pointed out. Some of it may be a fad. If it is a passing fad, thank God. If it is like swallowing goldfish in my day, thank God that it is a religious fad rather than a burning fad, or a rioting fad or a demonstrating fad. But something is happening religiously to young people and I think the reason is that they have tried all the options. They have only one option left. They tried the drug scene, and that's led down a blind alley. They have tried the sex scene. That gives them some excitement but it doesn't give them that ultimate satisfaction. They have had affluence, they've tried all that. That hasn't brought satisfaction.

They have one option left, and that is God. A lot of these young people are turning to God. The last three crusades that I have held have been on university campuses, in the biggest stadiums right on campus, and those stadiums have been jammed. Night after night I would ask those young people how many under twenty-five years of age to stand up. There would be seventy percent of the audience. Most of the young people coming forward are university students and university age to make their decisions for Jesus Christ. That was not true five years ago. It is the young people who are beginning to turn to Christ.

This last week the top song on the charts for the young people, the top song was "Amazing Grace, how sweet the sound, that could save a wretch like me." And these young people think it's a brand new song. You and I have been singing it since we were children unless you were an ARP and sang Psalms like I did, but do you know how that was written?

That song was written by a man by the name of John Newton, who was a slave trader; and he brought slaves over from the west coast of Africa to England. He became the slave of a slave on the west coast of Africa. That's how low he went in debauchery. I don't guess that any man I ever read about ever went any lower in immorality, in drunkedness, than John Newton. One day he was on the ship and a thunder storm came, and he knelt down and was converted. He went back to England and became an Anglican priest. He became friends with Wilberforce, (William Wilberforce) and he is the man who influenced Wilberforce to lead the fight against slavery. The first anti-slavery legislation ever passed by a parliament was passed by the British Parliament under the leadership of Wilberforce and Pitt, who were influenced by John Newton; and John Newton wrote that song, "Amazing Grace, How Sweet the Sound, that could save a wretch like me." The conversion of one man set in motion forces that changed a nation.

The first time I ever met Mr. Harold Wilson, the former British Prime Minister, he said, "I know you, we come from you." I knew what he meant. There was an American evangelist preaching in Britain by the name of Dwight L. Moody just before the turn of the century, and a young man was converted by the name of Keir Hardie. He came to Mr. Moody and he said, "Mr. Moody, what can I do for the Kingdom of God?" Mr. Moody said, "Help the laboring people of Scotland." Keir Hardie became an evangelist like me, gave an invitation all over Britain for people to receive Christ all his life. But do you know what else he did? He founded the British Labor Party. You look in the Encyclopedia Britannica, he is the founder of the British Labor Party. Most of the great social events and political forms and structures we have today came from that type of an experience and an encounter that a man had with God. You look it up.

You look in the history of North Carolina and see what an evangelist did in this state just before we went into the Union by the name of Perkins, and how he held in his hands the political power of this state and would not allow us to go into the Union until certain concessions were made . . . A man that preached the gospel and believed in God and the conversion of a single individual. All over this country something has happened. God is moving.

I had an experience the other night that I haven't told, but I think I will. I met one evening in the home of a senator in Washington. He had a group of senators and a group of congressmen there who are leaders. These are men whose names are very well-known. They meet once a week in that home or in some home for prayer. When they prayed, they all got on their knees; and each man prayed.

If you go to West Point, right now at the Military Academy there are three hundred cadets meeting every night for prayer. That sort of thing is happening all over the country. Yes, we are bouncing back. I think we are on the verge of a mighty religious awakening among our young people. And I would to God that this Legislature and the leadership of our state could also take a place of responsibility in helping to lead and encourage what I believe to be, could be, a religious awakening of major proportions that could make an impact on this country and help us solve some of these insoluble problems that we are facing.

I love North Carolina. I've chosen to live here. I was born and reared here. My wife was from China. I believe in the roots of this state. I believe the people from this state are the finest people in the world. I've traveled over the world and spoken in most countries. There are not a people in the world like you people, and I love you.

We could be a state of destiny. We could lead the nation spiritually. We could lead the nation to a new morality if we would be willing to stand up like Mr. U Thant and unashamedly say what we believe and lead out. We could see a new day in America, and North Carolina's flag could be leading the way.

Thank you, and God bless you.

ADDRESS BY THE HONORABLE SPIRO T. AGNEW VICE PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES MAY 6, 1971

Governor Scott, Mr. President, Mr. Speaker, members of the North Carolina General Assembly, and your guests here assembled:

First, let me say that I am very pleased to be here in North Carolina to speak about the President's revenue sharing proposals, and let me say also how much I appreciate the cordial welcome that I have been given by your State officials here today.

Before I begin with the subject proper, if I may in the interest of an unrelated subject utilize the medium of television to convey an important message in the interest of the ecology and the preservation of the environment, I would like to make a public request that the Women's Lib please stop throwing cigar butts around the Capitol grounds in Washington.

I was in Tennessee yesterday speaking to that legislature on revenue sharing. I had a very good meeting. Chairman Wilbur Mills is due there in a few days to discuss the same subject. It would have been nice to appear with Mr. Mills but he couldn't make it. Seems he was being fitted yesterday for a new suit at the Japanese Embassy.

Hale Boggs couldn't come either. I thing he has the "bug".

But seriously, I am pleased to have this chance to appear before this distinguished legislative group and some of you are guests whom I understand represent local government in the great State of North Carolina. My purpose here will not be to rather blandly present arguments for a plan but will be more in the nature of documenting the integral aspects of that plan so that it may be properly compared by you serious students of government with other proposals that have been and will be brought to your attention in the near future so that you may make the proper evaluation and decision for the State of North Carolina.

Revenue sharing is not a new subject. Revenue sharing, ladies and gentlemen, is not a partisan subject. As a matter of fact, the President's proposals that he has sent to the Congress both in the area of general and special revenue sharing are proposals that have evolved slowly over perhaps the past fifteen years through the work of some very distinguished bipartisan groups including the Advisory Commission on Intergovernmental Relations, the Governor's Conference, the U. S. Conference of Mayors, the National League of Cities, and the National Association of Counties. These are proposals that have represented the best non-political thinking of those distinguished groups as to how the growing imbalance in resources between state and local government can best be corrected through federal action.

If you want to know why general revenue sharing which is the first subject I am going to mention is needed, let me merely refer to some historical data which should be of great persuasiveness to you. From 1950 through 1969 governmental expenditures have increased 413% at the state level, 354% at the local level. Actually, during that same period of time, all other sectors of the economy witnessed an increase in expenditures of only 31% whereas the percentage cost increase for state and local government was 54%. In the past twenty-five years state and local expense is up twelvefold from eleven billion in 1946 to one hundred thirty billion last year. In the past twelve years states have been forced to institute new taxes or raise old ones on 450 separate occasions, while the federal government has had to resort to major tax increases only four times since 1930. State debt is up over 600% in the past twenty years. And you know and I know that the federal government dominates the one growth tax — the income tax — collecting nine out of every ten income tax dollars.

Now what has been the result of this accumulation of power and resources by the federal government? We do not think it has been salutary. We feel that it has caused the erection of an awesome federal bureaucracy — an irresistible and seemingly irreversible flow of power to Washington where priorities are determined by the federal government, where few important areas of local decision remain. And this we believe causes a lack of interest in highly qualified people in seeking posts in local government and sometimes even at the state level, because of the reduced state and local role, creativity has been impeded. And, since the resources are not present here at the State House in North Carolina, neither can the solutions be seriously discussed.

Many states have tried to respond by looking for their own resources. I know this State happens to have an income tax — one of the states that does. There are other states that do not. But regardless of whether or not an income tax is in effect in a state, there are great fiscal problems attendant in the constant urging of the citizenry to greater services by state and local government. And the facts that I have given you make it manifestly clear that there must be some other way of getting the revenue to bring about the necessary changes and improvements in these two areas of government.

How is this to be done? Well, it can be done by general revenue sharing by the federal government and it can be assisted by special revenue sharing. Why do we need special revenue sharing which is basically a consolidation of grants with several important initiatives added to that? Well, the categorical grant-in-aid program, of which I might add North Carolina receives less than its fair share of the proceeds, in 1960 totalled forty-four programs — forty-four categories for a total of six billion dollars a year in expenditures. And, ladies and gentlemen, of that six billion dollars, five billion was spent for highways and welfare. That was in 1960, just a little over ten years ago. During the period 1960 to 1970, these categorical grant-in-aid programs proliferated from forty-four to over four hundred and thirty, while outlays for them jumped from six billion to thirty billion dollars a year. Now, under the categorical programs, Congress provides many strings in the way of legislative prohibitions. But that isn't the worse part of it, as you who are experienced in attempting to sort your way through the maze of regulations that attend these programs know well. The bureaus of the large federal departments add to these restrictions, confuse these restrictions and in some case, completely misinterpret the legislative intent. It takes month and months to resolve simple questions that could best be the decision of this State legislature, of the county councils and city councils of North Carolina. So we need greater flexibility. We don't need this confusion that results from conflicting and overlapping programs. Paper work is burdensome. And, there are three very formidable requirements that need to be abolished.

First of all, the matching requirement. I am sure that those of you in this government who concern yourself with State decisions where federal money is contributing to state money to bring about the result desired, know very well that your decision as to priorities is sometimes affected by whether matching federal money is available. You may have a situation where a road is desperately needed which does not qualify for federal assistance, and another road which is of lower priority is voted simply because there are matching federal monies and because the legislature and the executive branch of State government may feel it will be criticized if it does not take advantage of the maximum federal matching money available.

Then there are problems with the prior approval requirement. This is a requirement that has insidiously built itself into the federal way of life where the Bureau of Personnel must require, or do require you to submit your plans to be gone over minutely by them before they will release the money that you need. And what winds up happening in all too many cases is that there is a steady rubberband effect between the states and the federal government trying to reach some accord on some bureaucrat's problem.

Now, how does general revenue sharing correct this? Let me explain first what it is. The general revenue sharing proposal is that one point three percent (1.3%) of the personal taxable income base of the United States be given through the Secretary of the Treasury to the general funds of the states. One point three percent would represent about five billion dollars in new money the first full year of operation. And because the base is flexible, this would increase, we anticipate, to some ten billion dollars by 1980. The method of distribution is this: The states are to share on the basis of population and tax effort. The general purpose local governments will share on the basis of taxes raised by them compared to the entire local share for their state. The legislation includes a mandatory pass through provision so the local governments will get a stated share of the money based on their tax effort as — of all local governments as related to the tax effort of state-local government together. This generally works out to mean some 52% of the revenues go to states and some 48% pass through under the formula to the local governments.

But there is a flexibility in this legislation which would allow state and local governments, and would encourage them, where they see fit, to adopt their own formula for distributing this money between the state and local governments. This is because we find that there are many significant departures that exist between state and local governmental relationships and these are best met by a complete examination by the state and local government, who are actually concerned in the problem. So there is a 10% incentive bonus for adopting your own formula as to how you split this pie.

Let's talk about North Carolina a minute, and what this would mean to North Carolina. North Carolina has 2½% of the total United States population. Because of the tax effort, that is slightly below the U. S. average at the present time, North Carolina will receive 2.3% of the general revenue sharing funds. This amounts to one hundred, thirteen and a half million dollars in the first full year. To be added to that hundred and thirteen and a half million dollars, are the special revenue sharing monies which are related to the one billion dollars in new money that is included in special revenue sharing. And North Carolina's portion of that one billion dollars of new special revenue sharing money is 42.3 million dollars. This means that under President Nixon's proposal North Carolina would receive in the first full year of operation from general and special revenue sharing in new funds a hundred and fifty-five million, eight hundred thousand dollars. Raleigh will receive of the general revenue sharing five million dollars about five hundred and sixty-four thousand dollars. Winston-Salem would receive a million thirty-six thousand dollars, Charlotte, a million six hundred and forty-four thousand dollars of this money, provided that the pass through formula in the federal legislation is adopted by the State.

Now, the special revenue sharing, as I pointed out to you, has a billion dollars of new money. Ten billion dollars of the total eleven billion dollar program comes from the consolidation of one-third of the existing categorical grant-in-aid programs into six categories of special revenue sharing. These categories are elementary and secondary education funded at three billion, urban community development funded at two billion, rural community development — 1.1 billion, transportation — 2.6 billion, manpower training — two billion, and law enforcement — a half million. There is a whole harmless provision that relates to special revenue sharing and provides that no matter what a state has been receiving under the categorical programs that are being abolished, it will receive no less.

Now, the most important reasons that special revenue sharing differs from block grants or grant consolidation is that we have eliminated in our special revenue sharing the matching requirement of which I spoke just a few moments ago, the requirement of prior approval and also the requirement of maintenance of effort. In short, you will not be sandbagged as you have too often in the past into a situation where you find that you get into some program on contributive basis, thinking it is going to cost you X number of dollars a year and then finding as the program progresses that you are irretrievably hooked to an engine that is carrying you way beyond the place you wanted to go. The judgment is up to state and local government, not to Washington.

Now, people say, "We must not do away with these categorical programs". Well, ladies and gentlemen, we are not doing away with them. We are not even effecting two-thirds of them. And, the one-third that are blended into special revenue sharing are not done away with if the legislatures and the local governments and the governor see fit to continue them with the constraints that are already placed upon them by Washington.

There is one fundamental difference. These programs will run under special revenue sharing the way the State of North Carolina wants them to run and not the way the Washington bureaucracy dictates that they shall be run. They can be continued in exactly the same form they are, if that is your wish. If that is not your wish, and you think you are capable of making some improvements over what has been suggested by the Washington bureaucrats — and I think that will probably be the case — you are perfectly free to make whatever improvements you want.

Planning money has increased. The '71 funds are broadened and expanded to the extend that the fifty million dollars that is available this year for planning is increased two-fold to a hundred million dollars. I emphasize that two-thirds of the categorical grants are not effected and they will continue to be for experimentation, demonstration and federal initiative.

Now, let's talk very briefly about some of these categories, and because of the time limitation I'm not going into the kind of detail that probably I could if we were under a different basis here. But I will try to cover very quickly some of the categories of special revenue sharing.

The law enforcement special revenue sharing amounts to a half billion dollars a year. North Carolina's share under this new special program is ten million four hundred and eighty-two thousand dollars. North Carolina's share under the programs, — the categorical grants that are being replaced by this proposal — was eight million three hundred and five thousand dollars, so you see that your State has a new gain of two million one hundred and seventy-seven thousand dollars in the law enforcement area.

The manpower special revenue sharing act — North Carolina's share under that is forty-four million four hundred and fifty-eight thousand dollars. North Carolina's share under the various categorical programs that are blended into manpower's special revenue sharing was twenty-five million four hundred sixty-one thousand. So under this proposal you have a net gain of eighteen million nine hundred ninety-seven thousand dollars. This is a two billion dollar program consolidated for the Manpower Act of '62 and Economic Opportunity Act of '64. More than a dozen categorical programs, including on-the-job training, institutional training, neighborhood youth corps, new careers, operation mainstream, jobs in the concentrated employment program, are included in this.

Now, just to give you an idea of how awkward the present operation is, let me define a little of it for you. The present manpower operation includes ten thousand direct grants and contracts with public and private organizations. It's too cumbersome because each categorical program has its own lobby, its own project design, its own standards and its own method of operation. The cost of this kind of operation obviously is confusion and duplication and inefficiency. Whenever the unemployment rate in the United States rises beyond 4½%, for three consecutive months, this trigger mechanism makes additional funds available in high unemployment areas. This is an automatic kick-in that helps to provide additional training, employment, public service, jobs — to help off-set unemployment. The distributions will be to state government and to units of local government of a hundred thousand or more. However, smaller units of local government under this legislation are allowed to form a consortium so that if they get together and make their plans together, they will be able to have direct distributions of the money. The criteria for distribution will take into account the proportion of the labor force in the area, — the number of unemployed persons — the number of low income individuals sixteen years of age or more.

The urban community development special revenue sharing program is one of the most complex and one of the most valuable, I think, that has been devised. North Carolina's share of this is thirty-six million six hundred ninety-seven thousand dollars. North Carolina's share under categorical programs that are being blended into this proposal was twenty-nine million seven hundred fifty-eight thousand dollars, making a net gain for the State of six million nine hundred thirty-nine thousand dollars. The level is two billion the first full year. This replaces four categorical programs that were all administered under HUD: Urban renewal, model cities, water and sewer construction grants, and rehabilitation loans. Eighty percent of these monies are to be divided according to a strict statutory formula among two hundred and forty-seven standard metropolitan statistical areas in this country. A standard metropolitan statistical area is an area including a city of 50,000 or more and its contiguous suburbs and smaller town, all of which are economically and socially integrated. The balance of the SMA allocation will be used to assist developmental activities in suburbs and small cities, and in counties. The formula would be oriented to need. It would take into account population, degree of over-crowding, condition of housing units, and the proportion of families with incomes below the poverty line. All of the activities which are eligible for support under the present urban development categorical grants would be eligible for support under special revenue sharing of this type. Cities could use this money to acquire, clear and renew blighted areas, to construct public works such as water and sewer facilities, to enforce building codes in deteriorating areas, to rehabilitate residential properties, and to support the type of activities for which model cities supplemental grants have been authorized — for example: for demolition purposes, to make relocation payments to families that have been disrupted, and the like. The decisions on which these activities will be undertaken in each community and what portion of the available funds will be channeled into each activity, however, gentlemen, would be made locally. No federal approval would be required for any activity. Neither application nor matching local shares will be necessary. Cities will merely have to report in advance how they plan to use their funds and report at the end of the year on how the money was expended. This requirement is included merely to insure that the funds would be used for eligible activities. As in the case of all revenue sharing, racial discrimination and the use of these funds will be strictly prohibited and the rights of all persons to equitable treatment will be protected.

I had a question in Tennessee yesterday about how the people could be protected against abuse in the administration of these programs — in other words, how the people could be protected from elected officials who may decide at this proportionate allocation of these funds. Well, the answer is obvious. Under our system of government if you have no confidence in the electoral process, if you have no confidence in the fairness of our elections, if you have no confidence in the people in office, you can not assure that anything is going to be equitably distributed. But the important point I made to my interrogater was this: There is no greater assurance that fairness and equitableness exists in Washington, D. C. to a greater extent than it does in North Carolina or in Raleigh or any other city or county of any state in this country. I personally resent, as a former local and state official in the executive branch, the insinuations that are constantly rising from the Congress of the United States that there is something about local and state government that should be watched. I resent the implications that there is a greater repository of skill and knowledge as revealed in Divine Truth in Washington than there is in this legislative body. And I will continue to advocate a return of more authority to the government closest to the people which, of course, is the government which governs best.

Now, let me talk for a moment about rural development special revenue sharing. Here is an area, my friends, that's been so terribly neglected in past years. North Carolina does very well under this program. Its share is forty-seven million three hundred nine thousand dollars. Its share under the programs — the categorical programs that form the program — was only thirty-six million four hundred and fifty thousand dollars, making a net gain for the State of ten million eight hundred and fifty-nine thousand dollars for rural development.

Rural areas have been badly neglected for a long time. In 1940, thirty million Americans were living on farms. Today that number has diminished to ten million. A nation that was 75% rural only a hundred years ago is 73% urban today. The medium family income in non-metropolitan areas is 22% below that in metropolitan areas. And yet there seems to be little awareness of the hardship and poverty that exists in rural areas, because our efforts have been so highly concentrated — and rightly so, to some extent — in our urban areas which have been deteriorating rapidly. But these facts do show a need for economic diversification and revitalization of rural areas.

The rural community development program is funded at 1.1 billion and I am not going into details again because of the time problem except to say that each of the fifty states plus Puerto Rico, the Virgin Islands and Guam will get 1% of the money and the remaining 47% will be distributed by the Secretary of Agriculture in accordance with a formula that takes into account the state's rural population, its rural per-capita income and its rural population change. Funds available to a state will equal or surpass funds presently available, as I said before. These funds can be used for almost any purpose, but only for rural areas. A rural area is a county or a similar political subdivision which is not included in the standard metropolitan statistical area and has less than 100 persons per square mile. There are over 28 hundred such counties eligible for rural special revenue sharing.

The federal government will require a statewide development plan outlining programs for metropolitan, suburban, smaller city and rural areas, alike. The purpose of this is to encourage statewide coordination of planning. These plans would be submitted by the state governors to the secretaries of HUD and Agriculture but, again, there will be no prior approval of plans required for the distribution of the money.

Transportation's special revenue sharing, the fifth category, means to North Carolina forty-one million three hundred and eighty-four thousand dollars. The existing share under the categories folded into special revenue sharing under the categories folded into special revenue sharing was thirty-eight million, so it's a net gain of three million three hundred eighty-four thousand for the state of North Carolina. Now, these are divided — these monies are divided into two categories. Of the two billion dollars, two and a half billion dollars available for the whole country, five hundred and twenty-five million will be restricted to urban mass transit capital investment and two million forty-one thousand dollars will be allocated for other broad transportation meetings. No state will receive less under this program than it previously received under the categorical programs to be consolidated — no matching, no federal approval, no maintenance of effort. States will be required to coordinate their plans, of course, between the special revenue sharing for urban and rural areas. The Civil Rights Act, of course, is expressly extended to cover this.

The final special revenue sharing program is education. This means for North Carolina ninety-nine million three hundred sixty-one thousand dollars which is equivalent to the amount that you presently receive under the categorical programs that are being folded into this one. So you have no net gain, but no loss, of course. These funds will be used in five broad areas. Education of the disadvantaged will get 51% of the funds, supporting materials and service — 17%, assistance to federally impacted areas — 14%, vocational education — 12%, and education of the handicapped — 6%. States will be allowed to transfer up to 30% from any one of these broad areas to the other, but there are two areas where the money will not go through the states but will go directly to the local school districts or the local governments having general jurisdiction and responsibility for the schools. There are the areas of disadvantaged people and the areas of federal impaction. These monies would go directly through and not be controlled by the state. No state will receive less money than it receives under the present system. The funds are not for higher education. They are for primary and secondary education. However, special provision is made under education of the handicapped for pre-school assistance, and under vocational education for post-secondary school assistance.

Now the funds will be distributed on the basis of a statutory formula which will take into account each state's total school age population — that's five to seventeen years — the number of children from low income families, and the number of students whose parents live or work on federal property. 57% roughly will pass through to local educational agencies, and about 43% will be retained by the state. That's an average figure. Each state will be required to publish a plan which will be adopted only after reasonable opportunity has been given to interested persons for comment.

And each state will be required to appoint an advisory council representative of the public and educational community. States will not be required to seek prior federal approval, however. Ninety categorical educational programs will not be included in this and 88 of these will continue to exist as categories. The total education budget for 1972 for continued categorical programs that are totally unaffected by this will be about 3½ billion dollars. To augment education revenue sharing, the President has proposed an emergency school act to provide 1½ billion dollars over a two-year period to help meet the special needs of desegregation of the nation's schools, in accordance with the Supreme Court's edict. He has in addition proposed a national institute of education to serve as a focal point to identify and stimulate solutions to educational problems and to help school systems put the result of their experimentation into practice.

It should be pointed out that the $5 billion in general revenue sharing funds will be to a large extent used to upgrade educational services. That's in addition to these special revenue funds. I don't know what your percentage of State effort to support education is in North Carolina, but I would assume it probably is somewhere close to 50% of your total effort. If that is true, then it would be reasonable to expect that an even higher percentage of the general revenue sharing funds going to the State will be used for education because new programs seem to have a higher percentage of educational output than old ones.

Now just let me take a few minutes talking about the alternatives of revenue sharing which you have heard discussed in Washington and in some areas of the country. They have been discussed only as ideas. No one has fully flushed out a proposal, although I understand that there are some — one came out yesterday from Senator Muskie. I haven't had a chance to look at it so I won't comment on it — it was just released yesterday. There have been other proposals of welfare take-over that Mr. Mills has discussed briefly.

Now let's lay to rest the myth that a welfare take-over will do the job of revenue sharing. First of all, the nationalization of welfare is not a substitute for revenue sharing. Instead of decentralizing the rapidly growing power of the federal government, it would add to it. While I endorse under certain balanees a greater federal participation in welfare to achieve equitable standards and to possibly handle the areas of welfare that are being administered by the federal government — such as social security, old age assistance, and the like — welfare reform is not and never can be a substitute for revenue sharing. It will not offer a permanent growing source of revenue to the states, and it certainly will not reform the national disaster that is our welfare system today.

If North Carolina decided to go the route of preferring a welfare reform of the type proposed by Chairman Mills to the revenue sharing program I am talking about, the difference in the monies to be received under general revenue sharing will be $41,500,000 in a welfare take-over as opposed to $113,500,000 in revenue sharing. I don't think that leaves you with a very difficult decision.

A federal take-over of welfare costs would benefit relatively few states at the expense of most, which means not only is it unworkable and inequitable but it is not feasible of political passage. It will do virtually nothing for the many local governments which don't carry part of the welfare load at present. Thirty-seven states would receive less cash benefit under welfare federalization than they would under revenue sharing. Of the few that would benefit, now get this figure, three — New York, California, and Pennsylvania — will receive fifty-one percent of the total relief. Sixty-two percent of the relief will go to the ten richest states; five percent will go to the ten poorest states. Only twenty percent will go to local governments, and three-quarters of that twenty percent will go to local governments in only two states.

Now the rate of increase for welfare has been enormous. It needs reform. President Nixon has proposed a reform. To show you how bad it's escalating — in 1969, one month, October, the nation-wide monthly totals for public assistance were $545,500,000. In October, 1970, the same month a year later, they had increased to $704,000,000. In a single year the monthly figure was up twenty-nine percent.

Moreover, there are great differentials in the payment of AFDC, aid for dependent children recipients, on a state-by-state comparison. For example, in Mississippi, a single AFDC recipient gets $12.10 a month, whereas in New York he gets $77.60 a month, a six to one differential. What we seek is the enactment of a revenue sharing program that will strengthen state and local governments throughout the United States and a reform of the present disasterous welfare system. We don't care how these things come about or which happens first; we know they both have to happen if we are going to pull ourselves out of this desperate situation that we face.

Now, in conclusion, let me say that it must be obvious to those of you who are experienced hands here in the government of North Carolina that there has been a pressing philosophy that more dollars will do any job, that it doesn't make any difference whether the program is workable — if you put enough money into it, you're going to succeed. I don't subscribe to that technique. I know as a member of state and local government myself that you can put any number of dollars into a bad program and you just lose more dollars, that that's why we need to reform our system — to place the responsibility closer to the people, to allow state and local officials to exercise the necessary flexibility to meet critical conditions. The bureaucracy in Washington is not omnipotent, nor is it infallible. As a matter of fact, in many cases it's just plain intransigent and arrogant to a degree beyond belief.

What we need from you as the Legislature of North Carolina, whether you accept this revenue sharing proposal or some other, is a recognition conveyed to your Congressional representatives that you need this assistance from the federal government to give you the resources to apply your special and particular expertise in the area of state governmental problems. We don't feel that a continuation of a path where the assessment of needs is left to Washington for every state and locality in this country is feasible. It's hard enough, as you know, to master the intricacies of the legislation that stands before you each day, to know how to vote intelligently on the problems of North Carolina. If it's that hard for you, imagine how impossible it is — regardless of how brilliant those bureaucrats may be — for them to make a local decision for a small town in North Carolina, to decide your state priorities and at the same time to look at a problem in New York City or one in the State of California and always come up with the right answer.

Now, the problem in this thing is very simple, my friends. It's a problem that everybody wants revenue sharing but nobody in Washington knows it. Seventy-seven per cent of the people, by Gallop poll, want to see some form of revenue sharing. Yet you can read the Washington Post, the New York Times, the news magazines — what I call the national news media — day after day and find absolutely no attention is given to the clamor that is rising throughout the country for this relief and assistance. The only answer to penetrate that foggy generalizing that has been prevalent in the news reporting is for you as members of state and local governments to get up and go to Washington if you have to and testify in hearings about this — to make known to your Congressmen your wishes, the urgency of your fiscal requirements. I hope you will do that. I hope that this over-view of the President's revenue sharing proposals that I have been able to give you in this time this morning will be helpful to you in following through on it. If you have other questions, the Office of Intergovernmental Relations, which is the responsibility of the Vice President's office in Washington, would be glad to hear your inquiries on a specific basis and would be glad to discuss with you any problems of a unique nature that you may discern are prevalent here in this State.

Again, I want to express my appreciation to Governor Scott, to the President of this body and the Speaker, for your courtesy in allowing me this time to come before you to explain these proposals.

Thank you very much.

ADDRESS BY THE HONORABLE WILBUR D. MILLS CHAIRMAN OF THE HOUSE WAYS AND MEANS COMMITTEE, UNITED STATES CONGRESS MAY 20, 1971

Mr. President, Mr. Speaker, Distinguished Guests, Members of the General Assembly of North Carolina. I am deeply grateful for your invitation to address this legislature in Joint Session. This is a very great personal honor I shall not forget.

I could not come to North Carolina and speak before this body without mentioning one of my most distinguished predecessors as Chairman of the Committee on Ways and Means, The Honorable Robert L. Doughton, a former member of the Senate of North Carolina.

Chairman Doughton served the people of North Carolina and the nation, for many years, starting with the 62nd Congress and ending with the 82nd Congress. Bob Doughton was a strong man both intellectually and physically. His contributions to sound tax and fiscal policy, and to progressive social welfare legislation, will long be remembered.

All who were privileged to know Bob Doughton would agree that he was a master at reducing complex problems to a simple matter of choosing a course of good common sense. In all his years in the Congress, he never lost touch with the people of North Carolina. It was, primarily, through my long association with Chairman Doughton that I first came to have an appreciation for this State, its resources, its beauty, and its people. So it is with a great deal of personal feeling that I speak to you today.

Mr. Doughton always started with the people, and so shall I.

It is said that people of this, the "Tar Heel State," got the name not because of their own lack of ability to stick and fight, but due to the possible shortcomings of others in that regard. The history of this State's development bears out the strong pioneer heritage of North Carolinians. I am told that more than 99 of every 100 North Carolinians were born in the United States. This is truly an amazing figure for this day and age. It is particularly surprising in view of the success this State has had in attracting new industry to locate here. Indeed, your most attractive resource was described by a European who recently settled here. He said of the people of this State: "Their roots are deep and they have maintained much of their proud heritage; it has produced a people of warmth, depth and solidarity. These people will help all newcomers meet their challenge."

It is obvious that there will be newcomers to North Carolina. Increasing numbers of American and foreign visitors are discovering the beauty of your mountains in the west and the recreational opportunities along the coast. The manufacturing area in the Piedmont continues to attract additional investment and new industry.

Along with the attractiveness of this State in terms of its citizens, its natural resources and beauty, and its climate, is the climate that is created by its government. North Carolina has long been known for its progressiveness in government. The name of Governor Charles B. Aycock is well known by educators and others througout the country for his great program to improve this State's public school system. At a very early date, the creation of a State Highway Commission and its road building program earned for North Carolina in the 1920's the title of the "Good Roads State."

North Carolina long has been the number one manufacturer of tobacco products, a leading producer of textiles and the wooden furniture center of the United States. However, the emphasis that the leaders of this State have placed on education and sound economic development policies has brought about a growth and diversification in manufacturing activity that has resulted in a new definition of the term "industrial development."

The people of this State, I am sure, are rightfully proud of the leadership their elected officials have provided over the years. The "habit of good government" from the local level to the State House and this distinguished body is recognized throughout this nation. Certainly, in terms of my own personal experience in the Congress, I know of no State that is more ably represented than the State of North Carolina.

As a member of Congress from a State which values the contributions of the farm community, I cannot fail to recognize the leading role that your State has in the production and export of tobacco, as well as the importance of other cash crops and of other types of farming activity to the economy of this State.

Typical of the progressive attitude in North Carolina is the North Carolina Research Triangle. Typical too, is the leadership of a man like Governor Luther H. Hodges under whose direction this great complex of industry, commerce, culture and higher education was conceived and developed. I understand that a new research area at Charlotte has been initiated, the University Research Park. It is little wonder that people from North Carolina contend that this State is number one in the South and offer statistics to back up that claim.

I would like to return to my good friend Governor Hodges for a moment, because he is a man who in the early 1960's shouldered a great deal of responsibility for developing and implementing President Kennedy's seven-point textile program, which was announced 10 years ago on May 2, 1961. I am aware of your great interest in a healthy and growing textile industry, as evidenced by the views expressed in Resolution 46, adopted by this General Assembly on April 13 of this year. I should like to state my position on the matter of the Declaration of the Japanese textile industry and where we stand in obtaining an acceptable solution to the problem of continually increasing textile imports.

First, however, I would like to recognize here in North Carolina the debt of gratitude all of us owe to Governor Hodges for his role in the implementation of the textile program of President Kennedy. Through his leadership, many of the problems facing the textile industry in the early 1960's were dealt with, effectively and with dispatch.

Needless to say, all of the problems facing producers of textiles and apparel in this country did not disappear. Indeed, the rapid increase in imports of cotton textiles this country experienced in the late 1950's and early 1960's has been repeated as imports of manmade fiber textiles have risen.

The Administration has had two years of international negotiations on the textile problem which have not succeeded. For over six months the Congress struggled with trade legislation which could have provided meaningful restraints on textile imports. As you know, we did pass a bill through the House. Our efforts, however, came to naught, primarily due to the misconception on the part of the present Administration that it is possible to get legislation through the Congress which contains the relief for the textile industry, but which is not responsive to other industries facing similar problems.

I have become greatly concerned that the passage of time without meaningful restraints — or any kind of restraints for that matter — on imports of textiles of manmade fiber not only enlarges the problems created for the textile industry and its workers, but with each passing day makes reasonable, constructive, and timely accommodation on this problem all the more unlikely.

I understand the position of our textile producers and the reasons they find the terms of the Japanese declaration unacceptable. I think, however, that all of us must face up to the very serious difficulties of trying to legislate on textiles alone, particularly in light of the experience of last year.

I believe that the Japanese declaration is a step in the right direction. I hope the other major textile-exporting countries will undertake similar measures. In the face of constantly rising imports, the form of restraint is not nearly as important as the recognition that the problem of textile trade is an international problem that requires cooperation through reasonable restraints. For there does not exist today any mechanism for bringing our textile imports into reasonable balance with our own textile production, short of measures which would bring chaos to the whole of our trading community. Certainly, such a development is in no one's interest.

To my mind the long-run interest of the textile industry and its workers will best be served by removal of the overall threat of ever-increasing textile imports and ever-shrinking shares of the domestic market for our own textile and apparel producers. I believe a sound base exists for removing that "sword of Damocles" with decisive and statesmanlike action as soon as possible. Failing that, we must, of course, find some way through Congressional action to preserve this vital industry.

Now, let me turn to another very vital subject. Since the beginning of this Congress, the Committee on Ways and Means has been meeting almost daily in work sessions on a measure that will provide comprehensive reform of the public welfare system. As State legislators, I need not review for you the size and the shape of what has come to be called our welfare mess. The results of the committee's deliberation have been made public. I am sure you will be reviewing the provisions of H. R. 1, as it has been ordered reported by the Committee on Ways and Means, as you examine the budget for your own State's public welfare program.

I do have some preliminary indications of the savings to North Carolina in welfare program expenditures under H. R. 1, the social security and welfare amendments of 1971, as ordered reported by the Committee on Ways and Means. It is my understanding that the proposed budget for welfare expenditures in North Carolina for fiscal year 1973 is just under $91 million. Under H. R. 1, the cost to the State and to the counties of all cash payments to welfare recipients would be virtually eliminated. The only remaining State and local welfare costs would be for medicaid and social services. It is more than likely there will be further savings in State medicaid costs under the provisions of the new health insurance legislation which will be considered later this year.

Thus, I am sure that you will find that the Committee has been successful in developing legislation which will greatly reduce and in most areas almost completely eliminate the mounting burden that the State and its local governments are facing in their welfare programs.

I can assure you that neither I nor the Committee on Ways and Means considers the 1971 amendments to the social security and welfare programs to constitute a complete answer to the President's revenue sharing proposal or an end to the concern the committee has for the financial burdens now being experienced by most State and local governments.

On June 2, the Committee on Ways and Means will begin public hearings on the President's general revenue sharing proposal which is the subject of a "hard sell" by certain officials in this Administration.

I am sure you have read the results of some of the public opinion polls that allegedly show the great grass roots support for revenue sharing. I am always a bit leery of these polls on matters of public interest which are simple in neither their implications nor application. My own mail, and that of the committee, in no way corresponds to what these polls allegedly show.

When it comes to money, everyone wants their share and, of course, there are some who always want a little bit more. Thus, the question arises as to why a proposal to share money needs to be sold at all to the potential recipients.

I have my own theories about this irresponsible scheme. The first and most important is that the "no-strings-attached" revenue sharing would be a first mortgage on the future independence and freedom of action of every State and local government in this country.

As legislators, you are aware that one general assembly cannot enact legislation which would tie the hands of future general assemblies. It is just as clear that "no-strings-attached" revenue sharing enacted in 1971 would not assure that severe, perhaps deadly, strings would not be attached to general revenue sharing in future years.

Already, the "no-strings-attached" aspect of this revenue sharing proposal has been qualified. It has been made clear that the Department of Justice and the Department of Treasury would have to monitor the activities of the State and local governments to assure against discrimination under any program or activity funded with general revenue sharing funds. In this day and age, no one can reasonably object to that "string", for it already exists in grants-in-aid and other programs. However, in the years to follow when the amount of this shared revenue becomes substantial, who here believes that other "good ideas" will not become the basis for monitoring State and local government activity by Federal agencies.

One revenue sharing proposal pending in the Congress already contains provisions for Federal standards to achieve "efficiency" in State and local governments. I am sure this Body is imaginative enough to think of other "good ideas" which could become the subject of "needed" Federal control which could be imposed through the instrument of revenue sharing.

Revenue sharing is not a revolutionary tool to bring new vitality and financial independence to government officials at local and State levels.

It is more in the nature of a Trojan horse from which at the appropriate time will spring new rules and strictures on the activities of those very governmental bodies who are being wooed by this gift from Troy.

In addition to the future dangers involved in the loss of independence by State and local governments from increasing dependence on funds from the Federal Government, there is a basic principle of government involved in so-called general revenue sharing. This is simply the principle that elected officials who have the privilege of deciding how public funds are to be spent should have the responsibility for approving the taxes which provide the source of those funds.

I am sure that this legislature would not like to have the responsibility for raising taxes in this State and have absolutely no say over how those tax funds are to be spent. If revenue sharing is indeed a proposal to save our Federal system, its proponents have in mind a far different type of Federal system in terms of government responsibility that I learned about when I studied the history of the founding of this Nation.

A third aspect of this great proposal for revenue sharing which no proponent has been able to explain away is the inconsistencies and discriminatory aspects of what has been called a "mutually acceptable formula for passing money on to the local level."

Nowhere are the capricious results of this aspect of revenue sharing more evident than in your own State of North Carolina. The largest metropolitan area in the State, Charlotte, with a population of 241,000 would get $1.6-million under revenue sharing, while Greensboro with a population only 60 percent as large, 144,000 people, would receive $1.2-million in revenue sharing funds, 75 percent as much. Moreover, Charlotte would receive substantially less from revenue sharing than the cities of equal size in other areas. For example, Dayton, Ohio, which is almost the same size as Charlotte, would get $4.1-million under revenue sharing, nearly 2½ times the aid to be received by Charlotte.

Let me give you some other examples: Durham, North Carolina, has a population only 5,000 smaller than Duluth, Minnesota, or Cambridge, Massachusetts. Under the general revenue sharing proposal, Durham would receive $627,000. In contrast, Duluth, would receive $791,000 or 26 percent more, and Cambridge would receive almost $1.5-million or 2½ times as much money as Durham.

Even within your own State, there are several gross disparities. The population of Winston-Salem is 133,000 which is 9 percent or 11,000 greater than Raleigh. Winston-Salem would receive $1,036,000, while Raleigh would receive $564,000. In other words, the city with a 9 percent greater population would receive 84 percent more money under revenue sharing.

These are some of the difficulties and shortcomings of the general revenue sharing proposal. I am sure the hearings to be held by the Ways and Means Committee will bring to light additional reasons why this deceivingly simple proposal will not become law.

Having reviewed the needs of State and local governments in the area of welfare, I am very well aware of the crushing burden that both State and local governments are faced with in these days of increasing demands on existing services and additional demands for new governmental services. Frankly, I have never been one who is attracted to the idea that if you throw enough money at a problem it will go away. This approach indeed is somewhat responsible for the fact that the Federal Government does not have available revenue to share — it only has increasing Federal deficits. We just raised the Federal debt ceiling by $35-billion. Our debt now is over $400-billion — greater than it has ever been. We have had one deficit on top of another.

The financial problems of State and local governments require more than a hand-out of Federal funds. They require sound and well thought-out legislation under which the Federal Government in partnership with State governments and city governments can determine priorities among programs and purposes, and fund such programs on a rational basis.

It is ludicrous to claim that those of us who oppose revenue sharing have no appreciation for the needs to which revenue sharing would be directed; nothing could be further from the truth. It is my belief that the 92nd Congress will be responsive to those needs, as is indicated by the social security and welfare amendments, to which I referred earlier, and the other measures being developed and considered in the Congress.

Progress in this area cannot come from warmed-over proposals that were developed at a time when it was assumed that the Federal Government would have a surplus of revenue. Progress in meeting the needs of State and local governments can come from two sources. One source is well thought-out legislation which is sensitive to the divergent factors which affect the financial resources of any community. The second and most important source is enlightened State and local officials who have the foresight to plan programs responsive to the needs of the people and the political fortitude to find the financial resources with which such programs can be financed. By its own record, this Assembly is doing just that.
